

Robert E. Hannegan Dies in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6 (AP)—Robert E. Hannegan, former postmaster general and one-time owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, died today at his home here.

He had been in failing health for some time. His wife was at his bedside.

Hannegan, who was only 46, gave his health as the reason for selling his interest in the Cardinals last winter.

Hannegan retired as postmaster general in November, 1947, to head a syndicate buying the St. Louis baseball club. He also had served as chairman of the National Democratic committee and directed the party's 1944 presidential campaign.

Revenue Collector
Before that he was collector of internal revenue, serving in that post until he was named postmaster general by President Truman in 1945.

A prominent Catholic, Hannegan was made a Knight of St. Gregory, Grand Order of the Holy Cross, by Pope Pius XII in 1946.

Hannegan's last public appearance was at Kansas City last Thursday, at a testimonial dinner for William M. Boyle Jr., new chairman of the democratic national committee, President Truman attended, and in his talk noted that Hannegan "had something to do" with Truman's becoming president.

Lack of Sheep Herders Cuts Meat Supply

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Unless more "Little Boy Blues" start watching the sheep, Americans may go to the butcher shop one of these days and find there is no such thing any more as lamb chops and mutton.

A shortage of sheep herders already has pulled supplies of lamb and mutton down to the point where consumption is perhaps the smallest since early Colonial days.

Why Herders Quit
What's responsible for the shortage of sheep herders? The agriculture department said in a report today that better opportunities in other types of farming and in industry are luring sheep men from their "lonesome and often low-paying occupation."

The cold facts show that output of lamb and mutton meat has declined from 1,104,000,000 pounds in 1943 to 600,000,000 pounds this year. There were only 32,000,000 head of sheep and lambs on farms the first of this year. In 1867, the first year of annual records, and when the nation's population was only one-fourth its present size, there were 46,000,000 head.

Outlook?
What's the outlook for sheep in the future?

Not good, the department said: "With the wealth of resources in this country and generally high rewards to labor, it is likely," the department said, "that sheep herders will remain comparatively scarce except in times of economic depression."

Sheep raising started as a frontier occupation. It followed the advance of the frontier, pushing westward from the Atlantic, and later eastward from the Pacific. Its movement was generally into lands that were less well adapted to other types of farming.

Since there are no more frontiers—and land must bring its highest possible financial return—the future of sheep raising is not bright, the department said.

Federal Aid Has Schackles, States Warned

PORTLAND, Oct. 6 (AP)—States have too little money and too much federal interference, delegates to the council of state governments were told at the closing session of the Western Regional meeting yesterday.

Every additional federal grant of aid to the states "ties them tighter to the federal wheel," Alvin H. Reading, Idaho budget director, said.
Frank Bane, the council's executive director, also noted federal effects in pointing out that a decade ago the federal government took one-half of all taxes and now takes two-thirds. Since the war, federal aid to states has doubled, he said, and this brings about more federal control. States should be more self-reliant, he said.

Spud Festival Float Entries Should Be In

MERRILL—Bob Barry, chairman of the Potato Festival parade, is desirous of knowing which organizations, business firms or private individuals are planning to enter a float in the parade to be held Saturday morning, October 22.

It is necessary to know as soon as possible just how many entries there will be so that preparations for the big event can be completed. Information can be obtained by calling Mrs. June Bower at festival headquarters, telephone 8401.
Parade judges will be Governor Douglas McKay, J. H. VanWinkle of Oregon City, and Con Fitzgerald of Lakeview.
Working with Barry on the parade committee are Dr. F. E. Trotman, Rev. James O'Connor, James Hammond and Glenn Haskins.
