

Sallies... by SALLY

Merryman, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Barnhise and Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Addison.

Because the kids were out of school during institute, the grownups were joined by the three young Gerbers, Margaret and Marilyn, the twins, and Sylvia, and by Peter and Sally Barnhise and Mary Margaret Addison. The Merrymans returned to town the middle of the week.

The Gerber ranch house is going up in fine style, replacing the old place which burned this summer. And in addition, there is going to be a swimming pool in the front yard ready for use this summer.

Mrs. Otto Erlanson just returned from a month of visiting in the middle west with her son and daughter and their families. Daughter Mariys and her husband Bob Ervin are living in Iowa City with their new baby girl. While Mrs. Erlanson was visiting with them, Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Erlanson and family stopped en route to Nebraska, where they now reside.

Wilber Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Dexter Elliott, 1949 graduate of Klamath Union high school, is keeping busy since he entered the University of Washington. He has pledged Beta Theta Pi social fraternity on the campus; and is doing some tenor solo work at the Methodist church in Seattle. Wilber is majoring in music.

Here are the rules if you want to be a school fire chief. Remember—National Fire Prevention Week is just around the corner. 1. Must have good grades. 2. Must be clean and honest. 3. Must believe in God. 4. Must believe in the American way of life. 5. Shall not play with matches.

The appearance of actress-singer Gale Page here next week will be her last for a while. After the 20-30 Club show on Monday, she will conclude her Northwest tour and return to San Fernando, Calif. for the birth of her fifth child. She and her husband, Solito de Solis, her accompanist, now have three boys and a girl.

WOMAN OF THE WEEK is Mrs. Addie May Nixon, who is head librarian at the city library.

Woman of The Week Keeps Busy

A sparkling sense of humor keynotes the personality of Addie May Nixon, our "Woman of the Week." Mrs. Nixon (Mrs. Jack A. Nixon, to be exact) does not believe, although she is head librarian of the city library, it is necessary to speak in a whisper in the sanctuary of books because, as she says, "speaking in a normal tone of voice is more refreshing." She does not frown on the rattling of papers in the library, either, so if you have the idea that librarians are just walking volumes, you should get to know Mrs. Nixon.

Her 23 years of experience in library work more than qualifies Addie May Nixon for the position as head librarian, a post she has held for the past year. She began her career in Denver, studying at the University of Denver, and was employed by the city library there until she joined the staff of the Klamath Falls library eight years ago.

In addition to her regular duties, Mrs. Nixon has a weekly program on KPJI called "Story Time," which delights children, and she often visits the classrooms to teach students about library procedure. She also frequently conducts classes through the library to give the children a practical demonstration of filing systems. To her duties, she has recently added a weekly column of best sellers for The Herald and News.

With all of her activities, Mrs. Nixon keeps her jolly spirit and helpful attitude.

Early December Chosen by Bride

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Landrum, 3734 Derby street, announced the engagement of their daughter Diane, this week.

Miss Landrum will marry Donald F. Ferguson son of Mrs. Minnie Isaksen of Seattle, in early December.

The bride-to-be is a 1943 graduate of Klamath Union high school, and Mr. Ferguson graduated in 1940. He served several years in the navy following high school and is now employed at Swan Lake Moulding company.

The Peace Memorial Presbyterian church has been chosen by the bride for the scene of the wedding.

Twyla Ferguson Speaker at Tea

Indicative of the interest with which Klamath Falls women have been waiting to hear Mrs. Twyla Ferguson's talk was the large crowd which met in the library club room Saturday on the occasion of the League of Women Voters silver tea.

Mrs. Ferguson's remarks were based around "Women's Opportunity in the International Scene," and second only to being able to personally take the trip was the chance to follow her account of her well planned and conducted tour through most of the large European centers.

These trips are an annual event with Dr. Alfred Fisk, professor of philosophy in the San Francisco State college and Mrs. Ferguson said that his summer philosophy seemed to be never to walk where one could run or "lope," which seems to be borne out by the extensive territory covered in the short space of time allotted to the tour.

The speaker took her audience from New York through Europe, and even behind the Iron Curtain for a brief time. In Linz, Germany, she had the pleasure of a birthday dinner with Carolyn Collier, daughter of the Andrew Colliers, and in Geneva another home contact was with the Ray Bests. The fact that Mrs. Ferguson was kept busy answering questions after she had concluded her talk gave evidence of her audience's interest.

Many expressed the hope that she would give more of her experiences at some other time. Such close personal touch with overseas brings the purposes and aims of the league very close.

The first of a series of 11 regional conferences to train leaders of the league in ways to arouse voters to accept party responsibility was opened in Washington, D. C. on October 4. Mrs. John Yaden, junior past president and Mrs. Paul Buck, president, and Mrs. A. Karlson, delegate, are en route to Portland to attend the regional conference held in that city October 6 and 7. A conference quiz on politics called "What's the U. S. to You?" prepared by a league member of Stamford, Conn., will furnish the keynote of the league's campaign carried on through these regional conferences of which Portland's is the second.

The league will urge as preparation for the coming election in 1950 all members to take part in party activities, particularly at the primary level, and will attempt to give them a background to take part intelligently.

"How to get more and better informed voters out to the polls" and "how to get the best possible candidates nominated for office" are two of the 864 questions which our delegates hope to have answered at this conference. However, the league has always been non-partisan and will remain so. Its aim is to get people to take part in government. In the receiving line welcoming Everett Dennis and Mrs. John Yaden, and pouring at the tea table were Mrs. Paul Buck, Mrs. Arnold Gralapp, Mrs. A. Karlson, Mrs. Everett Dennis and Mrs. John Yaden, and pouring at the tea table were Mrs. Paul Buck, Mrs. Arnold
