Everybody Has Club In Capital

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Are you interested in ice cream, paving bricks, soy flour, trees, scrap iron, apples, facing tile or shortening and edible oils? Are you an attorney general, state aviation official, label manufacturer, dandy wholesaler, special delivery messenger, mayor, silver user, steering car porter, or just retired? Do you oppose cigarette smoking or alcoholic drinks? Do you favor them?

Whatever you do or don't do or like or don't like, the nation's capital has an organization office or headquarters aimed at helping you do it or not do it. All outside of the government, too. The telephone classified directory fills 11 columns with listings under associations, starting with AAA (the American Automobile association) and ending with Zionist Organizations of America.

Big Outfit
The chamber of commerce of the United States, whose staff of 250 probably is the largest among the groups listed, reports 264 trade associations headquartered in Washington. There is even an Association for Trade Association Executives.

Industry associations fall in another group, representing broad fields such as railroads, airlines, ship owners, manufacturers, bakers, truckers and canners. And there are associations representing elements within an industry such as the shortline railroads, glass container makers, independent air carriers, waterways operators.

There is a National Apple institute and American Ladder institute and an American Tree association; but no formal body of apple pollinators, people who avoid ladders, or who walk dogs.

Mayors, letter carriers, taxpayers, special policemen, field artillerymen, postmasters, school principals, railroad and utilities "naval officers from the ranks," commissioners, attorneys general, and third-class mail users have their associations.

There is an Anti-Cigarette alliance and the Associated Tobacco Manufacturers, and the Repeal associates and the Temperance League. There is a National Safety Drivers association; also the National Wooden Box and National Cemetery associations.

Small fry might join up with the Ice Cream Mix association or the National Candy Wholesalers association, while the rest of us try to find a friend in the National Association of Credit Men.

INSURANCE COUNSELOR

QUESTION:
Is there any kind of insurance which covers parents' legal liability for damage caused by a boy while riding his bicycle? A little neighbor boy rode out of his driveway and ran into a woman who was passing by. The boy's parents offered to pay the minor medical bills but the injured woman, whose nephew is an attorney, has brought suit for large damages.

ANSWER:
This case is another in which Comprehensive Personal Liability insurance would give full protection. Not only would the insurance company cover the insured's legal liability up to the face amount of the policy, it would also defend the suit against him, saving him great expense. The small premium for this type of insurance is well spent.

HIGH SCHOOL News and Comments

By Flo Ann Perkins

For a larger squad the remaining cost would have to be split among the group. These two amendments will be put to a student body vote within the next two weeks. However, to become effective they must pass a two-thirds vote.

A new plan for an organization of "student counselors" was presented at the last Parents and Patrons meeting. The purpose of the group would be to promote conduct about reproach at all times by these student counselors. As yet the plan is only proposed, not put into effect.

Wrestling Coach Loren Simons was surprised recently to receive a letter from a boy in Tokyo, Japan. The boy, Al Calin, explained he was going to school in Tokyo while his father was with the occupation forces there.

Someone had sent him a copy of the 1949 wrestling guide and he had noticed the KUHS wrestling team won the state championship. He himself was quite interested in wrestling and was teaching a little group of Japanese the American form of wrestling in return for lessons in judo and sumo from them.

He explained that his father would settle in southeastern Oregon when he returned to the U.S., and he was interested in the KUHS wrestling team.

The Student Congress, composed of representatives from each home room, last week approved putting two amendments to the KUHS constitution in regard to the rally squad to a student body vote.

One amendment deals with the method of selecting the rally squad, which in the past has been up to the old and new yell leaders and the old rally squad. The amendment provides that a special committee composed of students and faculty select a list of fifteen candidates and the student body select the yell squad from this list. The other amendment makes the rally squad sponsored by the school in that expenses for the group would be paid by the school for a squad not to exceed seven members.

It's Your Home Cold Comes in the Window

By BOB SCHARFF
Just about the worst heat loss offenders in your home are the windows and doors. Therefore the best heat-savers that can be had are storm windows and doors.

The storm sash makes a dead air-pocket between itself and the regular windows, which will reduce heat loss by as much as two-thirds. But their efficiency depends entirely upon how well they are made and fitted.

If you can afford only a few sashes, install them on the sides of the house exposed to prevailing winter winds.

Almost all window sash is of standard size and storm sash to fit is a stock item with the average lumber dealer. Usually all you'll have to do is saw off the corners at the bottom, and bevel the bottom to fit the sill and the top to shed water.

Paint with two coats of white lead and oil or high grade outside paint. Otherwise the wood is apt to swell because of the absorption of moisture.

A storm sash may be hung from a simple galvanized hook arrangement (which can also be used for supporting the window screens), or it may be held in place with wing catches applied to the outside surface of the frame.

A ventilator with a sliding plate should be placed at the bottom of bathroom and bedroom storm sash to permit ventilation without opening the sash and prevent frost.

forming on the storm sash. If you want to be able to open and close the storm sash, an adjuster should be used for best results. Mark window jambs and storm sash with corresponding numbers to aid all future installation.
