Smart Dress-Suits

The shine of metallic threads or the glitter of jewels make new cocktail suits shine like glow worms after dark. Many of these so-called suits are actually one-piece dresses with a two-piece look. Imported antique gold croquignole taffeta—crinkled taffeta which achieves its metallic sheen from a weaving process of crossing black threads with gold—makes a dress that passes for a suit (left). Styled by Pauline Triggere, winner of the 1949 Fashion Critics' award, this smart dress has a straight skirt flounced by a pleated peplum, stand-up collar and three-quarter-length sleeves. Make-believe sapphires set in gold glitter like real jewels from a cocktail suit of stone blue tulle (right). The notched hipline jacket of this design, which is buttoned up with these "jewels," has a draped cowl collar and a neckline bow. The skirt is circular.

'Enough Is Enough,' Said Author Janney

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—For seven and one-half wearying months, Author Russel Janney sat on the jury in the communist conspiracy trial. Last Friday the trial ended. Janney went home, and found waiting for him — a summons to serve on another jury. "Enough," said Janney, "is enough." He called his lawyer who said Janney, author of "The Miracle of the Bell," probably could get excused.

Tempus Fugit

but not for the "lady in waiting." You lucky mothers-to-be who are expecting your own little rosebud before the flowers bloom again are no doubt dreading the long winter months ahead... especially the holiday season, when everyone else is decked out in holiday finery and you are beginning to notice that your wasteline is not what it used to be. Quit feeling sorry for yourselves, girls... the time will really fly if you can forget your figure and have fun. You can be as well dressed as your less fortunate friends because WHYTAL'S has a lovely surprise for you. It's maternity dresses that look like anything else but, to be slightly slangy, we saw a teen-ager exclaim over a cute little wool number and look disappointed when informed that it was not designed for her. And how lucky you are that we are now in the style era of boxy jackets, full graceful skirts and inverted front pleats. All the style features are incorporated in the maternity frocks just arrived at WHYTAL'S. One of the smartest styles is of black taffeta with velvet dots, a very fashionable fabric this season... the semi-plunging neckline has a wide collar and the full skirt has a huge pocket on each side of the front. The hidden elastic waistband is the only feature to distinguish the dress from any of the season's finest. It's the one to wear to that party, bridge game or luncheon in delightful concealment. For a casual, warm winter dress, the one the teen-ager admired is tops. Plaid wool in green, yellow and gray or green, rust and gray with smart green and gold buttons marching down the front and square, side-opening pockets. It also has the hidden elastic waistband. Forever fashionable faille is used in another designer's model... but what beautiful shades... cocoa tan, or taupe, if you will, and a gorgeous shade of teal that hasn't been used for many seasons. In either color the dress is beautiful. The double fly shirtwaist front is closed with gold colored, brilliant studded hooks and eyes, the skirt is centered in a double, unpressed inverted pleat and a stand-up mandarin collar completes the smart detail. Of all four unmatchable models, our favorite... and one you simply can't do without during the holiday whirl... is the cocktail dress with a boxy jacket. The dress alone, with its pastel top studded with brilliant, roll collar, cap sleeves and front fullness skirt will command compliments at a party... add the button trimmed, pocketed long sleeve jacket for a smart shopping ensemble. There is a choice of brown crepe with beige blouse top, or black combined with aqua. The size range is from 10 to 18... the price amazingly reasonable for the newest, smartest, most comfortable maternity dresses ever designed for you who will be a mater... later. Don't forget to see the maternity skirts and smocks for "at home" wear at WHYTAL'S, too. You'll feel fresh as a daisy, neat as a pin... and win a kiss of approval from the father-to-be. So here's to you... and yours to come. Enjoy each day of anticipation secure in the thought that you will look your loveliest in an outfit designed with you... and yours... in mind. Tempus fugit... so see them soon at 901 Main street.

Do You Know

It actually costs no more to have custom-covered furniture? You may be willing to pay more for a new sofa covered in the fabric of your choice than to take one from the floor that's not quite to your liking... but it just isn't NECESSARY. At SULLIVAN'S you may choose a chair or sofa from the many furniture styles at your command, then see their collection of upholstery fabric swatches for the material to blend or contrast with your rugs or draperies. You will find it hard to make a decision, there are so many fabrics available... linens, friezes, tapestries, brochatelles, mattilases, corduroy, antique and plain velvets, early American plushes and needlepoint friezes... so consult with them. It is their business to help you decide the ideal fabric to suit your home and personality. Don't overlook the printed cottons and linens beautifully designed for sculptured quilting. An example of this unusual type of quilting is to be seen in SULLIVAN'S window display... a sofa covered with huge roses in shades of red from pink to magenta on a seafoam green background with the roses outlined in quilting. Custom covered bedheads and boudoir pieces are other achievements of the "miracle workers" at SULLIVAN'S. See the floor samples for hints that will make your bedroom a dream room. All it takes is an idea at SULLIVAN'S... while discussing the art of converting articles into lamp bases, we casually mentioned a long discarded saxophone. Immediately their quick imaginations dreamed up a parchment shade with half-notes sprinkled on it and a base from which the sax could be removed for a jam session. It would be interesting to see what they would do with an old Model T. If you have an idea for personalizing your home decoration take it to 413 Main street. SULLIVAN'S.

So Very Social

yet so very sensible. Are the budget minded "late date" dresses at LA POINTE'S, where you always find high fashion without high finance. Call them day length dance dresses, cocktail hour frocks, or whatever... they are the ones you'll wear in your fun hours from daylight through twilight and the last dance of a Saturday at the club... the short evening dress makes a happy medium for the five o'clock cocktail hour or the versatile night life. For instance, the black taffeta bolero dress, one of many in the under $20 group. It has that special young look, that uncluttered "skip the gingerbread, please" look that suits the budgeted but brushed and sparkling college girl like her own personality. Simply, smartly fashioned with a lace over light blue bodice cuff below pencil thick shoulder straps... add the bolero and it's ideal for late daylight hours. In step with the brisk tempo of the dinner dancing hours, vivacious and vivid is the sulphur yellow and green plaid taffeta dance dress, outstanding in the under $30 group at LA POINTE'S. The sound of its full gathered skirt is the first sign of autumn fashion. Second to none in style is the attached stole across the back... the bare shoulder look in front. Versatile as a sense of humor is the gold taffeta bare shoulder frock with its black lace overskirt and matching stole of taffeta lined with black lace. It has a Castilian air and the stole may be used at the waistline as a cummerbund, in true Spanish style. Wear it at dinner with the stole caressing your bare shoulders... and dance to a rumba beat with it hugging your waist. In the over $35 group at LA POINTE'S. Talking of a pretty dress... this one will leave you speechless. The drama of black velvet is in the cuffed bodice. THREE skirts catch the breeze like a sail. The skirt proper is figure molding as a pink taffeta slip... then the fun flows... pale pink net next, topped with black net sprinkled with velvet cushion dots. There's a matching net stole for bewitching. The effect... waist hugging, soft and elegant. And for just slightly more than $35. LA POINTE'S has a new selection of dinner dresses for the mature woman, up to size 20, featuring black and navy lace and crepes. For the "career" or "young married" group there are lots of taffeta, lace and net dresses... minus the frilliness that is only for the teenager... just simply fashioned for sophistication. You'll be dining, dining and dancing in the dress you choose with a "what's money to me" look, at moderate prices. If you buy it at 507 Main street.

LA POINTE'S

Firelight And Candlelight

are cheerful companions of an evening when there's a chill in the outside air. But the glow of a candle spells hospitality and gaiety any time of year. So use them often... in a window to welcome a small wanderer home... on the dinner table to add a festive note... as an integral part of a flower arrangement. The ART CENTER has a hundred suggestions for candle accents in your home. Stop by soon to see the displays and read the story of the Bluegate candle. It is not a taper, but a fat, sturdy, safe candle that needs no candlestick for support. Bluegate candles are a product of a hobby that has grown since 1941 into a business serving seven countries outside of our own. They are hand molded in a shop near Half Moon Bay of wax tinted in 25 different colors. The color goes clear through and a variety of forms are featured... square, round, flat, oval, cone, star and moonshaped... as the candle burns the melted wax hardens to form flower-shaped petals on the upper outer rim. The translucent glow below the flame adds color depth to the scope of the flame. Sizes range from a three-inch "Mascot" to a 24-inch "Colonel" capable of burning 400 hours. Candles in exotic shades of chartreuse, deep green, pink, lavender, purple blue and red are used in the displays at the ART CENTER to accent aster and fall leaf arrangements, to highlight dinnerware color schemes and as companion pieces to huge platters and chop plates. You'll become a candlelight lover once you've seen the Bluegate candles at 1227 Main street, the ART CENTER.
