

Wife Laughs At Husband; He Kills Her

LEAVENWORTH, Wash., Oct. 20 (AP)—A young mother who looked at her estranged husband and laughed as he shot her down in front of a tavern here last night.

The victim, 20-year-old Dovey Whistman Stinnett, died on the sidewalk as her husband walked into the tavern, said "I've shot her" and gave himself up.

Prosecutor Robert E. Conner said the father, George Washington Stinnett, 28, confessed the shooting orally and later signed a statement in which he detailed the shooting. No charges have been filed.

Divorce Try
Conner said Stinnett had been trying to divorce his wife, charging her with mistreating their nine-month-old son. They were married last year in Idaho.

The prosecutor said Stinnett told him he was talking with an old man in front of the tavern when his estranged wife came by with her sister. She didn't speak to him, just looked at him and laughed.

He whipped out a .22 caliber revolver he had obtained from her brother and fired five bullets into her. Then he went into the tavern and gave himself up.

The couple had been separated since last May. Before the breakup, Stinnett had worked as a logger.

Conner said he was told that Stinnett was dishonorably discharged from the navy in 1944 after robbing a taxicab driver in Cairns, Australia. He now is on parole from a justice court conviction in Pendleton, Ore., for stealing articles from an automobile, he told the prosecutor.

Morse Proposes Education Boss

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (AP)—A bill to consolidate all government education activities in the office of education under a commissioner was proposed yesterday by Senator Morse (R-Ore).

The proposal would set up a board of 11 members, each to serve for 11 years, and an $18,000 a year salary for the commissioner.

He said the board would be empowered with control and supervision of the policies and program of the office of education. Members would not be paid but would be reimbursed for their expenses in attending meetings.
