

Senators Debate New Farm Bill's Effects

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Congressional passage of new farm legislation has cleared the way for a 1950 agricultural program embracing (1) high level price supports and (2) production controls for basic crops.

But for some products not subject to government controls, a reduction in price guarantees appeared likely.

Approval by President Truman of the new legislation, permitting continuance indefinitely of price supports at or near wartime levels, was taken for granted.

The bill finally whipped through congress on the last day of the session. The vote in the house was 175 to 74 and in the senate it was 46 to 34.

Criticism
Just before passage there was some criticism of the measure as unfair to consumers.

Senator Ives (R-NY), one of the losing seven in the senate vote, said there was not a member who regards the bill as fair to both consumers and farmers. Rep. Fulton (R-Pa), from Pittsburgh, suggested that perhaps Santa Claus had a part in drafting the bill.

Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) argued on the other side that farmers have never demanded excessive economic support and would not get it under the new program. Rep. Cooley (D-NC) called it "a bill to give America a stable economy."

Senator Aiken (R-Vt) said the bill would encourage farmers to shift from basic crops, of which the country now has a surplus, to dairy-livestock and a "balanced agriculture."

Unusual
His statement to the press was unusual in that it constituted an open disagreement with a member of the royal family, usually criticized only by communists and a very small group of British anti-royalists, and then only rarely.

The princess' statement was the strongest ever made by modern British royalty about specific sociological problems. Deploring what she called falling moral standards here, she told a British mothers' union rally Tuesday that "divorces and separations are responsible for some of the darkest evils of our society."

Not Responsible
Pollard said that "divorce and separation are not themselves responsible for the evils she refers to."

"It is the causes, such as inadequate housing, unstable partners, which lead to the breakup of marriages and are responsible for some of the bad effects to which the princess referred."

Buckingham palace had no comment on Pollard's statement.

Rain Needed For Power

TACOMA, Oct. 21 (AP)—Maybe you like these crisp cold mornings, but the Northwest utilities conference committee thinks we should be having some rain.

"The power situation in the Northwest today is in a delicate balance," the committee said yesterday. "Lack of rain... may demand sharp curtailment in the use of electricity around the clock."

Even if the upper Columbia river gets a normal amount of rain, the committee warned, the winter's power problems will be, at best, a tight squeak.

Broadway Thrush Says We Have Many Types of Blues

By MARK BARRON
NEW YORK — She is a blues singer who even succeeds sometimes into getting "happy talk" into those low and melancholy notes which characterize her songs of walls and spirituals. Juanita Hall, who scores such a success with her romantic "Ball Ha!" ("Here I Am") ballad in the Broadway musical "South Pacific," says that blues don't have to be sad.

She was sitting in a nook at one of Producer Jean Dalrymple's tea-and-crumpet shindigs. Her eyes grew reflective as she said, "I think the late Bessie Smith was the greatest singing artist who ever lived and I learned so much from her. She taught me that blues don't have to be sad, that is necessarily so sad. There can be happy blues. There can be comedy blues to the point of slapstick, and what else is 'Open the Door, Richard'?"
