

Boivin May Be Demo Congressional Choice

By Hale Scarborough
After hearing the sagebrush of Eastern Oregon for seven days, W. L. (Les) Josalin, Oregon democratic chairman, returned to Portland yesterday to reveal he had turned up several possible candidates for congress from the big second district.

He named six, among them Harry D. Boivin of Klamath Falls, but Boivin, when questioned about his attentions, said he had been talked of as a possible democratic candidate for congress but had no concrete plans in that direction.

Hope
Josalin's trip through the 2nd district avowedly was aimed at finding a democrat to run against republican Lowell Stockman, who has been congressman for four terms. He reported that Eastern Oregon democrats are "beginning to believe they can elect a congressman there."

He declared he had never before "found so much enthusiasm on the part of the democrats of the district."

In addition to Boivin, Josalin said he considered as potential congressional candidates Henry L. Hess, La Grande, a U. S. attorney for the Oregon district; E. B. Aldrich, publisher of the Pendleton East Oregonian; Nadine Strayer of Baker; Hugh Bowman, former Pendleton mayor; and Celia Gavin, The Dalles.

'Big' Wreck, Siren Wails, Newsmen Rally

By WALLACE MYERS
Minor cause and multiple effect of that screaming siren that shattered Klamath Falls nerves about seven last evening:

Minor cause—A Southern Pacific railway derailment, midway between Barclay Springs and Ouxy. A "hot box" caused one pair of trucks on a freight car of a south-bound train to jump the track. The siren was summoning a wreck crew.

Multiple effect—This reporter and Herald-News Sports Editor Red Hurd were manning the Herald-News newsroom while regular night man Dave Underhill was out for dinner.

Phone Flood
Scant seconds after the wailing of the siren had ceased the battery of newsroom phones began jangling.

"What in tarnation has busted loose," was the typical query of one of the constant phoners.

Manning two phones each, Red and I finally managed to get in a few outgoing calls but could ascertain only that there was some kind of a rail wreck "near Ouxy."

(SP later reported that during those same hectic minutes their phone switchboard was also swamped with calls.)

Herald-News Reporter Hale Scarborough arrived and took over the newsroom so Red and I could get to the "wreck."

High on the steep highway 97 bluff near Ouxy, we spied the lights of a standing locomotive on the lake-side tracks far below.

There was no sign of life or activity and nothing appeared amiss. However, we had to get the story and Red jockeyed his car to a hair-raising perch off the road on the lip of a precipice.

Down, Down
Slipping and sliding our way down the almost sheer, boulder-strewn and bramble entangled hill, Red gashed his hand on a rock and I, whooping when a bounding rock hit my foot, propelled my loose bridgework out of my mouth into the rough darkness.

We were finally blocked, some 20 feet short of the railway tracks, by a pecky fence but a railroad came walking down the track and answered our yells. We learned the minor nature of the "wreck" and disgustingly began our climb back to the road.

Found!
I had practically given my bridgework up for lost but when we came to the approximate spot, the red-head insisted on having a look. After his second or third match, he suddenly yipped:

"Either a kopher is grinning out of his hole at me or I've found the teeth." Miraculously, it was crockery chompers and we continued our climb to the car.

Back in the Herald and News newsroom, we found that City Editor Lois Stewart and Photographer Wes Guderian had also answered the siren's call.

Day's End
So five weary newspaper workers kidded a bit and went their several ways. Another "big" story had been "strapped up."

Alumni of Oretch Plan Organization
OTI—Plans have been announced for formation of an Oregon Tech Alumni association by Joe Darnell, Astoria alumnus, and John Howard, faculty advisor.

Letters are now in the mail to all alumni explaining more fully the association. In addition, alumni will receive the proposed constitution and a ballot for voting on the plan.

Included in plans is the printing of an Oregon Tech Alumni bulletin on the OTI campus. Howard was appointed faculty advisor to work on the project by Director Winston D. Purvine.

Estate Valued At $12,000

The estate of the late Edward Bloomingcamp, who was born at Bogus in the Topsy grade country about 80 years ago, is tentatively valued at $12,000, according to probate filings.

Mr. Bloomingcamp died October 9 leaving a will dated April 19 of this year. Three brothers, three sisters and a niece are listed as heirs.

L. Orth Sismore is attorney for the estate.

Death Claims Henry Sarles Of Lakeview

LAKEVIEW — Henry U. Sarles, one of Lake county's best known and most respected citizens, died in Lakeview Sunday, October 23, following a lingering illness. Born August 22, 1900, at Rockwood, Colo., Mr. Sarles was 49 years, two months and one day of age.

Mr. Sarles had made his home in Lakeview for 23 1/2 years, employed as administrative assistant with the Fremont National forest. A veteran of World War I, he was a member of the American Legion, and he also belonged to Rotary club and the Presbyterian church.

Funeral services were conducted from the Methodist church here at 9 a. m. Tuesday, October 25, with Dr. H. N. Tragitt, pastor of St. Luke's Episcopal church, officiating. The service was directed by Ousley-Osterman. Interment was in the Odd Fellows cemetery at The Dalles on Wednesday, October 26, at 11:30 a. m.

Two Arrested On Hood River Larceny Count

Two Yuba City, Calif., men were arrested by state police here yesterday afternoon on warrants from Hood River charging them with larceny.

The men, Edward Washington Webb, 41, and Chris Alfred Jensen, 29, reportedly stole two tires and wheels off a trailer at Hood River. The tires were in their car when they were stopped on highway 97 and Jensen drove north last night with a state patrolman and pointed out where the wheels had been cached behind a log three miles south of the Deschutes county line.

Sheriff R. L. Gilmore of Hood River notified Sheriff Jack Franey here of the theft yesterday and said Webb and Jensen were suspected. Sheriff Franey passed the information on to state police and a patrolman spotted the two men on the highway.

Prosecution Of Woodrum Nears End

Prosecution testimony in the trial of Virgil B. Woodrum, indicted on a minor morals charge, was virtually all in early this afternoon.

Woodrum, a Klamath Falls brickyard employe, is being tried in circuit court on the second of two indictments, charging him with indecent exposure. He was acquitted of the first charge earlier in the week.

June Incident
The current trial regards an alleged incident on June 17 when a 17-year-old girl accused Woodrum of exposing himself to her of S. 6th near Summers lane. At the time she was on horseback and the man she identifies as Woodrum was sitting in a parked car.

The girl was on the witness stand yesterday afternoon.

This morning police officers who took part in the subsequent investigation and arrest of Woodrum gave their testimony.

Jurors hearing the trial are Cecil P. Drew, Jack Schulze, Joe Fales, Will Blackman, Howard Davis, Julian R. Abbott, Fred E. French, J. S. Lageson, E. B. Born, H. F. Ezell, Virgil Davis and John Sandmeyer.

Important Community Chest Meeting Called

A meeting that has every indication of resulting in the most important session ever staged in connection with the Klamath County Community Chest has been called for 7:30 on the evening of Tuesday, November 1, in the auditorium of the Klamath Union high school. It was announced this morning by Chester H. Hamaker, chairman of the current $65,341 Chest campaign.

Personal invitations to attend the assembly have been mailed to the chief executives of approximately 500 business, industrial and professional firms of Klamath county in addition to the heads of all public offices in the area.

Principal speaker at the meeting of Klamath county executives will be Frank Jenkins, publisher of The Herald and News. Campaign officials have stated that the meeting will be held to the minimum of time that the urgent importance of the session will permit.

In addition to a general discussion of the Community Chest and its participating agencies and what the federated type of campaign means to the area, the meeting Tuesday evening will also serve as the general "kick-off" of the various "unit" divisions of the 1949 appeal.

Chairman Hamaker explained that the term "unit" is applied to all firms in the community with five or more employes. "These firms are grouped into divisions according to the type of industry or business and each firm is considered a separate unit in the campaign," Hamaker reported.

A. J. McDonald, president of the Klamath County Community Chest, has pointed out that the chest this year is in a "vulnerable" position. "We have adopted an 'open door' policy and have invited worthy causes to join with us, thus attempting to reduce the number of campaigns to be run each year in our county," McDonald declared.

"We have also exercised rigid economy and have cut the operating expenses of each of the participating agencies to the very bone. Still, with the addition of three new agencies dealing in programs for the youth of our county in the past year, we have had to set our campaign goal at an absolute minimum of $65,341.

"This goal is considerably more than was actually produced in the 1948 Chest campaign and it is going to take the whole-hearted cooperation of everyone in the county to guarantee the success for the campaign which we must have this year," the Chest president explained.

Two Drivers Arrested After Crash

The drivers of two automobiles involved yesterday morning in a three-car traffic accident on the 5th viaduct were arrested after investigation of the crash and are due in municipal court tomorrow morning on charges of violation of the basic rule.

Ronald Nystrom, 37, 904 Victory drive, and Leonard Scott, 26, 1314 Dayton, each posted $25 bail.

Mrs. Dorothy M. Ryan, 33, charge nurse at Klamath Valley hospital, was painfully injured in the crash.

Conrad Ryan has stopped his car on the viaduct when a locomotive below sent up a cloud of steam obscuring the traffic lane. Scott's car hit the back end of Ryan's vehicle and a few moments later Nystrom's car drove into the rear of Scott's machine. The impact shoved the first vehicles together, catching Mrs. Ryan between.

Dance Ducats Going Fast

The annual Klamath Falls Shrine club benefit dance promises to be one of the biggest affairs of the fall, as tickets were going fast today for the dance Saturday night at the armory.

All proceeds will go to the Shrine hospital charities. The public is invited to attend the dance.

Volleyball Meet Tonight, 7:30

For all men interested in volleyball, the recreation department is calling a meeting tonight at 7:30 in the council chambers to determine and advisability of setting up a league for tournament play.

OTI Needs Duck, Goose Wings!

OTI — Duck and goose wings, certainly useless to most hunters, are needed for fly tying by the sports repair class at Oregon Tech.

The class would appreciate it if hunters will call $121, extension 46 if they have bird wings to give. Class members will pick them up immediately.

City Winter Arts, Craft Work Ready

The city recreation department's winter arts and crafts program is all set to roll beginning Monday, October 31.

The program will consist of classes held evenings from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. in the art room of Fremont school. The back door at Fremont will be open for entrance to classes.

Class schedule is as follows: Monday, photo tinting, under the direction of A. K. Downs; Wednesday, oil painting directed by Mrs. Marie Cone; Thursday, stencil textile, Mrs. Lola Burnett; Friday, free-hand textile, Mrs. Cone.

Registration fee is $10 for the 10-week course. If possible, registration should be made at the recreation office in the city hall, but those interested may enroll at the classes.

Local Group Plans Trip To Brookings

About 60 people from Klamath Falls, Merrill, Tulelake, Malin and Bonanza will trek to the coast Saturday to participate in the charter night of a new chapter of the SPEHSQSA at Brookings. The entire Klamath Falls Barbershop chorus, and two quartets will furnish most of the musical program for the event. A number of the chorus members will be accompanied on the trip by their wives.

A considerable number of the party will leave today in order to stop at Grants Pass en route and see the football game between the Pelicans and the Grants Pass team. These people will proceed on to Brookings Saturday over the Redwood highway.

The chorus will be under the direction of John Houston, who will also act as master of ceremonies for the entire event. House Bros. and the Eagle Four will be on hand. Participating in the program will also be the Barbershoppers from Eugene and Eureka.

Some of the Klamath Falls party intend to do some fishing for steelhead trout before and after the party. Dr. Cecil Adams is particularly enthusiastic for this phase of the trip.

The Brookings manager has promised a buffet supper for all visitors.

got all about security and WENT AFTER IT. Many of them lost their scalps. Many LOST THEIR LIVES. But the risk didn't damp the bold spirits of those who felt the call of the heaver and the wealth that MAYBE lay at the end of the beaver trail.

And so it was when gold was found. The lure of it dragged men on through privation, hard work and often death. A few struck it rich. More failed to strike it rich. But they kept coming until the placer gold was scooped clean from the riffles.

Among them, they built what is now the West.

YOU'VE read in this and other newspapers and you've heard on the radio that AGAIN the bold spirits are trooping to Fishwheel, up on the Yukon. They come in planes now, but that is about the only difference.

I wonder what will happen to us as a people if we ever lose that spirit of adventure, that willingness to risk much to gain much, that readiness to take chances, and THINK OF NOTHING BUT SECURITY.

I fear that if such a time ever comes we will quit going forward as a nation and will begin to slip backward.
