SOYBEAN SALES HURT GRAINS

CHICAGO, Oct. 28 (AP)—A late sell-off in soybeans weakened the rest of the grain market today, repeating the pattern of the previous session. Soybeans lost a couple of cents on the drop. ## Stocks Make Slow Decline

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (AP)—The stock market went into a slow decline today after an early effort to rise.

Losses were small for the most part, a few running to more than a point, and a good many issues tacked on small gains.

Chrysler stood out with a raise of two points at one time, following an increased dividend and excellent earnings report.

A substantial amount of business was done, with turnover at the rate of around 1,500,000 shares for the full session.

Among the losers were U. S. Steel, Goodrich, Lockheed, Admiral Corp., Allied Chemical, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil (N.J.) and Paramount (old).

General Motors and Bethlehem Steel tended upward, with Woolworth, Douglas Aircraft, General Electric, Texas Co., and Loew's.

ed out to him, he consented to release the nuggets in the custody of the Fairbanks Newsmen.

"The nuggets, worth about $2, were sent to Fairbanks late Wednesday afternoon."

Now the scene shifts to Fairbanks. The glass vial containing the nuggets were examined by experts of the University of Alaska.

How? "Three of the nuggets are gold and one is brass," Ragle reported. "And one large and one small nugget appear to have been pocket or poke-worm for several months."

He explained that when transported in water, gold is rounded off but not polished. Pockets or poking wear off the secondary metal coating on the gold, and smooth and polish the surface.

Ragle also said two of the smaller nuggets were from entirely different vein sources and too delicately structured to have been transported any appreciable distance by the Yukon river, but could have been carried by ice.

He said nitric acid dissolved one of the small, sharp "nuggets" showing it to be not gold but brass, which is a combination of copper and zinc, a man-made alloy.

"This might have been filings from the housing of one of the old stern wheelers," the professor said, "though what it is doing on top of silt is hard to explain."

Ragle said he found one of the particles of brass contained grass roots which indicated the filing had been close to the surface and not in its environment very long. "Brass, like gold, tends to sink to bedrock," he said.
