

KFPA Reports 3 Week-end Forest Fires

Three fires were reported by the Klamath Forest Protective association this week-end according to manager, Hal Ogle. About 10 acres were burned Friday night and Saturday before the fire was brought under control in the area south of Camp Six.

In the Silver Lake area, about eight acres were burned yesterday but now under control. Ogle said men were still in that area now looking for the third fire which was spotted from the air yesterday but as yet, has not been reached on the ground.

Carelessness "Most of these fires are caused by carelessness of hunters," Ogle said. "To date, 102 fires have been recorded in the basin area which is almost double the usual number." No serious damage was reported from fires this week-end but the K.F.P.A. asks all hunters to use caution with fires.

Four Congress Seats at Stake; HST Takes Hand

(Continued From Page One) fifth California district, which they have held for about 40 years. The late Republican Rep. Richard J. Welch had won both party nominations since 1926. But here again labor is active, with the AFL offering a candidate from its own ranks in Democrat John F. Shelley. Shelley is opposed by Republican Lloyd Cosgrove on a ballot that doesn't carry party designations. Virginia Virginia is electing a governor in a race that doesn't have much outside interest. The politicians all expect Democratic State Senator John S. Battle to win handily over Republican Walter Johnson. However, local races in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Connecticut will be watched closely for possible 1950 trends. Involved are mayor's elections in Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Louisville and several cities in Connecticut.

THINK NOTHING OF IT — The driver piled up against the Great Northern overpass late Saturday night but injuries resulted in leg cuts. The car was demolished. The accident occurred near Henley when John Gara crashed and overturned his sedan.

IT REALLY HAPPENED — Vern Roberts, OTI student in auto mechanics, admired this lovely little blonde cocker puppy, "Honey," and sought to buy the pup for his four-year-old daughter, Tana Raye. The pedigreed puppy was beyond the OTI student's purse but Sunday the puppy was presented to a spectator at the Klamath Kennel club dog show and — you guessed it, Roberts got the dog. He accepted Honey with tears in his eyes. Roberts, left, hails from Grouse Creek, Utah. He is shown with W. P. Anderson, vice president of the club and donor of the puppy.

In The Day's News

(Continued From Page 1) SOMEBODY ELSE HAD WRITTEN. If I'm going to sit in a hard chair, squirming and twisting in an effort to adjust my bony structure to the chair's never very comfortable angles while I listen to somebody else spread pearls of wisdom before me, I want it to be something that he has dug up himself and which he himself believes and is saying it because he believes it. The speaker has all the fun and his hearers take all the grief. I think it is no more than fair that the speaker should have paid in mental sweat for the pleasure he gets out of listening to his own voice. Knowing too much, unfortunately, about the way modern oratory is put together, I wouldn't have crossed the street the other night to listen to the President read something somebody else had written. But crossing the street had nothing to do with it. I was listening to a hill-billy program during the dinner hour when the radio came to a rather abrupt stop and somebody announced that the President of the United States would speak during the ensuing period. That is how it all came about.

WASHINGTON had his never-frequent speeches written for him by somebody else, historians have failed to record it. I'm quite sure that in their great debates both Lincoln and Douglas wrote the words they uttered and I'm equally sure they believed what they were saying. We know that Lincoln wrote his Gettysburg speech — wrote it with his own hand on a scrap of paper while riding to Gettysburg in the hard seat of a railroad day coach. Those days are past. I have to concede that modern statesmen probably have no time to write speeches. Their time is taken up fully by the tasks of modern administration. I certainly don't criticize President Truman for doing what nearly everybody else in his place does. But I'm so old-fashioned as to prefer not to waste my time listening to somebody read a political speech whose over-all strategy was first determined by a board of experts who are supposed to know what people will fall for and what they won't, which was then researched by some hired scholars and finally written by some semantics sharp who doubtless didn't care a hoot one way or the other but was given the job because he was good at putting words together.

Pensions Setup Issue In Calif.

(Continued From Page One) and unassailable pensions are the just due of California's old people, and declare the opponents of the law are influenced by big business, railroads and other heavy taxpayers. Governor Earl Warren has already cast an absentee ballot for proposition No. 2 (favoring repeal of the administrative provisions and an ouster of Miss Williams). The governor's statement favoring No. 2 caused McLain to comment publicly that Warren apparently doesn't intend to run for re-election and that California pension groups now "wouldn't vote for Warren for dogcatcher." "Hit And Run" Warren cast an absentee ballot because he will be out of the state this week attending a Salt Lake City convention, and his leaving prompted McLain to dub him "hit-and-run Earl" in state-wide broadcasts. The balloting tomorrow is the first California state-wide special election since September, 1939, when "330 every Thursday" ham-and-egg pension proposal was defeated. Other Issues Outside of proposition No. 2, the other 11 items on the state ballot are innocuous enough: No. 1—Authorizes a $250,000,000 bond issue for school construction in financially distressed districts, but restricting expenditure of any of the funds for educational frills. No. 2—The pension fight. No. 3—Increases salaries of state legislators from $100 to $300 a month and raises per diem expenses from $10 to $15; restricts length of sessions and places limits on interim committees. No. 4 through No. 11—Technical amendments to remove deadwood

Stock Exchanges Closed Tomorrow

NEW YORK Nov. 7 (AP)—The country's stock exchanges including the New York stock and curb exchanges will be closed tomorrow, election day. Because the federal government will issue its monthly crop report tomorrow, the New York and New Orleans cotton exchanges will be open. The New York wool and produce exchanges also will remain open, while other New York commodity exchanges will close. Grain markets, including the Chicago board of trade, will be in operation. The department of agriculture will issue its livestock reports as usual.

Initial Dog Show Exceeds Expectations

Continued Klamath Falls: group 8 to 15, boys, Clarence Adams, Klamath Falls. Trophy for best handling in children's handling class won by David Bridges. Seventy dogs in wide breed classifications were groomed for the show to the last feather or sleek coat, depending on the animal. Owners came from Northern California and Rogue River valley points and competed with thoroughbred dogs of the Klamath basin. Appreciation was expressed by the Klamath Kennel club for the excellent response from townspeople. Riverside PTA members manned a booth where they served lunch throughout the day.

Homecoming Parade Floats Shape Up

OTT—Floats for the Homecoming parade are shaping up around the Oregon campus. All classes were asked to enter a class project of any size, shape or color, the only theme being Lassen vs. OTI. The commercial arts and silk screen classes have been rushed with all sorts of artistic labor to help turn out these different examples of class ideas. Prizes will be offered for the three most attractive ideas but funds for building will have to come out of student's pockets.

YOUTH COUNCIL

SALEM, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Oregon Christian Youth council ended its three-day convention here yesterday by electing Wallace Riches of Turner as its new president.
