Southern Cal Takes a Bow

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 11 (AP) — Southern California gave itself a pat on the back today—and coughed up a little water—after the biggest rainstorm since Christmas Day, 1946.

Farmers worried about their crops and foresters worried about fires welcomed the long-overdue rain, but it snarled traffic badly, interrupted some plane and electric service and washed into some hillside homes.

The storm brought 2.18 inches of rain to Los Angeles, raising the season total to 2.21. Last year at this time .09 had fallen. Normal is 1.1.

The Sahara desert is believed to be enlarging to the southward.
