Steel Firm, Union Agree On Pensions

WEIRTON, W. Va., Nov. 28 (AP) — Weirton Steel company and Weirton Independent union today announced agreement to a new joint-contributory insurance program.

The announcement said the 13,800 Weirton employees will get "greatly increased benefits at lower unit costs."

The company will pay 60 per cent of the cost and the individual employees 40 per cent for all types of coverage.

The cost to the employees was estimated at $5.40 a month, compared to $6.15 a month under the old plan.

Thomas E. Millson, president of the company, and Edward Ross, president of the union, said benefits of the plan "extend not only to members of the union but to all other employees, including members of management, at the Weirton, W. Va., and Steubenville (Ohio) plants of the company and to employees of all sales offices throughout the country."

The statement added: "The retirement annuity plan to which both employees and company contribute has been in operation since 1941. In connection with the retirement plan, there is a guarantee of minimum retirement benefits of $100 per month, including social security."

Weirton steel for years has had an independent union. The company worked at top speed during the recent eight-week strike of the CIO United Steelworkers against most of the industry's top basic producers.
