By DAVE UNDERHILL

Maybe the kids are apeing their elders, or perhaps they are being a little bit satirical about the whole thing. I don't know. But here's what happened on the "Juvenile Jury" program yesterday.

Gainsy, the kiddie program dog star, called a canine pal to inform him of the prizes he had won as the result of a nation-wide, month-long contest for dogs only.

UNDERHILL

And here is what the "lucky dog" won: A Crosley station wagon with plenty of "tail-room." Also included are a two-room dog-house complete with germ lamp, special mats and bedding; a swimming pool with a sliding board ramp and a fire hydrant; a five-day all-expense-paid tour of New York night spots for the dog and two of his two-legged pals; beauty treatments, dog food, and one can of flea powder.

Sometimes I wonder how we poor mortals can be so silly. Or is it, as I said before, the kids are wondering just how foolish we adults can be, and are using this means to put across their point. Might have something there. It is amazing sometimes just how observant and sharp-minded children can be.

I have a little sister—not so little now, I guess, for she is 16 years old—who is a good example of that. Perhaps it's because the kids' minds aren't yet clouded by the shadows of this cruel world of ours that they see things so clearly.

Wally Maher, who portrays "Lieutenant Riley" on the Mutual mystery program, "Let George Do It," had a run-in with another cop called Riley recently up in Boston. But it all came out peacefully after Lieutenant Riley did a lot of fast talking to Officer Riley.

Kind of confusing, but here is what happened:

Maher—Lieut. Riley that it—was on location with MGM in Boston for the production of "Mystery Street." Well, Maher, who plays the role of a city police plain clothes man in the picture, was sitting in a typical unmarked black sedan about a block from the actual shooting scene.

About this time the authentic Officer Riley wheels up on his motorcycle and orders him thusly "On your way, me fine bucko."

Quickly recognizing the Gaelic countenance of Officer Riley as one that could be reasoned with, Maher explains the situation and adds a brief rundown on his radio Riley role.

Well, like most Irish policemen, officer Riley is a good-natured fellow, and doesn't interfere with the picture shooting routine. In fact after that the two Rileys became good friends during the two weeks that Mather was in Boston. So you see it often pays to be friendly with an Irishman, especially when he's wearing a badge and uniform of blue.

Incidentally, Maher appears on "Let George Do It" on JI tonight at 8 o'clock.

Here's a short run-down on what's doing on ABC's "Bride and Groom" program appearing on LW daily at 2:30 p.m.

Tomorrow, United Air Lines Stewardess Barbara Vanderhoop brings her head out of the clouds long enough to marry United Air Lines Pilot Ronald Taylor. It seems they got so tired of standing each other up on dates they decided to stand up before the altar and end all this indecision.

A private in the army, Gerald Leroy Miller, took a fatal misstep when he fell in a Sadie Hawkins day race. Elizabeth Ann Udell fell over him, and for him at the same time. So they are to be married just 18 months from the time that Gerald became a fall guy.

TICKETS

SANTA ANA, Calif., Nov. 28 (AP) Traffic officers, brimming with the Christmas spirit, are ticketing every car parked downtown Saturday afternoons during the holiday season.

The tickets actually are Christmas greeting cards. Police Chief B. A. Hershey bought 15,000 of them.

Youth Charged With First Degree Murder

ROSEBURG, Nov. 28 (AP) — A scholarly-spoken youth was charged with first degree murder Saturday in the Thanksgiving Day bludegeoning of his grandfather, Robe Thomas Green, 77.

Wallace Green, 20, who told police "I did not participate in my grandfather's demise," was arraigned in justice court late this morning.

With the former college student was his father, Austin C. Green of Bremerton, Wash. His attorney, Ray B. Compton, asked for a preliminary hearing later.

The grandfather was found dead Thanksgiving afternoon in the kitchen of his home at Dillard, a farming community eight miles south of here.

Big Suit Names Kaiser Company

SEATTLE, Nov. 28 (AP) — Henry J. Kaiser's Permanente Cement company, was sued for $1,650,00 damages Saturday by the Superior Portland Cement company, over Permanente's 2½-year operation of the Diamond cement plant in Seattle.

The two firms tried unsuccessfully to reach an out-of-court settlement earlier this week.

Superior asked reimbursement for losses it says were sustained by Permanente's "illegal possession" of the 1,000,000 barrel a year Seattle plant.
