William A. Page went to Portland last Tuesday evening, and is a patient at St. Vincent's hospital for medical observation and treatment for a severe skin rash from which he is suffering. Word has been received here by relatives that he is much improved since his arrival at the hospital.

Another local resident is also at this time under medical care at St. Vincent's hospital in Portland. Mrs. Eldon M. Brattain, who was hospitalized for several months, recently in Klamath Falls and who had been dismissed from the hospital and was visiting relatives in Lakeview, suddenly became worse and was taken to Portland to the hospital. Nothing has as yet been learned as to her condition.

Friends will be glad to hear that Mrs. William C. Hacker came home Sunday from the Klamath Valley hospital in Klamath Falls, where she underwent surgery last week. Although still under the doctor's care, Mrs. Hacker advised friends here that she is feeling fine, which is a cheery note in the rather depressing wave of illness which seems to be scouring our little community lately.

It must also be reported that a beloved long-time resident, Mrs. Nettie J. Bishop, is very critically ill in a Klamath Falls hospital. She has been in the hospital for some months past after several paralytic strokes made it imperative that she be removed to Klamath Falls for medical care. Mrs. Bishop has no relatives here, her only son, Leon, living at Pasco, Wash., with his wife and small daughter. She has, however, a wide circle of friends who will indeed regret to learn of her condition.

Two new employes have been added to the Fort Klamath patrol of the Oregon state highway department, and one local employe, Sherman Mayer, quit recently to move to Klamath Falls to make his home and where he is now employed. The Mayer ranch at the Chillicothe junction has been rented to one of the new men here, Burrell Treat and family, who are now living there, the second new arrival, Earl Worden, having come to Fort Klamath with his wife and son to make his home.

Work on the new state highway shop here has been going ahead, the fine weather prevailing having been a great help in getting the work done. Enoch Maerz, contractor of Salem who is in charge of the construction, estimates that the shop will be completed in about two weeks at the most.

Former Hollywood Star Remembered

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30 (AP)—Hollywood has not forgotten Evangeline Russell, 47, screen star of the silent days.

She said she learned this when she made a "public appeal for a pint of blood she needed before undergoing surgery."

"All I needed was one pint of blood but I received enough offers to make up 15 gallons," she said yesterday in a hospital. "All the studios responded. I have found a gold mine of lost friends and made many new ones."

Mrs. Marvin Thomas, Mrs. Dick Hengel will demonstrate the making of table arrangements, mantel pieces and other decorations.

SKI DAMAGE

SPOKANE, Nov. 30 (AP)—Facilities at the Mount Spokane skiing center were damaged to the tune of $2000 in the week-end's "big blow." But Joy Williams, Spokane Ski club official, said the damage is almost sure to be repaired before good skiing weather arrives.
