

MOTHERS ARE ALWAYS on the watch for housekeeping lighteners, and this steam iron is what Mrs. Williams would certainly like for a Christmas gift.

Still Puzzled About What to Give? Look Around the Cosmetic Counters

When in doubt—give perfume. But give perfume with a dash! And a thought, please. Don't give "No Escape" to a shy young maid, nor "Pale Blossom" to a siren, but there's a perfume for every type, every mood, and every occasion. Perfumes are appearing for the holiday giving in the most marvelous collection of bottles—and wow, some are in the upper bracket of your bank roll.

Pretty Bottles

Caron is turning out some of the prettiest bottles you'll ever see. There is La Fete des Roses in a velvet box, the gorgeous golden bottle snugled down in pink silk rose petals. Caron has also rung the bell with a crystal barrel and a wondrous crystal stopper and inside the barrel is "With Pleasure."

The same lovely slick black bottle holds Christmas Night which has long been a favorite. And have you seen the mosaic stopper on Rock Garden.

Our old favorites of Prince Matchebell are Crown Jewel and Stradavari, and if you've ever dressed yourself to the gunnels and dabbed a bit of Easter Lily on your ear, you know you're in for a Big Evening.

Herb Farm has dressed up collections of its favorite odors in clusters of bells, and there are bath oils, too, that appeal. Newest of the Herb Farm perfumes is Queen's Ransom.

Ciro's fine perfumes have equally fascinating names. Danger, New Horizon and Surrender. Reflection is the sobering title in this foursome.

Colognes come along in most of these numbers and are easier on the pocketbook.

Jeweled

Lipsticks come jeweled as do the new little perfume cases. There was one delightful lipstick and matching mirror, and a big mirror at that. The mirror folds down over the lipstick and is centered with medallions, and designs of other jewels.

There are little lipsticks in many brands, one that we saw came in three in a leather case. The price was moderate and suitable for club-giving.

Lots of fun shopping and you always wind up smelling Oh So Luxurious!

KUHS Christmas Gift To Public

One of the most delightful programs of the year is the traditional Christmas gift to the public by Klamath Union high school students when the music, art, drama, manual arts and homemaking departments combine in a presentation worthy of professionals.

This year, on Wednesday and Thursday nights, December 21 and 22, the Nutcracker Suite will be presented at KUHS auditorium. This will be a program similar to that of last year, but far more elaborate, according to Andy Loney Jr., director of music education.

MOST WOMEN LIKE CHRISTMAS GIFTS for their home, and Gladys Williams is no exception. She could use a new breakfast set, she observes.
