Susie Suggests Some Good Gifts For Home Lovers

By SUSIE COOKIE

Now if you're looking around for a gift for Susie, and you haven't more than a dollar or two to spend—let Susie be your shining light. This goes for all the other Susies you know, women that love their kitchens and all the little gadgets that clutter up the place!

Now first off, before we get all involved in pots, pans and can openers, here's a suggestion. Maybe you are just a bit shy of sending a cold, gleaming piece of copper or aluminum. Put your feet up on the mantle and take a long draw on the pipe. Fill the gifts with your pet marmalade, fruit cake, jam, cookies or a "dunk," and you've hit the jackpot on the $5 machine.

This is what Susie saw and all under $2. Most around 50 cents or so.

Muffin Tins

Susie would adore a couple of tiny muffin tins — the kind that Rose Owens used in making the little Christmas fruit cakes. They'd be wonderful all year-round. And if you insist, fill them with little cakes. They're 75 cents and $1 per pan.

Then there was a beat of a melon mold and can't you imagine filling it with a fine cranberry jelly and taking it to a friend! And only 40 cents!

Susie has a spatter shield and they are wonderful to keep the floor and the rest of the stove clean. But she'd like for you to have one, too. A three-way gadget that you stand up behind the frying pan. And you know how hot you have to get the pan to get a good do on meat. Only $1.

A jelly roll pan is something Susie's wanted for a long time. Ever since she made her first lemon jelly roll on a cookie sheet which proved quite disastrous. It took a month to get the oven clean. These were $1.40. And heart-shaped pans are nice at $1 each. They make a right smart cake with layers in the shape of a nice, plump heart.

Coffee Pots

For the person that likes coffee frequently, hot and fresh, we suggest a nice looking little 2-cup aluminum perk we saw downtown and only 95 cents. Tie a can of a top-flight brand of coffee to the handle.

And now for the containers to hold that cheese dunk which any hostess harried or calm, would just adore, kid, just adore! The mugs come in two sizes and the most bewitching colors. Dubonnet, butter yellow, coffee-with-cream, three shades of green (one a wonderful pistachio, if you know what ah mean), and a warm grey. They are 60 cents, either size.

Matching bowls in two sizes 40 to 60 cents. These are pretty matched up for children's gifts. Mug and a bowl affair and you can get matching plates, too.

Susie happens to have a pretty simple taste in food as far as high fancied stuff goes. She loves Boston baked beans, the kind that take two to three days in the baking. The most wonderful, dark brown bean jugs and these could be sent with love and kisses full of beans, or cookies if you're a little more esthetic minded. At $1.19.

Flowers?

And if you've a friend that's ga-ga over houseplants, how about filling some colored flower pots with Christmas candy. The pots are in two sizes, 25 and 35 cents, and come in a bright red, cool green and scintillating yellow.

For the high minded girl that really does things fancy, there's a pastry bag set for 98 cents.

An onion chopper so she won't have to scrub her hands until they are raw like the onion — for 45 cents. This is good for chopping nuts, too.

Any cook, including Susie, would give you a big bear hug for a set of cooking thermometers. There is a roast thermometer at $1.25, deep fry thermometers, (oh smell them French fried prawns), at $2 and $3, and a candy thermometer which you

Here's Some Clever Ideas You May Have Overlooked

We've done a lot of shopping for you in these pages, but a last minute look-around has produced another selection of gifts in the middle-income bracket and where are YOU?

Have you seen cigarette holders that telescope so they're not over an inch long? Well, we have. And how much do you think they cost. Just $1.

And table lighters—one in elegant urn design, and they run from $8 to $13.20.

But the pocket lighters were pretty fine! Some were at $30, real sterling, and others in the lesser class at $2.75, and again at $6.50.

at 75 cents a box, little notes boasting a pine cone at the same price, and a lovely box of white moire notepaper, $1.

Individual matches in bright greens and red at 90 cents, or personalized and that means initialed, at $1.75.

This is a gift ladies will give—four plastic cups in a leather case and suggested for the thirsty duck hunter. The cups are quite, quite small. These for $1. Probably planned to eliminate colds.

One of the nicest gifts, and we thought enough of it to buy a pair ourselves, twin gold frames in either oval or square at $3.95 to $4.95. Singles at $1.75. Papa could use a pair of these on his desk showing Junior and Janie.

Such wonderful cook books—fat, slim, specialized—at $1 to $4.95. If you've a friend who sets himself up as quite a chef, why not a cook book on barbecuing, or fancy drinks, or Italian cookery.

Interesting little packs of cocktail napkins sell at 25 cents each, and don't fool yourself. This is a very nice little gift.

Good playing cards make the best gift of all to ardent card players whether they're out to bid four no trump in bridge or meld in pinochle. Start at 50 cents.

In the lesser class—six dust cloths at $1; clothes baskets with a purpose, $1; canvas roller pin sleeves, $1, and a pressing cloth at 50 cents. Of course, this is getting pretty practical but why not a combination of gifts for someone just starting out housekeeping?

Along the practical line again, a six-inch frying pan in stainless steel kitchen tools including a pancake turner, turning fork, large spoon, potato masher, ladle, narrow blade spatula and a rack. All for $12.95.

Christmas Dunk

- 1 cup mayonnaise
 - 1/4 tea. dry mustard
 - 1/4 tea. garlic salt
 - 1 T. anchovy paste
 - 1/2 tea. Tabasco
 - 2 T. tarragon vinegar
 - 1 T. chopped parsley
 - 3 T finely chopped stuffed olives
 - 1 tea. finely chopped onion
 - 3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped fine
- Blend seasoning with mayonnaise.

should have before Christmas, at $2.

A Junior Broiler took Susie's eye and she can't get her mind off it. How many times have you had three or four chops, or one steak to broil, or maybe just a little batch of cinnamon toast to pop under the fire and how you just despise crumbing up the big broiler and tray. Here's the answer, and at only $1.50. It's about 8 by 11 inches.

If you want to know where Susie found these things, call her up!

Music Lovers? Give Records

One of the nicest gifts imaginable—for kids as well as grownups—is a record. Or an album if you're in a more expansive mood.

Klamath Falls shops have an excellent selection of all types of records including the lovely hymns and carols of the holiday season. You're bound to find something to fit the person on your list—if that person has a record player.

If not—why not a record player. Nothing too good for Christmas!
