TEEN-AGE FAVORITE—In the youngsters' language hot waffles and lots of butter are "out of this world."

Waffles Always a Teen-Age Favorite

Hot waffles with gobs of butter—that's teen-age for "good time had by all." And everyone else shares their enthusiasm. Furthermore, the eggs, as well as syrup or molasses needed, are on the December plentiful list.

Waffles are easy hospitality with a nutritional wallop—prepared mixes, eggs and the dairy foods essential for young bodies, butter and milk. So for informal November get-togethers—after the basketball or football game, after the movies, anytime, bring out the waffle iron and call the neighbors in.

Waffles for the Crowd
(Makes 1 four-sectioned waffles)
Four cups pancake mix, 3/4 cups milk, 3 egg yolks, well beaten, 2-3 cup melted butter, 3 egg whites, beaten until stiff enough to stand in peaks.

Measure pancake mix into bowl. Stir egg yolks into milk and add to pancake mix, then add melted butter and beat with a rotary beater until smooth. Fold in egg whites until completely blended. Pour from 2-3 cupful of the batter into a hot waffle iron and cook until steaming ceases. Amount used depends on size of the iron—the square ones take more batter than most of the round ones.

Use two waffle irons for a crowd. (If necessary, borrow the extra one.)

A popular waffle bar in an eastern university town reports young patrons favor waffles served with 1. orange butter, 2. honey butter, 3. butter and coarsely chopped pecans or walnuts, 4. butter, honey or syrup, 5. butter, cinnamon and sugar, 6. butter and crisp bacon.
