High School is A Busy Time

There are numerous club and outside activities in school in which students may develop new interests and hobbies, and social organizations that provide fun for members. Yes, high school days are busy ones, and especially for these active KUHS students.

Top right: Rosemary Murray, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Murray, is president of Pep Peppers; Jean Mahan, center, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Mahan, is president of Girls' League, and Jean Henderson, right, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Henderson, is chairman of the assembly committee, all jobs that require a lot of time.

Center row: Louise Linman, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Linman, has many important jobs, among them editor of the El Rodeo, KUHS annual. Center: Music is the main interest of Catherine Blanas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Blanas, and anyone hearing her voice can well understand this love of music. Right: Kathleen Johnston is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Johnston. Kay is president of Big and Little Sister club, the Girls' League group that acquaints freshmen girls with high school life.

Right: Journalism interests these students. Flo Ann Perkins, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Perkins, writes the high school column for The Herald and News, and is managing editor of the Krater, KUHS weekly publication. Claudette Gleason is editor of the Krater. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gleason.
