use of funds. He also came out in favor of a drastic change in the Indian liquor laws, terming them "the last shred of discrimination" left in the present laws.

On the subject of the choosing of agents Zimmerman also stated that as far as he was concerned the Indians could choose their own agents if they wished, if they would take the necessary steps through congress to bring about an okay on this procedure.

Zimmerman left for Seattle today, following a meeting with the tribal business committee early this morning.

controlled by an economic dictum known as the law of "supply and demand." We were fed such guff as this: When demand is large and supply small, PRICES GO UP. When the contrary situation exists, prices go down.

It's strong what kids will swallow, isn't it?

NOW we know better—much, MUCH better. We know that IF WE KEEP THE RIGHT KIND OF POLITICIANS IN POWER the price of everything we have to sell will keep on going higher and higher and higher and the price of everything we have to buy will keep on going lower and lower and lower—now and forever more.

Progress is truly a wonderful thing.

BUT now for the stinger: At this point Secretary of Agriculture Brannan dashes into the picture and announces that "many millions of dollars in higher consumer prices" are involved and WE NEED LAWS EXTENDING GOVERNMENT CONTROL OVER SPECULATIVE TRADING IN IMPORTED AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

There's your solution. When anything gripes us, pass a law putting it under government control.

Calling the public school system in the U. S. "one of our greatest achievements," Bishop Oxnam said the system stands as a bulwark of democracy.

"To discredit our schools by calling them 'godless schools' is not only to mislead the people but also to undermine this bulwark of democracy," Bishop Oxnam said, adding:

"To drain off vast sums from public education to support private and parochial education is eventually so to weaken the public system as to destroy it."

Methodist Bishop Raps Catholics

BUCK HILL FALLS, Pa., Dec. 8 (AP)—American liberty is threatened by the Roman Catholic church as well as by communism, says Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam.

"The Roman Catholic church does not believe in religious liberty as we understand it."

Regret—"I regret to record these matters," the bishop said. "However, Protestants must understand and face them to meet a crisis, now worldwide, in which freedom itself is at stake."

"When the Roman Catholic church or the communist party seeks to deny us either religious or civil liberty our freedom is involved," he declared, "and it is not a part of tolerance to submit to such denials until at last our freedom passes."

Bishop Oxnam, Methodist head of the New York area and vice president of the church's board of missions, said communistic expansion must be met by human beings prepared to suffer and die for their convictions.

Threat—"This 'terrible' threat to religious liberty" also must be met by "co-operation with free men everywhere who seek to resist the forced imposition of an ideology."

Linking this "threat" to the current discussion over the use of public funds for parochial education, the bishop said that issue now "becomes one of major importance."

"It is part of a carefully calculated plan to break down the American doctrine of the separation of the church and state, part of a plan so to mold the thinking of youth as to discount the values that lie in liberty of conscience and of worship, in liberty of speech and of press," the bishop said.

Bulwark—Calling the public school system in the U. S. "one of our greatest achievements," Bishop Oxnam said the system stands as a bulwark of democracy.

"To drain off vast sums from public education to support private and parochial education is eventually so to weaken the public system as to destroy it."

"We must not allow our community to become divided. Let us end this tendency to divide groups that ought to be American into sectarian groups."
 "This whole move in the realm of education is one that must be examined by men and women who believe in religious liberty. It is basic to the maintenance of that liberty that we hold to the old American principle that our state does not play religious favorites."

Initiation and Election—Prosperity chapter, OES, Malin will have an initiation and election of officers tonight.

Unhorsed Lady Godiva Vexes Man

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 8 (AP)—So what would you do if Lady Godiva, minus the horse, suddenly appeared in your room?

A 53-year-old city fireman, charged with disorderly conduct, told Judge John S. Barry he considered throwing the lady out. After all, he said, she was uninited.

"But that didn't seem quite the thing to do—it was pretty cold outside," he continued.

He finally succeeded in persuading the lady to wrap his bathrobe around her. But she wouldn't go home. He admonished. He reproached. He cajoled. He begged. She stayed.

Husband Arrives—Then her husband arrived and asked if his wife was there. The whole thing seemed so fantastic, the fireman said, he answered, "no."

Anyway, he told the court, he did not know the woman's name or the name of the man at his door.

The husband returned with a police officer. The fireman was just denying that the woman was there when she appeared behind him, still wrapped in his bathrobe. Police arrested them.

The woman testified she "blacked out" after drinking two quarts of beer. The husband said the family doctor told him his wife reacted to liquor that way.

Judge Barry dismissed both cases.
