

New York City Imposes Stiff Bans as Acute Water Shortage Threatens 8 Million Residents

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (AP)—The world's biggest city doesn't have enough water today to let its residents wash their cars.

A authorities worked to plug the holes in New York's fast-emptying water barrel, new restrictions were imposed to conserve remaining supplies.

For the first time, the pinch really was being felt directly by the public.

All "non-essential" use of water went out by order of Water Commissioner Stephen J. Carney.

He has directed: That all automobile washing be "completely stopped."

That there be no flooding of tennis courts or filling of pools for winter ice skating.

That the cleaning of tiled walls in subway stations be halted for the duration of the shortage.

Civilian Wardens At the same time, the police department was mobilizing an army of several thousand civilian "water wardens" to canvass homes and urge dwellers to save water.

Wearing armbands marked "police," some of the wardens already were on the job.

If they find leaky faucets or residents who are wasting water, they are to report the conditions to authorities.

Coupled with this, the city has raised the fine for leaky plumbing from $2 to $5 for each day of the offense.

But the penalty for other water wasters could be more. A Brooklyn magistrate collected a $10 fine from a man for washing his car in front of his home.

'Acute' The new restrictions stemmed from what Carney called an "increasingly acute situation."

The city's upstate and Westchester county reservoirs, sapped by unusually heavy consumption combined with a season of light rainfall, were down to about 88,000,000-000 gallons, about one-third of capacity.

New York could become a "ghost city," says Chief Water Engineer Edward J. Clark, if the needed rains don't come.

Joining with the city in its conservation efforts, the American Dental association told its members to turn off taps in mouth-washing bowls, except when in use by patients.

The American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals began modifying control valves to check the flow of water in horse watering troughs.

No Swim Pools The board of education ordered indoor swimming pools, which require frequent refillings, left empty.

In banning car washing, Carney said:

"I regret this step, but it is an absolute necessity in the over-all interest of more than eight million citizens of New York City."

The directive applies to owners of private cars, taxi fleet operators, bus companies, garages and auto laundries.

John W. Creeden, president of the Metropolitan Garage Board of Trade, said the jobs of some 2500 AFL car washers employed by garages could be affected.

Shower Permit The save-water campaign, being pressed by newspaper and radio, was apparently having its effect.

One woman called city hall, and asked:

"Is it all right to take a shower?"

Americans Are Living Longer

NEW YORK, (AP)—Population statistics for the United States show that approximately 6.8 per cent are 65 years of age or over compared with 2.7 per cent in 1860.

It is estimated that at the current rate of increased age the ratio will have gone to 13.2 per cent at the end of the century.

County Farm Bureau Holds Monthly Meet

MERRILL—The county farm bureau held its regular monthly meeting at the community hall December 5. A potluck lunch was served at noon.

Francis Skinner, Klamath county 4-H leader, presented a wrist watch to Hazel Bradshaw of Bonanza who won first prize in the essay contest sponsored by the state farm bureau.

Topic for the essay was "Why My Parents Want Me to Belong to 4-H."

Reports Reports were heard on the state convention at La Grande from Frank Brown, president of Klamath County farm bureau; Mrs. John Toffel, president of the Associated Women of the Farm Bureau; Lee Holliday, voting delegate, and Lloyd Hankins, membership chairman. Fred Rueck of Bonanza was elected third vice president of the state organization at the convention.

Henry Semon spoke at length on the re-appointing of Oregon for representation in the state legislature. Klamath County Agent Charles Henderson was also present and gave a resume of conditions in the county at present, including statistics on potato shipments, now showing a downward trend.

Women's Room Mrs. Earl Kerns reported on the progress of plans for a ladies' lounge and waiting room in downtown Klamath Falls, on which the Associated Women have been working for the past two years. Mrs. Kerns told of a plan by which a similar project is operating in Ellensburg, Wash., and which will be given further study here. As a first step a collection was taken up starting a fund for the project.

Approximately forty members were present at Monday's meeting.

Pleasant Drive And a Man's Dilemma

By BILL JENKINS

THE time yesterday was quite happily spent by your writer in driving around the basin attending a couple of the Indian meetings being held. Double pleasure because you get the fun of taking in the meetings as well as seeing a lot of familiar and well loved country.

Being a duck and goose hunter at heart I suppose I just can't help noticing the flights first of all. And let me tell you there are still plenty of birds in the basin right now.

The snow geese are in in force in spots, and plenty honkers and specks sitting in the stubble. But, enough of that. Still have 11 days to go.

CONSIDER the plight of one of the men heard at the Chiloquin meeting last night. He is a white man, married to an Indian woman. The other day, he claims, he was nabbed by the police on a liquor charge technically. Seems he had a bottle of usqueba in his car, seal unbroken, and was taking it to their home on the reservation. No can do, says John Law. That's introducing liquor to an Indian. Okay. The law's the law. But look at the other side of the fence. Living on the reservation this white man still can't hunt and fish on Indian land despite his marriage to a tribal member. So what does that make him? He isn't allowed the white man's privilege of liquor and he is denied the Indian's privilege of taking game. Sort of puts the poor chap in the middle of the stream, doesn't it? And makes the whole Indian liquor law setup look pretty ridiculous, too.

EVERY other columnist in the land got in his knocks yesterday on the Pearl Harbor sneak bombing anniversary. So here comes old 'too little too late Jenkins with his cracks. (This didn't come until this morning's mail is the reason for the delay.) A letter came over the counter this morning that takes us back to wartime and the pen pal days. A couple of lonesome lads cruising the Pacific aboard Uncle Sam's destroyer DE897 find that they have time on their hands and would like to receive a little more mail, so they could answer it. Remember all the drives asking you to write the boys 'over there' during the war years? Well, maybe they need the mail just as much now. An ocean can be just as lonely in peace as it is in war. You don't even have the excitement of general quarters empty-ump times per day to keep you busy. In case any of you would be interested in writing these lads you can address your letters to John Ruygrok, RDSN or Jim Johnson, DE897, care of FPO, San Francisco. A line to the lads would make a welcome gift anytime. And there's no law against sending them a Christmas card or two.

THE BPOE will go all out for charity funds for the year come Saturday night. The annual stag night will offer members just about all they can take in the way of free eats, plenty of fun and plenty of entertainment. There isn't any way of raising money for charity that's more fun, or gets more money, than one of these all-out get-togethers. Both ends of it have fun then, the givers and the getters.

Judge Brand to Address Annual Chamber Meeting

The annual meeting of the Klamath County chamber of commerce will be held in the second or third week of January, with Judge James T. Brand of the Oregon supreme court as the principal speaker.

The exact date will be chosen within a few days. It will be a dinner meeting at the Willard, and will be sponsored jointly by the Klamath County and the Junior chambers.

Wednesday's meeting of the chamber directors heard a petition drafted by the Albany chamber of commerce to the state highway commission asking that all roads in Oregon be kept open this winter so that logs may be hauled and interruption of the lumber industry avoided.

The directors voted not to favor the petition, feeling that it was too broad in its terms and might result in irreparable damage to Oregon's highways. The Albany chamber will be notified of the directors' action, with an explanation of the reasons.

Air Service Secretary Stark, in the absence of Lawrence Slater, chairman of the aviation committee, reported on a hearing that will be held before the CAB in Washington on February 13 at which the problem of air transport for Klamath will be considered.

The hearing, he said, will be important to the city and he asked the directors to decide whether a representative should be sent to Washington to present Klamath's case orally or to depend upon representation by brief. Bend and Redmond, he said, have offered to join with Klamath Falls in the event a representative is sent. The directors decided to hold the decision over until after the new board is installed, as it concerns a commitment for next year.

Secretary Stark presented a map showing military advantages that will accrue from completion of the 180-mile section of the Winnemucca-to-the-Sea highway between Winnemucca and Alturas, and suggested that it might be possible to interest the military authorities in these possibilities. He was authorized to prepare a brief and submit it to the army.

Jack Peebler and Robert Mitchell took second and third places respectively.

Clay Bellisle presided as toastmaster of the evening.

Next Wednesday, Toastmasters will judge the high school speech contest sponsored by the Modoc club each semester, the winner to be presented the Davis trophy which is to be engraved with his or her name and placed in the high school trophy case for the ensuing semester.

The club holds weekly dinner meetings at 6:30 p.m. at the Willard hotel. Visitors and guests are always welcome.
