

SCENERY AT CRATER LAKE park is unsurpassed anywhere. The mountains in the background lie south of the lake itself.

Wise Men Live On In Legend

The Three Wise Men of the East who brought gifts to the infant Saviour have been identified over the centuries as Melchior, Gaspar and Balthazar.

Melchior means "king of light," Gaspar or Caspar "the white one," and Balthazar "the lord of treasures."

The first of the magi, offered gold—the emblem of royalty; the second offered frankincense in token of divinity, and the third, myrrh—the prophetic allusion to the persecution unto death which awaited the "Man of Sorrows."

Medieval legend calls them the Three Kings of Cologne, and the Cathedral there, claims their relics. They are commemorated on January 2, 3 and 4th, and particularly on the Feast of Epiphany.

Among the ancient Medes and Persians, the Magi were members of a priestly caste considered to have great occult powers.

According to popular legend, these Magi were reported to have come from the kingdoms of Tarsus, Arabia and Ethiopia.

THE COVER

The little lady on the cover is Judy Trulove, aged 6, who lives at Crater Lake and at her home can enjoy the pleasures of play in the snow considerably earlier and longer than children in most other places in the Klamath Basin. The only thing is, sometimes the snow gets 20 feet deep at Judy's house.

She, along with seven other youngsters, children of Crater Lake national park personnel, attend a one-room school at park headquarters taught by Mrs. Mary Ruth Packard.

FOOTPRINTS IN THE SNOW seem almost to walk right up the roof of this Crater Lake park building which is closed for the winter and very nearly drifted out of sight. Later on the snow will be completely over the roof. Boarded up tunnels are erected at entrances of buildings which are kept open during the winter.

Glance and Grab often Man's Way

CLEVELAND (NEA)—Even during the Christmas season, there are rules about shopping. But it's the women who know them, not the men.

Men are abashed about shopping for women. They take the first large, economy size bottle of French perfume or the first black lace lingerie the salesgirl shows at them. They know there must be something around in the stores that women like. But what, they can't imagine.

They need help. They need to know how to pick things that women won't exchange on December 26 and they need to consider their wallets when they shop.

Costume jewelry is a good place to start. A handsome Maltese cross, for instance, looks expensive pinned at the neckline of a suit. But it costs little.

The same thing can be said for necklaces, earrings and bracelet in twisted gold, tipped with Oriental spikes. And it holds true for a watch that flips about like an envelope, slips readily into a handbag. It can double as a watch on a bedside table because it can stand upright.

Brunch coats and lounging pajamas are popular as Christmas gifts and with good reason. They're priced as reasonably as you like and they're the kind of gift any woman loves but hesitates to buy for herself.

Lounging pajamas in black velvet bemberg topped by a pink brocade coolie coat with tremendous sleeves are pretty and inexpensive. Mandarin collar, sleeves and jacket bottom are edged in velvet.

A brunch coat would look equally nice in a big white box under the tree on Christmas morning. Pick one that's washable, in a pale yellow quilted bemberg crepe. Lovely at breakfast on Christmas Day and for many days thereafter.

One of the many small gifts that looks luxurious and is priced for pennies is a tiny evening purse in rich pastel bemberg brocade. It comes equipped with matching compact and lipstick.

The French purse in metallic bemberg brocade is a wonderful and deceptive gift; deceptive because it looks so trim and flat and actually holds so much. Inexpensive, too, though it has a costly look.
