In a festive holiday setting of holly, evergreens, wreaths and red streamers, the annual community Christmas, free and entertainment was held in the local Methodist church on Friday evening, Dec. 21, with a large crowd attending despite the unpleasant weather conditions prevailing.

The affair was sponsored by the Civic Improvement Club in cooperation with the local church and school, and pupils of the elementary grade school took part in the program presented under the direction of Mrs. Frank Strahan, local instructor. Christmas carols were sung by the choir, composed of Anna Vaden, Janet Wison, Enid Williams, Marie Nicholson, and Mrs. Bert Gray, Mrs. Richard H. Wilson, and Mrs. Richard H. Wilson, and Mrs. Lloyd Nicholson, with Mrs. Williams Brewer accompanying at the piano.

Stationed at either side of the stage were two Cub Scouts in uniform; Ted Veatch acting as the celler of tales and Douglas Van Wormer as herald for the program, Entitled "On the Boughs of the Christmas Tree," the entertainment was opened by a recitation of welcome by petite Martha Williams, and constated of musical numbers, recitations and Biblical and may a page 100 page 10

Stationed at either side of the stage were two Cub Scouts in uniform: Ted Veatch acting as the teller of tales and Douglas Van Wormer as herald for the program. Entitled "On the Boughs of the Christmas Tree." the entertainment was opened by a recitation of welcome by petite Martha Williams, and consisted of musical numbers, recitations and Biblical readings by the children. During the program, the large Christmas tree was brought in and decorated by the children to the accompaniment of appropriate music and songs. A highlight of the evening was the singing of "Jingle Bells" by little pre-school age Cathy Denton, who delighted the crowd with her rendition of the old song. An unexpected contribution to the program. her rendition of the old song. An unexpected contribution to the program was made by Joan Loosley, home from Oregon State College for the holidays, who gave a reading "The Other Wise Man," after which a prayer and benediction were given by Rev. C. Ellery Echlin, pastor of Chiloquin and Ft. Klamath Methodist churches, which marked the end of the program.

christmas entertainment which has been a tradition here for many years.

The community owes a vote of thanks to Mrs. Frank Strahan for her work in preparing the program. In spite of the fact that she has a full-time job teaching 22 elementary grade pupils, Mrs. Strahan took time to attend to arrangements incidental to presentation of such an entertainment, which involves endless work, time and patience. On behalf of the community, the sincere thanks and appreciation of Wood River Valley people are tendered to Mrs. Strahan by means of this column. Members of the Civic Improvement Club who were responsible for all other arrangements for the community affair were Mrs. James Van Wormer, Mrs. Lloyd Nicholson and Mrs. Joseph Halford, this committee also deserving a hearty vote of thanks and appreciation for their efforts which helped make the entertainment such a success. The evening of Dec. 24 was celebrated by the majority of Fort Klamath people by family Christmas tree parties, opening of gifts, listening to the beautiful carols and programs on the radio, etc., and among these festive gatherings was that held at the home of Mr. and programs on the radio, etc., and among these festive gatherings was that held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Engle, Present for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Engle and their two small children, and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Copeland, the former being Mrs. Harry Engle's brother.

The ironical twist to this story is the fact that these two sole survivors of her turkey flock were sick, and had for some time been isolated from Mrs. Copeland's chickens, having been placed in a "chicken hospital" coop reserved for alling birds. Mrs. Copeland had been trying unsuccessfully to cure the sick turkeys, but as her treatbeen trying unsuccessfully to cure the sick turkeys, but as her treat
