

Administration Faces Big Problem Over Support For Far East Against Commies

WASHINGTON (AP)—The question of whether the United States should underwrite the security of Southeast Asia—perhaps by sending in troops if necessary—confronted the administration Thursday in the wake of the Truman-Churchill conference.

The issue of what the Western powers and particularly the United States should do about possible Communist aggression in that area is high on the list of problems under discussion between Secretary of State Acheson and British Foreign Secretary Eden, it was learned. It also will be taken up by military chiefs of the United States, Britain and France in a three-power conference opening at the Pentagon Friday.

A communique issued by the President and Prime Minister Thursday, about the time Churchill left on a trip to New York and Ottawa, reported that a "broad harmony of view" had developed on the "many grave problems affecting our two countries in the Far East."

This was applied specifically to Communist China with the statement that "We recognize that the overriding need to counter the Communist threat in that area transcends such divergences as there are in our policies toward China." Britain recognizes the Communist regime while the United States continues relations with the National government on Formosa.

After declaring support for the fight against the Reds in Korea, the President and Prime Minister welcomed the forthcoming military talks on Southeast Asia and said their purpose will be "to consider specific measures to strengthen the security" of that area.

Both American and British diplomats privately asserted that the "broad harmony of view" on Far Eastern policy was one of the more important accomplishments of the four days.

Britain's recognition of Communist China, during the recent Labor government administration, has been a source of considerable difficulty in Anglo-American co-operation.

Authorities said that while there is no immediate prospect of a change in the British policy under Churchill's Conservative government, differences between the two governments over Far Eastern policy have now been for all practical purposes eliminated.

Bride To Keep First Husband

ATLANTA (AP)—A pretty 22-year old bride has decided to keep the first of two soldier husbands given her by a strange turn of fate in the fortunes of war.

In the name of Mrs. Agnes Dixon she petitioned superior court to annul her marriage to William S. Sasser. She asked that the marriage be declared null and void on grounds that she is the legal wife of Walter B. Dixon, once reported killed in Korea but later listed among war captives alive in Communist prison camps.

She and Sasser were directed by Judge E. E. Andrews to appear in court for a hearing January 23. Sasser agreed in a signed affidavit to abide by the court's declaratory judgment.

The petition recounted that she was married to Dixon at Conley, Ga., on April 5, 1950, and was notified by the Defense Department in June, 1951, that he had been killed in action.

Last September she married Sasser in the belief that she was a widow, the petition related.

She found Dixon's name on the rolls of prisoners of war published just before Christmas.

DR. A. L. STRAND

Strand To Speak Here

Dr. A. L. Strand, president of Oregon State College, will speak in Klamath Falls next Thursday while on a tour of Southern Oregon sponsored by the OSC Alumni Association. He will be accompanied by Bump Elliott, OSC backfield coach, and Bob Knoll, manager of the OSC Alumni association.

A meeting with members of the Klamath Falls OSC Alumni Association Thursday evening has been arranged by Earl Kent, Alumni club president, and Robert Thompson, member of the Alumni Board of Directors. President Strand is expected to speak on the principles of freedom which are sometimes forgotten and possibly to touch on the athletic situation in general in colleges and universities. Elliott is also on the program for a short talk and will show pictures of last fall's Oregon State-Oregon football game for those wishing to remain for them.

Dr. Strand and the alumni party will visit Roseburg, Medford, Grants Pass, Klamath Falls and Lakeview on the Southern Oregon tour.

Lottery Winner Dies Of Worry

PERGUE, Mo., (AP)—Don Attilio Bellachoma, 75-year old priest who suffered a breakdown soon after winning 40 million lire (about $64,000) in a lottery last fall, died Wednesday in a mental clinic here. Friends blamed the elderly priest's collapse on worry over the scores of requests for help he received after winning the money.

MYSTERY
