Retailers On

Prod Again

NEW YORK IF — The National Retail Dry Goods Association called on Congress Friday to overhaul the price control structure.

In a public statement approved at the close of its 41st annual convention, the NRDGA said:

"The NRDGA believes the press."

vention, the NRDGA said:

"The NRDGA believes the present Congress in debating the extension of the Defense Production Act should consider carefully whether the continuing emergency and the need for overall stabilization are such as to warrant the maintenance of these incomplete and essentially discriminatory price controls."

The Association said changing conditions since price controls were adopted last year necessitate "a substantial rethinking of the problem and may call for important modifications." Other inflationary checks, such as credit controls and cutbacks in non-defense spending, have not been fully utilized, the statement added.

Appeal Made

NEW YORK (f) — Counsel for Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, condemned to death as atom spies, argued in their appeal Thursday that they were convicted because of their political beliefs and not because of anything they had done. At their federal court trial, Rosenberg and his wife refused a number of times to say whether they were Communists. Judge Irving R. Kaufman sustained them in their refusal. their refusal.

This background was not men-tioned by Defense Counsel Eman-uel H. Bloch as he argued yester-day in the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Bloch contended that Judge Kaufman committed trial errors pre-judicial to the defendents.

Bentley In Fresh Red Spy Probe

WASHINGTON IN - Elizabeth

WASHINGTON the Elizabeth Bentley, admitted wartime spy courier, steps back into the spotlight to tell House apy-hunters what she knows about the part played by Americans in Chinese Communist activities during the 1930's.

The House un-American Activities Committee has called both Miss Bentley and Louis Budens, former managing editor of the Communist Daily Worker and a recanted Communist, to appear Tuesday. The committee is now in recess.

steelworkers fired facts and ligures at the Wage Stabilization Board Friday in an attempt to justify their 18's cent wage boat and other demands.

Arthur J. Goldberg, general counsel for the one million man union, said Thursday the union will not sign any new contract which does not contain a union shop agreement.

He listed 27 steel companies which he said already have union shop clauses in their contracts with the steelworkers. And he blasted the major companies which don't, for a statement they made implying a union shop would "impair efficiency."
