NEW YORK (AP) — Bought your earmuffs yet?

Well, you'd better buy 'em now, before the wind starts. Next time your ears are likely to bear up under the political air between now and November without the protection of plums or muffins.

The verbal Niagara Falls of "I view this nation and 'we people with pride" is already flooding from the nation's 115 million radio and television sets.

And many statesmen haven't even warmed on the "we" part of the campaign. They're still talking about the "we" of the "we" of Arthur Godfrey's talent scout program they'll be able to slip over a few plums for their favorite candidate.

What the average man already needs is a handy little guide on "how to survive in an Election Year."

Some bartenders already are demanding sabbatical leaves, declaring the political tempers among their toppers at the rail will make life unbearable for the next nine months. Others are simply laying in a new supply of baseball bats.

"The average customer is a mouse," said one veteran hiehell jockey. "He is worried about his rising taxes or his falling hair, and he comes here only to complain about his wife or boss, or maybe — after a few drinks — to praise his dear old mother."

"But in election year what happens? The mouse becomes a lion, and after two drinks starts roaring about how to save the country. Put two mice next to each other who disagree, and they start throwing drinks and trying to gnaw each other to death. Either that or they bore everybody else to death, talking about something they don't know."

Here are a few quick tips on now you yourself can live without a black eye until balloting time:

1. If you must wear campaign buttons, wear two — one saying "Bryan or Bust" and the other "Back to McKinley." That will show you are non-partisan and independent.
2. If you feel you simply have to discuss the political situation at a bar, put a couple of ice cubes in your mouth first. You will know what you're saying, but nobody else will — so they can't object.
3. Avoid dry martinis altogether. It is this concoction that caused Dr. Jekyll to turn into Mr. Hyde, and it may turn you from a Republican into a Democrat, or vice versa.

No matter how swell a guy you think Harry Truman is, don't teach your children to go around chanting, "Teft on a Raft," or "The can't give you anything but love, baby." Do you want your kids to come home with black eyes?

5. Other remarks to avoid in public yourself:

- A. "Why doesn't Harry take up the accordion — then he could square his way out."
- B. "Eisenhower's an old soldier — why couldn't he just fade away?"
- C. "Well, I was passing General Grant's tomb the other day, and you know what I heard? A ghostly voice crying, 'don't... don't... don't!'"
- D. "So Stassen plans to have two women in his cabinet? That'll be a real kitchen cabinet — Ha, Ha, Ha!" A remark like this can cost you your happy home.

6. But the best tip of all is this: Write down your own presidential choice in a "it" blue ink, and lock it away. Then shut up. And open up your diary the day after election — and see how wrong you are.

Right or wrong, you'll stay out of trouble.

Whether snoring has ever been the actual cause of divorce is anybody's guess, but snoring is often a serious annoyance to the non-snoring marital partner.

Q—My wife snores so much I can't sleep.—M.C.

A—Many wives have complained of their husbands in the same way. The scientific explanations for snoring or unusual noises accompanying breathing while asleep are well known.

They include partial obstruction of the breathing passages by excessive relaxation of the muscles controlling the vocal cords, and 1. the backward of the tongue.

Others include relaxation of the muscles controlling the back part of the throat (the palate), presence of mucous in the nasal passages and relaxation of the muscles in the roof of the mouth.

What can be done about snoring is another matter. Cleaning the nasal passages just before going to sleep may help, and in general snoring is less likely when a person sleeps on his side rather than on his stomach rather than the back.

Q—My reader knows of a reliable method of curing this condition, yours truly would certainly like to know of it.

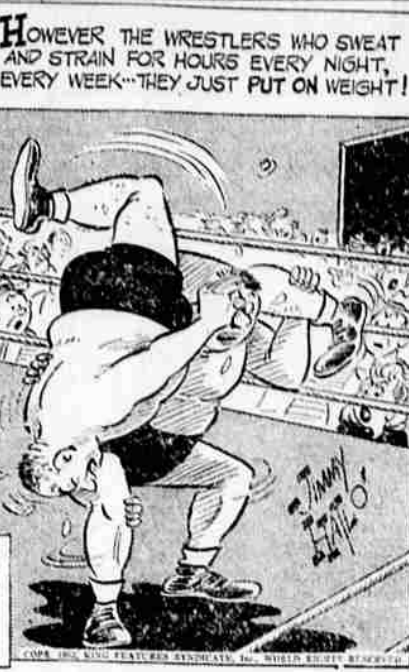

A—Just before we are due for a shower or it gets damp outside, we start to sneeze, so I can hardly stand it. What could cause

KLAMATH FALLS GARDEN CLUB

Monday, Jan. 7, the Klamath Falls garden club met at a special session at the City Library to clear up the year's old business and to plan for a Siskiyou sub-district meeting scheduled for Feb. 5 at the Library. Clubs in the subdivision include: Klamath Falls, Lewis River, Bonanza and Evergreen. The Tulake group is invited to attend all meetings.

Klamath County enjoys the distinction of being the only sub-district in the state. Mrs. Will Wood's appointment to the office of sub-district director was affirmed in a letter from Mrs. Germark, district director.

All clubs of the district contributed toward the Camp White Christmas project at Medford. Eight hundred forty gifts were distributed among the veterans at the Camp's convalescent. Special lights, decorations and an impressive program combined to make Christmas a memorable occasion for the disabled veterans.

Mrs. Wood reported on the State Federation of Garden Clubs Christmas show staged at the Imperial Hotel in Portland, Dec. 16 to 17. Including the arrangement Mrs. Wood was requested to enter, there were 29 special arrangements, two from each district. Other novel and clever entries included festive Christmas tree centerpieces, kissing balls (mesh-enclosed moss covered with mistletoe), wall plaques of halved dried seed pods, swags, wreaths, etc.

Mrs. Hugh O'Connor reported on the Christmas through the House Tour, Dec. 6, at which time 4 homes were decked out in holiday decor and opened to the public. It was the first venture of the kind to be held in Klamath Falls. Guests were enthusiastic over the result, despite the wintry weather, and clamored for a repeat performance next year. Probably the most admired decoration was the Della Robbia wreath, made by the decorating committee, and displayed at the Frank Adams home.

Of special significance, then, was the Della Robbia wreath exhibited at the meeting by Mrs. J. O'Connor, and made by the Junior Republic of California — a Junior nonsectarian school, located in Chino, California. The Della Robbia wreath project is a unique source of income for the school. The wreaths are patterned upon the 15th century Italian relief carvings of Luca and Andrea Della
