City Council Eyes Street Widening

Widening of the traffic lanes of Pacific Terrace will cost about $450 a lot, according to engineer's estimate, but the plans have been filed and the improvement project tentatively set for next summer. It was initiated by the City Council.

A hearing is to be called in which property owners along the street will be allowed to voice objections to the project, and enough objections (by the owners of two-thirds of the property) could kill it.

Plans for the job were placed on file last night by City Engineer Taci Thomas.

They call for taking a four-foot strip off each side of the center easement to widen the street lanes by that much. The lanes now are 16 feet wide and would be made 20. The easement is 30 feet wide and would be cut to 31.

That work would be done from Lowell to Alameda, and the various intersections would be rebuilt. Lawn sprinklers where installed would be moved and reset by the contractor.

Thomas estimated the job would cost $47,355.71 if asphalt paving is used, $51,637.24 if a combination of asphalt and cement is used, and $56,949.08 for cement paving.

The cost would be assessed against the adjoining property.

A review of the Pacific Terrace plans was the principal business of last night's City Council session.

Final approval was given ordinances regulating coin-in-slot amusement devices and jukeboxes. The amusement device ordinance establishes a distributor license of $1,500 for the first year, $1,000 for succeeding years, plus $10 per machine the distributor has operating in the city, and establishes a $100 license for distributors at $100 and for owners at $100. The latter was upped from $50 in earlier drafts of the ordinance.

Jukebox licenses are based on a calendar year, pinball licenses on a July 1-June 30 year.

Lease of space in the steel hanger at the airport to the Mentel-Nelson Aircraft Corp. for three years at $225 a month was okayed.

Other Council action included: Approval of purchase of a $125 snow bucket for the cemetery, purchase of snow clothing for jail trustees used in snow shoveling, and a $163 job of ceiling the workshop part of the garage.

Removal of the bus stop on East Main alongside Twin Girls Grocery, and installation of a stop sign on the south side of Klamath at 2nd.

Approval of temporary restricted parking on Wilford while that street is being used as a sledding area.

Psychologist Speaks At Knife, Fork

Klamath Falls members of the Knife and Fork club last night related a little and learned a little about life and how human beings could better live it.

Dr. Felix H. Zaffiro, a consulting psychologist from New York let out of the bag what many local Knife and Forkers may later learn as secrets of happiness. His speech topic was "What Makes Us Tick?"

Perhaps, he suggested, the first criteria for helping people tick (which is his job) is affection for people who need help.

Dr. Zaffiro described the changing of a human personality as something similar to the country boy, used to kerosene lamps, who tried to blow out an electric light when he came to the city.

"Until he learned to flick the switch," the doctor said, "the boy could not get the light out."

"Personality is similar. You cannot change it until you learn to flick the switch."

He told of case histories from his own files showing how little things may affect personalities greatly in later years; and how by learning what those things are the personality traits and affections can be conquered later on.

Dr. Zaffiro struck out at what he called too much faith in material things among modern day citizens; he said there was too little faith in things spiritual.

"The further you get from God," the psychologist said, "the further you get from sanity."

Dr. Zaffiro also blamed the school on much of the insecurity held within people. He asked how high school students, looked and watched over by strict regulations, could be expected by mere commencement to have been taught to face the world and its problems.

He called on the schools as the saviors of democracy as we know it, also. The government, he said, is the servant in our way; the people are the masters. The arising of socialism, he said, comes from the lack of the people to think and master the government.

But, he said, the methods of education will not improve as long

Homestead Date Vague

Last week, some unidentified Reclamation Bureau spokesman in San Francisco gave out with some information on Tule Lake homesteads that is giving local Reclamation men a rough time.

The Associated Press reported the San Francisco source as saying another section of Tule Basin land would "soon" be opened for homesteading.

Laton Stephens, Reclamation manager here, said the "soon" would be at least two years, since the only land now tagged for homesteading would not be ready for at least that long.

Stephens' view was published by the Herald and News along with the San Francisco report. Nevertheless, Stephens' office is being deluged with requests for information on bidding in the homesteads.

The deluge apparently sore to the regional office of the Reclamation Bureau in Sacramento causing Regional Director Richard

Solons Eye Tax Work Revision

WASHINGTON (AP)—With a 60 day deadline for action, Congress took a cool look Tuesday at President Truman's plan to reorganize the Internal Revenue Bureau.

One senator who had talked with several colleagues said "it does not seem to have too much support." He asked to remain anonymous because he is a member of the committee that must pass on the plan.

Another member of the Executive Expenditures Committee, Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.), told a reporter the group probably will decide at a meeting Wednesday.

Not only will it be at least two years before there is any more homesteading in the Tule Basin, Boke says, but there is a strong possibility it will be much lonter than that.

Bedtime Snack solves laxative problem

"I have had great success with ALL-BRAN," writes Paterson, N. J. man. "After years of constipation, I am now regular. Thanks to my 1/2 cup of ALL-BRAN every day! If you suffer from irregularity due to lack of dietary bulk, try a bowlful of this tasty cereal every night before bed... it may bring back the youthful regularity you thought long lost. ALL-BRAN is the only type ready-to-eat cereal that supplies all the bulk you may need. It's high in cereal protein, rich in iron, provides essential B and D vitamins. Not habit-forming. If you're not satisfied after 10 days, send empty carton to Kellogg's, Battle Creek, Mich., and get DOUBLE MONEY BACK!"
