Montana Spud Holiday On

DEER LODGE, Mont. D — A group of Montana potato growers, claiming to speak for producers of 80 per cent of this state's crop, amounced Saturday a two-week marketing "holiday" in protest over a price rollback.

The "holiday," during which not a single potato will move from these gowers to market, will start Jan. 19, the effective date of the OPS price rollback.

The holiday was announced by William E. Anderson, elected to head the growers protest group formed at a meeting here early this week.

He said the group speaks for producers of about 80 per cent of Montana's potatoes.

Index Service Set at OSC

Indexing service for Oregon's potato seed growers is available at the Corvallis greenhouses, E. C. Johnson, Certification Specialist

Johnson Certification Specialist announced today.

Indexing consists of taking one eye from each tuber and growing it prior to the normal planting season. The plant from the index piece is observed for disease symptoms. If the index plant shows disease, the balance of the tuber is discarded before planting time. Numbered metal tags are used for identification of index pieces.

Consecutively numbered metal tags are available to growers at a cost of $5.00 for each series of 100. No additional charges are to be made for the indexing service.

Johnson expects that 50 days will be needed from planting time in the greenhouse to completion of disease readings.
