Voluntarily

HEALTHY 4-H CLUB MEMBERS . . . demonstrated their thanks for active bodies by having a March of Dimes table in the Armory lobby, during the Klamath Production Credit luncheon today. Mrs. William Kunz, 4-H leader, heads the group represented by the above girls. From the left, Lu'onne Yunk, Susan O'Hair, Sheila Kunz, Nina Kaffer and Marilyn Alter.

THIS FIGHT IS YOURS . . . even the younger generation realizes it . . . As is evident in the picture, there is no "special age" for helpers in the March of Dimes. Roy Rakestraw, assistant cashier, First National Bank, who is very active in the drive, with two willing workers (l to r) Linda Linville, Bluebird, (Junior Camp Fire Girl) and Juanita Easter, Camp Fire.

ELLA REAKEY . . . who has been associated for many years in the minds of Klamath Falls citizens with children . . . is shown in the above picture with two young representatives of Girl Scouts of America, of which she is local Executive Director. With that smile from Ella as they start out to help at the Girl Scout booths at the J.C. Penney and F.W. Woolworth stores, ardent workers, Patty Wicks, Girl Scout, and Susan Lee Hair, Brownie . . . can't miss!

Fight POLIO

with the MARCH OF DIMES

"POLIOMYELITIS" . . . Not a pretty word . . . nor does it manifest itself in a pleasant manner . . . However, through past March of Dimes campaigns, much of the stark hopeless fear has been taken from the word . . . "Polio." . . .

Your dimes . . . when combined with those contributed by others . . . can join this march to a triumphant goal of always early detection . . . accessible equipment . . . and a possibility of complete cure in almost every case . . . BECAUSE YOUR DIMES with those of others will make proper research a reality instead of a dream.

This is not a social item . . . but Poliomyelitis affects society anywhere . . . everywhere . . . it knows no bracket of eligibility . . . It can be your unwelcome bedfellow, or mine.

THEY MEAN BUSINESS . . . QUOTA CLUB . . . Members, who are pictured starting out one fine winter day to place polio placards and containers in various business establishments for the local Infantile Paralysis Foundation fund drive. From the left, Flo Wallace, Cardula Eells, Babe Derby, Vera Chase, Chick Olson, Joy Rolph and Hop Lawler, all busy women who operate their own business ventures, yet had time to devote to a worthwhile cause.

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMEN . . . who are JUST that. All except the young miss holding the placard and container are identified with Klamath business enterprise . . . and enterprising they are . . . joining in concerted effort to give a willing and capable hand to the March of Dimes. From the left, Bernice Britt, Dena Backus, Margaret Sonto, Beth Griggs, Mary Bathwell and Kitty Hanville. The future BPW is Sally, daughter of Kitty and Howard Hanville.
