GRANITE FALLS, Wash. (AP)
Ground parties headed into the rugged Mt. Pilchuck region early Friday to bring out the body of a Canadian student pilot who died in the crash of a light private plane. Flight instructor Harry W. O'Reilly, 33, Vancouver, B. C. survived the crash which he said occurred when the student, Jack Welch, "froze" at the controls. The plane had been missing since Wednesday evening on a practice flight from Vancouver. O'Reilly said the plane hung in a tree about 30 feet from the ground. He stayed in it overnight before hiking out for help. He said Welch had been killed outright. O'Reilly told authorities that he and Welch, a World War II pilot who was taking a refresher course, became lost in the mountainous region east of here. "We hit a turbulent area which buffeted the plane so much Welch froze at the controls. Try as I could, I could not wrench the controls free and it piled up," O'Reilly said.

Plywood Firm Said Bankrupt
PORTLAND (AP) — A petition asking the federal court to declare the Willamette Plywood Co., Inc. Eugene, bankrupt was filed here Thursday. Three Eugene firms sponsored the petition, asserting that the plywood company owed more than $400,000. Of the firms signing the petition Allum Brothers claimed $16,515 due; Moore Steel Service Co. claimed $4,371 and George Myrmo & Sons $1,854. The petition said Myron F. Pinkstaff had been appointed receiver for the plywood firm Jan. 9.

Sacred Heart Notebook
By MARY EGAN
As the clerk exclaimed while watching a customer squeeze a size nine foot in a size five shoe, "Something's got to give!" This is the exact situation of Sacred Heart and Chiloquin, as both schools are in top spot with no losses in county league play. However, "Something's got to give," tonight in Chiloquin as these two top teams will battle it out to maintain first place. Who will give? Chiloquin of course — we hope! Whatever the results, it promises to be a thrilling game, "neck and neck" all the way.

Here, there, and everywhere, can be found the Chimes staff, gathering news for the next edition of the school paper which is in the making. The main topic of this issue will be the county tournament which is already a popular subject in many a conversation.

With the month of February on the way, the students participated in confessions and Holy Hour Thursday and First Friday Mass and Communion today. Afterwards the students enjoyed a breakfast served by the Mothers' Club.
