Ashland Sweep Revives Klamath Title Hopes

Pelicans One Game Off Pace

By RED HURD

The Pellcans indicated over the weekend they still like the idea of Engene in March.
Recing from flu, the big red and white team from Klamath Falls was expected to be ducks on the pond for a healthy Ashland team.
Today, the Pels are back in Klamath Falls with a series sweep under their belts—still carrying hopes of overtaking Medford in the Dist, 4 basketball race.
The Pelicans scored a 59-50 triumph Saturday night to add to Friday's 57-47 workmanlike job over the Grizzlies.

The district race is idle now until Feb. 15. When the Big Four roces at it again, league-leading a diford meets Ashland with a one-game lead over the Pelicans who host Grants Pass in a two-game series.

Big Ralph Carroll led Klamath's first-quarfer blast Saturday night with five field goals and a free throw to give the Pelis a 21-6 lead.
Carroll finished with 16. Jack Horton, who filled in adequately for Carroll when the 6-7 center was pulled for a rest early in the second with three personal fouls, finished with 14. Ray Bell, the third member of Klamath's big forward line that average slightly over axtoot, five-inches, chipped in with 11.

The Pelicans held its lead throughout the game although Ashland threatened several times with scoring splurges and closed the gap to 42-47 three minutes into the fourth quarter.

It was another rough game that saw 59 personal fouls—the same number Friday night—and four Klamath boys, one Ashland cager thumbed to the bench.

It's still an uphill climb to the Eugene state tournament. But with two weeks to chase the flu bugs away and just a single game to make up, things looked somewhat brighter for the Pelicans.

urday night of the 'law of averages.'

The law worked in favor of Eastern Oregon College, downtrodden member of the OCC loop, who went into Saturday's game loser of 20 straight games, nine in conterence play.

The Mountaineers' 59-53 victory over the Owls gave the La Grande quint its first victory this season and a split in the weekend series with the Owls, 77-65 winners Friday night.

The loss gave the Owls an even 23 split in league play with six games to go.

Vanport and Oregon College, two games ahead at 5-1 and with the same number of games left, are tied for the conference lead. SLIM CHANCE

SLIM CHANCE
There's still a mathematical chance the Owls can pull it outbut it's a squeaky hope.

Eastern Oregon staved off a last-quarter raily by the Owls to tuck away the win and set off wild pandemonium in the La Grande gym as fans celebrated the team's first victory in 21 starts.

The Owls spotted Eastern Oregon 18 points before they began to move and trailed 27-40 at the half.

It was still 54-40 for EOCE when the teams upped off for the final guarter. SPARKS DRIVE

Jerry Wyatt sparked a last-ditch binge by the Owls by contributing nine points, twice stealing the ball and dashing the length of the court for lay-ins. The Owls closed it to 52-57 but couldn't muster up enough gas couldn't muster up enough gas to pull it out.

Except for a brief 1-0 lead at the outset of the game when Len Genetin hit on a free throw, the Owis trailed the entire game.

Moments after Genetin's charity toas, Larry Haug scored from the key to put Eastern Oregon in front to stay.

HG LEAD

In fact, the Mountain Boys added up a 26-8 lead before Homer Duncan potted a hook shot that touched off Oregon Tech's scoring punch that fell short with too many points to make up.

Technicaly, the Owis lost the decision from the free throw line. Oregon Tech outscored Eastern Oregon from the field. 21 field goals to 17 but EOCE dumped 25 from the gift line to 11 for the Owis.
