Club Hears Water Plea

A challenge to the community to do something constructive in maintaining and providing for recreational use of its water resources was thrown out by Kenneth McLeod Jr. in a talk to Rotary Club at the Willard Hotel, Friday noon.

This was the fourth in a series of talks on various phases of development of water resources at Rotary club meetings.

There is a growing appreciation for the outdoors as people seek new spiritual horizons in their desire for the fruits of peaceful living, he said.

McLeod pointed out that outdoor recreation leads all spectator sports, both amateur and professional, by a 10 to 1 ratio; in participation, expenditure of money and general interest.

"Here then is an opportunity for the community to capitalize upon the bounty of natural beauty that nature has endowed upon it," he said.

"But is the community doing anything toward holding to this natural resource, even though it attracts thousands of people and millions of dollars to the area, by people who seek to escape the consequences of their own acts at home—their polluted waters, and water sheds that have been barbarously scraped?"

"They are coming here seeking a land with a heritage of clean waters. But will they find only the same conditions here that they sought to escape elsewhere?"

McLeod showed charts depicting the moisture cycle in the Klamath Basin. In recent years actual measurements of water flow and the reflection of wet and dry years in tree ring growth show that wet and dry cycles have followed at 40 year intervals.

Another chart showed flow of the Klamath river at Reno. In 10 of the past 15 years, the flow of the river as it starts down the canyon has averaged between 1500 and 1000 cubic feet of water per second. In the other three years, second foot flow has been greater.

A. D. (Cap) Collier gave a short talk on his hobby, the logging museum in Collier State Park at Spring creek. "It's a wonderful hobby—one in which everybody helps," he said.

Otto Smith was chairman of the day.

Neuner Blocks Ike Erasure

SALEM (AP)—Secretary of State Earl T. Neuner has no authority to remove Gen. Eisenhower's name from Oregon's Democratic presidential primary ballot, Atty. Gen. Neuner ruled Tuesday.

Neuner held that the only way to remove Eisenhower's name from the Democratic primary would be either by court order, or by request of his sponsors, who obtained 1,000 Democratic signatures on their petitions.

Neuner's opinion probably paves the way for a court test.

Monroe Sweetland, Democratic national committeeman and a supporter of President Truman, has said he would bring suit if Neuner didn't remove Eisenhower's name from the Democratic ballot.

The head of the Democratic drive to nominate Eisenhower is State Sen. Thomas R. Mahoney, Portland Democrat.

Eisenhower's name will be entered in the state's Republican primary, with his supporters in that party already claiming to have more than enough signatures.

The primary election is May 16. In his opinion Tuesday, Neuner wrote: "You (Newbury) have neither the duty nor authority to determine the political party to which the candidate belongs."

"Unless the sponsors either request a withdrawal of the petition filed, or you are restrained by a court of competent jurisdiction, you have no alternative but to file and have printed upon the respective official ballots the name of the candidate for President in accordance with the mandate of the statute."

Girdle Stretch Tough Problem

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The State Labor Commission had on its hands Tuesday the problem of a girdle which a store insists is size 34 that won't fit a woman who insists that she is size 34.

The Bureau of Weights and Measures is a division of the Labor Commission. That leaves the matter squarely up to Labor Commissioner Charles J. F. Sattler, who said he received a complaint on the matter from the woman who bought the girdle.

Sattler said he would arrive at a solution by measuring the girdle to determine if there is a possibility of short measure.

WINS REAL GOLD BARS

SINGAPORE (AP)—Seaman Chan Siak Kian, 47, can smile now. Seaman Chan is worth $41,000. He won his year-long fight over gold bars valued at that sum. The government had seized the bars when he came into this colony on his ship charging the bars were "illegally acquired." Now the government has decided to sell the bars and give Chan the proceeds.

TR LEADS DEATH TOLL

Fort Klamath

By MYRTLE WIMER

Visiting at the home of Mrs. Joseph Halford and sons are Mr. and Mrs. William Herbert of Olene, the latter being a sister of Mr. Halford, who is spending the winter at Red Bluff caring for the cattle of his employer, Stewart Nicholson. The Herberts have been here for two weeks, having sold their property at Olene some time ago with the intention of moving to Los Angeles. They have been held up here by the severe winter storms but plan to leave soon for the south.

Greeting old friends here on Saturday was Duke Wilbur of Prospec, Ore., former resident of Chillicothe and well known here. He was enroute to Chillicothe for a few days visit with friends there.

Olen Ferguson and son, Dee, of Klamath Falls were overnight house guests on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Copeland.

The residence of George Woodley and Charles "Bugs" Johnson at Crater Lake Park were the scene of an enjoyable affair on Sunday evening, when Edward, "Bud" Strong, chef at the Old Fort Tavern and Lounge here, entertained a group of friends with a Chinese dinner. The delicious full-course meal was prepared and served by Strong, who is noted hereabouts for his fine cuisine. Present from Crater Lake Park were Mrs. Rex Truive, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Van Wormer, Wren Hogue, Charles "Bugs" Johnson and George Woodley, while the following friends from Fort Klamath enjoyed the repast of Oriental foods: Mr. and Mrs. Clay Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Richard O. Varnum and Don Wimer.

Eastern visitors arriving here Saturday night, Jan. 26, were Mr. and Mrs. Art Schneider of Merrill, Wis., who are house guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Roeder and son, Clark, former residents of Merrill. They are also enjoying visiting here with another former Wisconsinite, Charles J. Brisco of the Crater Lake Cafe and Tavern, who is the father of Mrs. Roeder and also of Kenneth

Brisco of the Alameda Grocery of Klamath Falls

The Schneiders got here in time for a much-anticipated "blessed event" in the Brisco family circle on Tuesday, Jan. 29 Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brisco became the parents of a son, born at the Klamath Valley Hospital in Klamath Falls. He weighed 8 pounds 8 ounces, but for this most precious morsel of humanity a name has not yet been chosen, the weighty problem being now under serious consideration. The reason the little one is especially dear to his parents is that they have waited so long for his arrival. Mr. and Mrs. Brisco have been married eighteen years and this is their first child. Friends here join in sending happy congratulations to them. The paternal grandfather, Charles J. Brisco, is a very happy man these days and rejoicing in the birth of the child especially because of the fact that Kenneth is his only son and also

That mother and child are doing so well...

Spending part of his 30-day furlough here was Silc Vernon Brannham, who visited for 10 days at the home of his sister, Mrs. James Van Wormer. He left Thursday, Jan. 31, to report back to San Diego for duty with the U.S. Navy. Vernon has been stationed in the radar room of the destroyer Yarnall in Korean waters for some time, and has been in the Navy for nearly nine years. Last weekend, he went to Bly, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Van Wormer and son Douglas, for a visit with his brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brannham and sons.

Signs of spring—a flock of about 50 robins seen at the Darling-Brewer ranch north of here last Saturday; rain on Wednesday, Jan. 30, and rapidly melting mountains of snow in Wood River Valley... but don't let us get optimistic and think winter's over because we still have the month of February just around the corner. At any rate, it is a welcome lull in the icy winter winds and driving snowstorms of December and January, come what may in the way of bad weather, and no doubt our little feathered friends, the Robin redbreasts, will survive until spring really does arrive. Birds of different species have been numerous all over the valley this winter, and many local people have been feeding flocks of Steller Jays, Swallows, etc., but the Robins seen at the Darling-Brewer ranch are the first noted here this year.
