

Violent Death Searched Out in Devil's Forest

VOSSENACK, Germany — Seven years after the war, danger and death still shadow the daily life of inhabitants of this little Huertgen forest village in the Eifel mountains, near the Belgian border.

genwald"—soon called the Devil's Forest by battle-tired, desperate and exhausted GIs—was soaked with blood.

For war at its fiercest passed this way. Ask any American GI or German soldier who survived the battles of the Huertgen forest. And even now hidden mines, dud bombs and other explosives are found by the score in the region.

When the Allied forces crossed the German border near Aachen in the fall of 1944, Germany hurled most of her remaining troops in the West against the attacker. In the hilly woodlands of the Eifel, backed by the armed forces of the Siegfried Line, the German Wehrmacht checked the American advance.

Bloody weeks of hand-to-hand fighting, murderous artillery barrages and air bombardment followed. Every inch of the "Hurt-

Children's Homework Poses Character Training Value

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Newsfeature Writer

Whether or not you believe in homework for junior, if such work is a school requirement the child should be helped to adjust himself to meet it successfully.

The child who is doing poorly in school, says the National Kindergarten Association, does so because of failure to study properly. All too often, he can be observed to pick up his arithmetic, sail right in and do well for a while. Then he comes to a problem that is evidently not so easy. He makes one or two attempts to solve it, and finally tosses the book aside in favor of his speller.

This, too, he is quite happy about for a time. He shuts his eyes in concentration and recites his words. Several appear to be stumbling blocks. Again and again he glances at his list and finds he is making slight mistakes in them. Instead of mastering the words he puts away his spelling book. Maybe he detaches himself with the belief he'll come back to it later.

He goes on to "study" geography. Here he becomes completely muddled over the rivers in Africa and may not even take the trouble to try tracing them on the map. He may excuse himself by saying they're too hard to bother with, so long as he knows something about the River Nile.

By the time his bedtime rolls around he has finished nothing. Junior's like a soldier who quits under fire, comments the Association. Directly something difficult comes along he gives up—a very serious fault. Parents must be on the lookout to check study habits of this kind, the experts say, or junior will not amount to very much.

It is up to the parent to gently but firmly insist that junior finish one subject before starting another. It doesn't pay to scold. Rather try to make a game out of homework. One mother, who knew her son was interested in stories about giants made use of this and caused her son to think of a puzzling problem as a giant to be overthrown. Every time he accomplished something he was tempted to lay aside he was overjoyed to think he had felled another giant. Today, if he is ever inclined to follow the line of least resistance and just let things go, he thinks of those giants.

And the job cannot be made the responsibility of the teachers alone. Without the self-sacrificing cooperation of the parents the schools can do but little. Junior must be set on the right path with his homework and soon definite improvement will be seen.

KIDNAPED IN GERMANY
Mamie Ruth Shelton, 18, (above), first American girl kidnaped in postwar Germany, told investigators her armed abductor threatened her with death before he abandoned her in a stolen car on a lonely road. Her stepfather, Master Sgt. W. B. Burns of Hot Springs, Va., said the girl was "perfectly all right" despite her terrifying experience. Thousands of American military police and German police continued the search for her abductor.

Dimes March Fund Boosted

CHILQUIN — $601.56 was the amount turned in to the county March of Dimes headquarters by Mrs. Joseph Mercer as Chilquinqin part in the county drive. That amount will be augmented by any donations which may have been mailed direct to Klamath Falls with a Chilquinqin postmark.

The six hundred plus, Mrs. Mercer reports, came from the benefit dance, held Jan. 26, the basketball game given the following Wednesday evening and collections taken in the tiny iron lungs at local stores and principally at the Chief Theater.

Special credit should go to those people who donated their time to help put over the drive. Sandy Miller was in charge of all arrangements about the game and the Chilquinqin Town Team the Hill-top Cafe team from Klamath Falls and the referees all donated their time.

Mrs. Archie Huff and Mrs. Layton Hoback were in charge of the refreshments served to the teams and their wives after the game. Helping to serve were Mrs. Guy Stalger, Mrs. John Jadderholm and Joanne Weddle.

Music for the dance was furnished by Mrs. Roy Deffenbacher, Knighthipps of Klamath Agency, and Dick Varham of Fort Klamath. Lloyd Peters and Les Hoback helped with the box office and taking tickets.

Basketball game prizes were all under the supervision of Charles Hale. The upper grades took part in the first sale and cash awards were won by Kenny Reed, Gail Mannering and Vernon Gauthier, who sold the most tickets. In the second sale the Camp Fire Girls and the Boy Scouts sold in competition with each other with a party as the prize. At the close of the sale there was only 20 cents difference between the groups so mothers donated food and on Thursday afternoon both groups were treated to hot dogs, ice cream, cookies and punch, in a party held the last hour of school in the cafeteria.

Winners were Victor Sisson who will go deer hunting this coming year with a new 30.06 Pat Hill who took home to his wife, Jane, a new electric mixer, and Bill Lorenz who took home the 25 pound live turkey donated by Roy Giengier.

Ice Harbor Dams a 'Must'

EPHRATA, Wash. (AP) — The proposed Ice Harbor Dam on the Snake River is still a "must" project to the Columbia Basin Commission.

Commission members reaffirmed an earlier resolution calling for construction of the dam at a meeting here Thursday.

Charles Brinkerhoff of the Pasco Chamber of Commerce told the commission fisheries interests, the only ones he said were opposed to the dam, were "throwing a monkey wrench" into the project.

The commission also urged passage of bills to set up reclamation facilities to be added to the Chief Joseph Dam project.

Troop Plane Hits, 16 Safe

McCHORD AIR FORCE BASE, Wash. (AP) — A C-124 Globemaster, the biggest operational troop carrier used by the Air Force crashed and burned here late Thursday night, but the 16 men aboard escaped.

The giant aircraft attached to the 62nd Troop Carrier Wing was en route home from Hawaii with a crew of 13 and three passengers. Air base officials said the plane crashed short of a runway at 10:44 p.m. PST.

Only two crew members were injured, receiving minor cuts and bruises. Air base officials said a ground fog may have contributed to the accident.

The Globemaster can accommodate 200 passengers.

Record Catch, Bigger Loss

The one that got away gave Higgs a 55 minute battle before his 160 yard nylon line broke.

Academy students invite Bonanza students to an after-game dance in the Parish Hall as the perfect climax to the evening.

The monthly student body meeting was advanced just one week exactly because of Valentine's Day next Thursday. As a result the students gathered to discuss the business at hand yesterday in the school auditorium. Following the meeting the students enjoyed the customary matinee dance.

A special Valentine's Dance is slated for next Wednesday in the Parish hall. Committees have been appointed in the effort to make this dance as said before, extra special. No, it isn't a mistake, this Valentine's Day dance is going to be held the 13th because of the basketball schedule.
