Woman Dies After Wreck

KODIAK, Alaska—The wife of a fishing boat skipper was found dead on Afognak Island, Friday night after three men shipwrecked with her were rescued from a desolate beach.
The frozen body of Mrs. Ed Nevers was found four miles inland from the beach where the fishing boat Kerry was abandoned Tuesday when its engines failed.
Nevers and two crewmen were found on the beach Friday and flown here for hospitalization. Doctors said all three had frozen feet and that amputation may be necessary.
All three men froze their feet hiking across the snow-covered beach and they were unable to return for Mrs. Nevers.

She Does Own Dental Work

WAYNE, W. Va.—The 25-year-old wife of a coal miner here does her own dental surgery with a sterilized safety razor blade, pulls her own teeth with an old pair of forceps and says it "doesn't hurt as much" as a visit to a dentist.
Mrs. Paul Napier, who has pulled 12 of her own teeth and has 11 left to go, got into business after a dentist had extracted two teeth. Abscesses developed, so she sterilized a safety razor blade, lanced the abscess, probed and worked on the bits of bone she said were causing the trouble.
The surgery healed properly, but abscesses developed in other teeth so she decided they all must go. She resurrected an old pair of forceps her grandfather owned—"teeth pliers," she called them—and went to work.
"The eye teeth were the worst," Mrs. Napier said. It took two days of lugging whenever she could stand it to get one of them out. Her technique improved with experience, however, and on her best day she removed five. Seven upper and four lowers remain.

Party Chiefs Get Together

WASHINGTON—The Chairmen of the Democratic and Republican national committees got chummy for a few moments Friday.

By prearrangement they met at a downtown hotel, posed amicably for cameramen, and issued a joint statement to denigrate, said the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report, the "unity of support by both parties to the salient features" of the bipartisan Hoover Commission's report.

This commission headed by former President Herbert Hoover recommended scores of changes in operation of the federal government. The citizens committee said today 53 per cent of the proposals have joint support.

The joint statement by Democrat Frank E. McKinney and Republican Guy C. Gabrielson was preliminary to a second national reorganization conference to be held here Monday to drum up support for the other 45 per cent.

The statement said: "The many changes based on the recommendations of the bipartisan Hoover Commission have stepped up the efficiency of the federal government enormously."

ECONOMY
"These reforms have also caused the government to be operated more economically. Enactment of these proposals means that we are better prepared for the defense emergency."

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—Gov. Warren told a news conference Friday that he endorsed of Gen. Eisenhower's foreign policies was "in no sense of the word" an implication that he was leaning toward a possible Eisenhower-Warren ticket. Warren himself is a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Returning from a speaking trip to the West Coast, the Governor said that although he agreed with Eisenhower's views on the international situation, he did not know the General's position on major domestic problems.

For that reason, he explained, he is not in a position to state his approval or disapproval of Eisenhower's ideas on domestic issues. Warren reiterated that he is not in there to "stop any candidate."

"I trust my name will be submitted to the convention and that the convention will give it fair consideration. Beyond that I ask nothing and pretend nothing."
He said he will act soon on the question of entering primaries in Oregon and Wisconsin.

He came from Assistant U.S. Attorney Charles O'Gara who took it upon himself to break the Internal Revenue Bureau scandal wide open on May 16, 1951.

Milk Boost Over Limit

PORTLAND—A 2-cent boost in Grants Pass milk prices exceeds the increase called for in a new minimum price order which will be announced soon by the State Board of Agriculture.

That was the report Friday of Thomas L. Ohlsen, state milk marketing administrator.

He declined to say what the minimum would be, but he said it would be below the 24 cents now charged for milk there.

Usually retail prices conform with minimum prices, Ohlsen explained. But that is not required. The Board of Agriculture sets only minimum prices which means the cost of milk can rise above a set figure but not below it.

Grants Pass distributors announced the 2-cent boost Friday. It duers now set $7 a hundredweight instead of $6.21.
