CAPT. WALTER C. VAN EMOM JR. — USAF, arrived in San Francisco recently on the USS David C. Shanks after two years at Anderson Air Force Base, Guam as commanding officer Wing Hdqtrs. 19th Bomber Wing. His 10 years in the service included flying B-17s in Italy and C-54s in the Berlin Airlift. After a short stay with his aunt, Nora Rinker, he left for Westover Air Force Base, Chicopee Falls, Mass., for duty with Military Air Transport Service, 1600th Air Transport Wing. His wife, who was with him most of the time on Guam, was not able to come to Klamath Falls, but accompanied him from San Francisco east.

Columbia Has Novel Guard Against Kicks of Censors

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
HOLLYWOOD, (NEA) — Exclusively Yours: Rita Hayworth's zippy night club dance for "Affair in Trinidad" was filmed twice. If the censors scream about any part of the first version, Columbia will insert projection shots filmed with different lighting and a longer camera lens.

Joan Fontaine and ex-hubby William Dozier are headed for courtroom fireworks unless attorneys can make an out-of-court settlement. Joan claims Dozier owes her a big hunk of dough for income taxes which she paid for him during their marriage.

Tony Martin's dream of Jane Russell as his warbling companion in "A Song Forever" died a-borning. Howard Hughes nixed the idea of giving Jane an operatic voice via the dubbing track.

Bud Abbott and Lou Costello are shelving their own names for the first time in their careers for their roles in "Abbott and Costello Meet Capt. Kidd." Lou plays Oliver Fothergill and Bud is Rocky Stonebridge, a couple of 17th Century tavern keepers. Lou's famous yell, "Hey Abbott," will come out, "Hey Stonebridge."

Charles Laughton plays Capt. Kidd and he's saying: "It's a Mack Sennett custard-pie version of Capt. Kidd."

Lucille Ball will switch back to the big-screen medium for one movie this summer, after completing her 39th "I Love Lucy" TV film with Desi Arnaz. She has several offers and says, "I still don't know which role I'll accept."

How are Lucille and Desi standing up under the strain of making a half-hour movie every week?
Lucille: "We love it. We're just a little bit unconscious."
Desi: "I looked in a mirror the other day and suddenly realized I hadn't shaved for four days."

Famed Ghosts to Be Ousted As Greenwich Hotel Razed

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
AP Real Estate Editor
NEW YORK — Many famous ghosts are about to be evicted in New York's old Greenwich Village. The historic Hotel Brevoort, for more than a century gathering place of international celebrities, will soon be torn down. Along with it will go Mark Twain's former home and several adjoining old houses to make way for a large luxury-type apartment building in lower Fifth Avenue near the Washington Hotel.

The Brevoort's picturesque sidewalk cafe has been a familiar landmark to tourists who for years rode the upper decks of Fifth Avenue's buses and lately have been tiding under the glass tops of rubber-neck buses.

Although the building has been closed as a hotel since 1948, because of the fire laws, its hall, restaurant and sidewalk cafe have remained in operation. The upper stories have been reserved for ghosts—of which the Brevoort seems to have had a social lion's share.

PRESIDENTS
For generations this hotel enjoyed the reputation of being one place in New York where a Broadway producer could recruit a complete cast for a play—where a publisher could call a staff for a newspaper or magazine at almost any time.

Opened in 1845 as one of the finest hostleries in old New York, the Brevoort kept a register that reads like a "Who's Who" of the world.

Presidents Lincoln, Garfield and Arthur signed in as guests. Emma, the dowager queen of the Sandwich Islands, Edna St. Vincent Millay, J. Davidson, John Sloan, Mabel Dodge, John Reed, Sinclair Lewis and many others who left their mark on the era.

The Brevoort was always noted for its cuisine. Early in the 20th Century, Raymond Orteil, popular here and wit, took over the proprietorship and introduced authentic French cooking with imported chefs.

Orteil was the man who in 1919 set up a $25,000 prize for the first non-stop flight from New York to his beloved Paris. That was the prize collected just 23 years ago by Charles A. Lindbergh.

ATTRACTED FAMOUS
Orteil popularized the Brevoort as a meeting place for artists, actors, writers and thinkers of the new 20th Century. His basement dining room attracted Eugene O'Neill in his fledgling days, Isadora Duncan, Theodore Dreiser, Lincoln Steffens, Edna St. Vincent Millay, J. Davidson, John Sloan, Mabel Dodge, John Reed, Sinclair Lewis and many others who left their mark on the era.

One of the biggest social affairs remembered was a dinner party given by Annie Oakley, the crack shot circus performer, whose name is perpetuated in all free tickets marked by their three bullet holes.

Just north of the Brevoort, the old Mark Twain home is one of 10 smaller buildings which will be razed for the new project. This was where Samuel Clemens lived from 1864 to 1868 and where he completed his book "Adams Diary." The house had been built about 10 years ago by James Renwick, whose friend Washington Irving often visited there.

Although this house was converted into apartments in 1928, a bronze tablet, unveiled by the Greenwich Village Historical Society, commemorates its tenancy by Irving and Twain.

UNUSUAL DEAL
The structures to take the place of the Brevoort and Mark Twain house will be erected by Sam Minskoff & Sons, Inc., one of the large apartment building organizations in New York. The firm has built more than $150 million worth of luxury apartments and hotels in 23 years.

An odd feature about the deal is that the property has not been sold, but leased for 105 years. This lease, it forms part of the old farm of Robert Richard Randall, a retired sea captain, who stipulated in his will in 1801 that the land would never be sold.

Randall left his farm, which originally had been the Henry Brevoort Sailors' Snug Harbor. He wanted a home for "aged, decrepit and

Enforcement Lax --- Rotary

Members of the Rotary Club apparently think law enforcement in the Klamath area leaves a lot to be desired.

At Friday's meeting, advance questions posed for next week's KFLW radio forum, which will deal with law enforcement, were put to members of the club, with these results:

A uniform ball and fine schedule for inferior courts—yes 40, no 25; change in law to allow officers to make accident arrests on physical facts and statements—yes 42, no 26; are beer, cigarette vendors obeying sale-to-juvenile laws—yes 18, no 40; civil service rights for all police, including chief—yes 30, no 34; prosecution in inferior courts of teenage traffic offenders—yes 52, no 13; holding parents legally responsible for juvenile law violations—yes 42, no 18; extension to state and local government of Indian jurisdiction—yes 53, no 7; six-months probation and training for new police officers—yes 61, no 9; recognition of police power of the individual—yes 9, no 53; is staff of 26 officers adequate for Klamath Falls—yes 46, no 13.

George Martin, local United Air Lines manager, was program chairman and discussed the dependability of air travel, showing a movie made by his company dealing with that subject.

Inflation Is Voter Topic
Inflation will be the topic of discussion at next Wednesday's meeting of the League of Women Voters, and a panel has been arranged to approach the subject from various angles.

The luncheon meeting will be held at the Pelican party room, starting at 12:45 p.m.

Members of the panel will be C. D. Long, AFT union leader; Frank Tucker, representing business and industry; E. E. Kilpatrick, representing agriculture; Altha Urquhart, representing public welfare; Ed Cowen, representing government; and Edna Rueck, representing consumers.

The meeting is open to the public and those wanting reservations for the luncheon are asked to call Mrs. George Lewis, 2-1839, or Mrs. Meta Lewis, 8305.

Park Records Foot of Snow

Crater Lake National Park recorded a one-foot snowfall over night last night, and total snow depth at the park headquarters this morning registered 200 inches, state police reported.

Rain was reported falling in the park this morning, however.

Highway 62, the route to the park from Klamath Falls, was reported open today but chains are required. The Annie Springs to the Rim road was temporarily closed this morning, but was expected to be open this afternoon or early tomorrow.

Warner Canyon Skiing Okay

Warner Canyon skiing should be excellent this weekend, Fremont Forest Supervisor John McDonald has reported.

A 12-inch powdered snowfall covers the ski area, he said, and the tow is scheduled to operate today and tomorrow.

Night skiing, under high-candle-power floodlights, is scheduled for 7:30 to 10:30 tonight.

In the Andes ranges of South America live the lamoids, a branch of the camel family.

Ski Races Date Set

LAKEVIEW — A triple-race ski meet will be held at the Warner Canyon Ski Area March 1 and 2 under sponsorship of the Fremont Highlanders, with a five-man ski team from the University of Oregon scheduled to participate.

The screen's "secret heel" title for his part in "The Outcasts of Poker Flat."

"And what makes it really good," he's beaming, "is that there's a psychological explanation in the final reel for the guy's actions. He's just a born heel."

Entry fees are $2. Peters said persons wishing to enter should contact him in Lakeview before Thursday.

Accompanying the University team will be Coach Gene Harlow and University of Oregon Director of Athletics Leo Harris.

Dimes Reports Still Come In

Reports on contributions for the annual March of Dimes Campaign turned into Alice Vitus, drive chairman, include: Bonanza, $156.24, Clayton Sharpe, chairman, $15.00, Klamath, $116.33, Mrs. Patricia Hescok, chairman; Keno, $101.62, Mrs. Nellie Mason, chairman. Weyerhaeuser Camp No. 4, $19.68; Chemult, Mrs. Hope Brader, chairman, $21.94; Harriman, Ore. Mrs. Olive Johnson, chairman, $5; Klamath Agency, $12.73; Gilchrist, Mr. Rotheck, chairman, $115.69.

Whodunit Author Changes Pace

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — Mystery author Mickey Spillane says he will write no more about slayings and sex, but will devote himself to "preaching the establishment of the Kingdom of God."

The popular author said Friday he has "become one of Jehovah's Witnesses" and that any writing he does from now on will be in line with these beliefs.

Spillane, who lives near here with his family, is the author of such fast-moving books as "I, The Jury," "My Gun is Quick" and "The Big Kill."

Airplane Bests Kite in Battle

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — There was a minor air battle over Albuquerque Friday.

James Harrell and Lewis Kirby were flying a kite when an airplane swooped low. After several dives, the plane succeeded in severing the 1,000-foot string attached to the five-foot box kite.

Kirland Air Force Base officials are looking for the pilot of the plane. Harrell and Kirby are looking for their kite.

Handy Bulldozer

GREELY, Neb. (AP) — A construction company's truck stalled on a hill near Greeleybut not for long. Workmen unloaded the truck and used the load to push the truck over the hill. The "load was a bulldozer."

worn-out sailors" to be erected "upon some eligible part" of his farm.

But soon after Randall died, the trustees of his estate became convinced that the town of New York would grow northward on Manhattan Island and would require streets to be cut through the farm. They obtained permission from the State legislature to locate the sailors' home on Staten Island overlooking New York Bay, and to use the income from Randall's farm to support the institution.

Sailors' Snug Harbor still owns and administers 15 acres of valuable property in the heart of New York bordering Washington Square. Some has been leased to New York University and other parcels for new apartment projects.
