SMOKEY, THE BEAR, TO GET PROTECTION

By JOHN KAMPS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Smokey the bear has become so famous that the government is taking steps to protect its rights to his services. Congress is working on legislation to regulate use of the greatest forest fire fighter in history: A picture of a bear cub wearing a ranger's hat and blue jeans and carrying a forester's shovel.

The Senate Judiciary Committee last week approved a bill "prohibiting the manufacture or use" of Smokey by unauthorized persons and imposing maximum penalties of a $250 fine and six months in jail for violations.

Helmet Saves Boy's Life

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One of 10 year old Dick Stewart's toys was a shipyard worker's battered helmet. The boy saved Dick's life Sunday when a cavelin buried him. Dick and his pals were digging a cave. Like any safety-minded construction worker, Dick put on his helmet. The dirt suddenly collapsed and buried him. Rescuers dug frantically for five minutes. When they pulled Dick out they found the helmet had slipped down over his face and formed a pocket of air beneath the earth blanket. The air pocket saved Dick's life, rescuers said.
