

Lattimore Sweats Out Second Week Of Hearing On Influence In Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Owen Lattimore denied under a barrage of questions Thursday that he sought to justify Russia's invasion of Finland in 1939.

Lattimore told the Senate Internal Security subcommittee his personal feeling at the time was that the invasion was "an outrageous thing on the part of the Russians but I also believed policies of Europe had reached a pretty low level."

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.), kept hammering away on the theme that Edward G. Carter, then secretary-general of the Institute of Pacific Relations, asked Lattimore about the most convincing statement as to Russia's justification and that Lattimore replied with his views on the matter.

Correspondence between Carter and Lattimore on the Russian invasion went into the record of the subcommittee as Lattimore, John Hopkins professor and Far Eastern specialist, testified for the ninth day.

The subcommittee is searching for substantive influences on U.S. policies, particularly in the Far East.

The correspondence started off with a letter from Carter to Lattimore, dated April 26, 1940. It said:

"Where in English or French or Russian has there appeared the most convincing (I mean convincing to the bourgeois readers) statement as to the U.S.S.R.'s justification of the Finnish campaign? The Soviets clearly regard the action as a necessary defense measure. Three-fourths of the rest of the world still regards it as unprovoked aggression."

"Have you written or are you writing anything on this line?" Lattimore testified that while he felt "the betrayal of Czechoslovakia by England and France" had reduced European politics to a "pretty low level," he didn't feel that the invasion of Finland was justified.

After some preliminary questions had been disposed of, Lattimore's reply to Carter, dated April 29, 1940, was read:

"Your question about where to find the most convincing statement to the Soviet justification for the Finnish campaign is one that I have been asking myself," Lattimore wrote.

"It seems to me that everybody takes a too simple approach to this problem, the Russians on their side and everybody else from the other side."

"It seems to me that even if the Russians had more detailed, plausible evidence of 'plots' in our country than I have yet seen, and even if they had strong justification in 'realistic' terms, from the strategic standpoint, they nevertheless made a political blunder in attacking Finland."

Lattimore also said the Russians may have been feeling and hoping for years for a chance "to do this very thing . . . but if justification is pleaded, the Russians can point out that they did not lead off the scramble of aggression, and can claim that there is a difference between being the first to start aggression and committing what might be called an act of 'self-protective aggression' after the general scramble had begun."

Building Curb To Be Eased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government eased building controls Thursday on housing, commercial, highway and school projects.

The National Production Authority, dropping an earlier plan to limit the size of dwellings and restrict new homes to 1 1/2 bathrooms each, issued:

1. A new, one-package housing order increasing by 500 pounds the steel which a home-builder may use without applying to NPA.

2. An order combining all other construction controls into a single document. It increases the tonnage of steel automatically allowed for smaller non-residential projects, as well as roads and highways.

As originally proposed, the orders were intended to curb construction. But they were revised frequently during two months of discussion with the construction industry. Meanwhile, shortages of steel and aluminum eased noticeably.

NPA's announcement said: "Most of the changes in the construction regulations liberalize controls rather than tighten any of them or impose any further restrictions."

Most provisions of the new orders have been announced as agreements were reached with the construction industry.

Allied Planes Range Over Red Territory, Blast One MIG, Cut Rail Supply Line

By MILO FARNETI

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — American Sabre jets destroyed a Communist MIG and damaged another Thursday in a 10-minute battle. The dogfight ranged as far south as the North Korean capital, Pyongyang, just 70 miles north of parallel 38.

Capt. Henry Frazier of Stuart, Fla., was credited with shooting down the Red jet in a fight between six Sabres and 22 MIGs. Col. Harrison Thynk, commander of the Fourth Wing, reported one

MIG damaged.

Allied fighter-bombers cut Communist rail lines in 92 places and destroyed or damaged 50 boxcars, the Fifth Air Force said. Marine Corsair pilots reported destroying two Communist tanks in attacks northeast of Pyongyang, apex city of the old Communist iron triangle.

On the ground, hit-and-run Allied raiders killed 40 Communists and wounded 39 in four firefights west of the Musung Valley in Eastern Korea.

U.N. artillery and infantrymen pinched off a Chinese Communist attack near the old iron triangle on the Central Front Thursday morning.

About 160 Reds opened fire on an advanced U.N. position near the Kumhwa-Kumson road about midnight. The Reds were hurled back after a one hour and 15 minute fight.

Allied pilots found good weather over northwestern Korea Thursday morning, and went out in force bombing Red railroads and highways, supply dumps and troop positions.

Marine fighters from the U. S. Carrier Bairoko attacked Red trains, supply centers and troop positions on Korea's west coast Wednesday.

Across the peninsula the U.S. Cruiser St. Paul and Manchester and the Destroyer Henderson bombarded Communist troops on the eastern end of the battle line near Kansong.
