British Vet Blasts US Tanks, Says English One Is Better, Tougher...

LONDON (AP)—A British Army officer says American tanks in action in Korea are "made for Hollywood, not for fighting."
Lt. Col. Sir William Guy Lowther, commander of the 9th Royal Hussars Armored Regiment, decried one British Centurion tank as worth two American Pattons.
He told 3,000 workers at the Centurion plants in Leeds Tuesday: "In Korea we did not want the Patton, but the Americans wanted the Centurions. They used to say, 'what wouldn't we do with a tank like that?'"
"In one battle 52 Allied tanks—half British and the rest American—were damaged by Chinese mines. All the British tanks got away under their own power. Every American machine had to be towed back."
"The whole world is awakening to the fact that Britain can produce the best tanks."
Another Hussars officer, one of 14 Korean veterans who toured the plant with Sir William, told reporters afterward:
"It's time people at home realized the truth. American tanks in Korea are no good. They are outclassed by ours in every way. "Ours climb better, move quicker and can get in and out of a tough spot before the Americans are half started."
An embarrassed official of the Ministry of Supply, which arranged the visit to the Leeds plant, said, "The visit was arranged so that someone from Korea could say thank you personally to those who made tanks. We did not know Sir William would speak out so strongly against our Ally."

A War Office spokesman commented that Lowther was "speaking for home consumption, after all."
"I suppose," added the official, "that he wanted to buck the workers up a bit."

Long Time No See, Say Cons

McALESTER, Okla., (AP)—Col. Jerome J. Waters Jr., warden at the Oklahoma State Penitentiary, was pleased with a bird house presented him by two long termers, but there was one hitch.
The holes for the birds weren't as large as a dime.
Waters pointed out to one of the prisoners the holes wouldn't even accommodate the tiny hummingbird.
"Well, warden," the prisoner replied, "We probably miscalculated because we haven't seen close to a bird for 15 years."
