

Pentagon Has New Worry, What'll They Do About A Replacement For Mr. Big?

WASHINGTON UP — The Pentagon is almost as anxious as the politicians over Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's plans.

If and when he returns home, the Pentagon will have to recommend a successor as supreme commander of Allied powers in Europe and also make other changes in the NATO command.

Washington talk puts heavy emphasis on the possibility of Gen. Matthew Ridgway, United Nations commander in the Far East, succeeding to any vacancy that may develop in the top European command.

But by no means ruled out are several other American generals, including Eisenhower's chief deputy, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther.

Ridgway's prominent position among those speculated on as an Eisenhower successor appears based on two primary factors: A brilliant record in World War II as a field commander plus the experience gained since he became commander last summer of the U.N. forces fighting the Communists in Korea.

His Far Eastern service also has provided him, say his advocates, with the seasoning needed in the political part of a dual military-political assignment like the European post.

Gruenther, a close personal friend of Eisenhower, has a reputation as a far-sighted planner and strategist. He has been called the "brains of the Army." But Gruenther's prospects for succeeding to the European command are handicapped by the fact he has never held a major field command, although he had a big hand in plotting strategy during World War II as a chief of staff.

Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is described as an unlikely part to any change in the European command in the immediate future.

President Truman, it is noted, wanted him so badly his present job that he reappointed Bradley for a second term as chairman.

Officials here refuse to consider seriously any possibility that a non-American might be named to the supreme command if Eisenhower leaves.

Kidney Slow-Down May Bring Restless Nights

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, headaches, dizziness and loss of pep and energy. Don't suffer restless nights with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 18 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!
