"I WAS A COMMUNIST FOR THE F.B.I."

Matt Cvetic, real life hero, discusses a script with screen and radio star, Dana Andrews, who will por-tray Matt in thrilling program starting tonight.

Violence reared its bloody head at one of the nation's largest indus-trial plants when Red elements instigated a riot there. Almost 200 men invaded buildings, swinging clubs and smoshing machinery. The melee that ensued resulted in four deaths and 39 injured, with tive men listed in serious condition.

Such a scene is characteristic of those to be enacted on "I Was a Communist for the F.B.I.," the most imely and powerful radio show in America, Starring Hollywood's Dona Andrews, this dynamic new series is based on the authentic true-life experiences of Matt Cvetic who posed es a communist for the F.B.I.

For nine agonizing years this man lived a double life. While living in constant fear of being discovered by the Reds, he pipelined their top secrets to the F.B.I. He suffered the torment of having his mother die thinking him a communist, his wife labeled him a spy, his son rejected and shunned him, his friends called him a traiter.

Portraying this new kind of American hero is Dana Andrews, the one actor who is ideally suited for this demanding part. He electrified audiences with his masterful and memorable performances in such vivid dramas as "The Fragmen," "The Iron Curtain" and "The Best Years of Our Lives," the Academy Award winner, and many others.

You will not want to miss a single startling episode of this new, great radio program—and the first thrilling program starts tanight. Be sure and have your set tuned in from the
