Maureen Finds Five Crowd On TV, Has Seven at Home

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Hollywood's champion mother of seven, Maureen O'Sullivan, is playing the mama of five kids in Hal Roach's "Children's Hour" films for TV. She says: "Five is such a crowd. I keep asking myself, 'Do I have TWO more than the group?'"

Still-gorgeous Maureen, the wife of Director John Farrow, has a theory about playing a mother—"I try not to be too nauseating and a classification for her career—'I'm an intermittent actress.' Her last movie was a year and a half ago, the one before that four years ago.

"It's funny," she told me, "but I seem to have time to work occasionally. I think the children are happy to get rid of me for a couple of days."

More children for Maureen? "I don't know," she said, "seven is a nice number."

Gloria Swanson and Elly Wilder were huddled over another movie idea before she left Hollywood. It was Wilder who dreamed up and directed "Sunset Boulevard" . . . "Once Upon An Evening" is the title of the screenplay that Sid Slayers is writing for Bing Crosby. A Crosby project, with Bing—not Paramount—footing the bill for the work.

Lou Costello was raving about the intelligence of Bing, the chimp who works with him in the Abbott and Costello TV film series. "Maybe," suggested a gagster, "the chimp will wind up producing the films."

"This chimp," spoke up Producer Alex Gottlieb, "is too bright to be a producer!"

There's no film comeback on tap for Brenda Marshall, wife of Bill Holden. She's decided to put her kiddies over her career and will

Fair Potato Price Forecast

CORVALLIS—Fairly good potato prices this year, the forecast Wednesday by M.D. Thomas, Oregon State College extension economist.

He said there is little chance that last winter's prices will be equalled, but that summer and early fall shipments should find better markets than last year.

He said that the country's potato growers indicated in March they planned to plant about the same acreage as in 1951. Thomas said he expected planting to be increased some this month and again when late seed goes into the ground.

Short Outage For Escapees

WALLA WALLA—Freedom was short-lived for six Washington State penitentiary inmates who went over the prison walls Wednesday.

Warden John Cranor said the men were captured and returned to the prison within 30 minutes. They were placed in isolation cells.

Cranor said the men made their break while working in the license plate mill. They used a steel ladder they had seized, he said, to climb over the wall behind the women's prison.

State patrolmen and other law enforcement officers joined prison authorities in searching for the escapees. They were found hiding in underbrush near the state game farm.

NEWS STRIKE

ROME—All Italy was without newspapers Wednesday because of a 24-hour strike for higher pay for newsmen and printers.

The work stoppage began after a breakdown Tuesday in negotiations between government representatives and the National Federation of Journalists.

Jesse Lasky, who goes way back in Hollywood's pioneer history, is penning his memoirs.

Nobody's saying boo about progress on the screenplay of "From Here to Eternity" at Columbia, but I worked this out of John Derek. "They're taking out the offensive stuff, but they're not losing the guts, I'd give my four false teeth to play Pruitt in it."

MGM has decided that Cyd Charisse has everything that Rita Hayworth has—and the order's gone out to build her to big stardom by the end of the year. . . . Hush-hush reason for the additional story footage changes being shot by Fox on "The I-Don't-Care Girl" biography of Eva Tangany, is the flock of Eva's relatives and former associates who have come forward with demands for money. . . . Fox wants Lauren Bacall's first picture to be a musical. The reason for her singing on Bing Crosby's recent airshow?

Producer Fred Finkelhoffe is offering everything in the book to Linda Darnell to make her Broadway lead opposite Ty Power in "Poppy Soldier," but the studio's shelving all publicity about her 34 western film leads at Republic. Carlan Balenda's now a dark blond
