KU Election Runoffs Set

Two election races at Klamath Union High School will have to be run off Monday in determining the president and vice president of the student body. The school's constitution calls for a clear cut majority for the winning candidate before he can be pronounced winner. Four other offices were decided in elections which involved some 1200 KUHS students. To be run off Monday will be the presidential race with Clayton Lannon and George Hanson vying for top position; Don Dexter and George Knight will fight it out for the first vice presidential chair. Other offices decided included: Betty Redfield, secretary; Louis Zarosinski, second vice president; Matt Del Fatti, business manager; and Lytle Mills, Yell Leader.

KU Musicians In Medford

In Medford today are 156 Klamath Union High School students—members of the band, orchestra and a cappella choir—who will compete in the Southern Oregon Large Group music contest. Another 62 student members of the boys and girls glee clubs will leave tomorrow to participate in the Rouse city. Solo and ensemble competition was held here two weeks ago.

The choir and band were to compete this morning; the orchestra tonight. Saturday events will all be held in the morning. All are being held at the Medford High School.

The students will travel in school buses, and will be accompanied by Andrew Loney Jr., director of Music Education; La Mar Jensen, Don McKenzie and John Dwydale, all music instructors at the high school. This is the first year the boys glee club will have ever participated in the district competition, and Loney said it has been several years since the girls club has competed. Last year the choir received a superior rating, while the band and orchestra received excellent.
