

TRAGEDY—An estimated 5,000 deer died this past winter on the concentrated deer range south of Tulelake, according to a recent survey by forest and game officials. The count was taken in the area to the north of last year's big Modoc fire. Here a group of nine carcasses deteriorate on a range grazed clean of browse and foliage. Backers to Seek Action On Reclamation Projects

WASHINGTON (AP)—Backers of reclamation projects will try again on May 7 to break through President Truman's "no new start" policy.

Sponsors of at least four Western irrigation projects will appear before the Senate interior appropriations subcommittee on that date in an effort to get enough money to begin construction.

The "no new start" policy has been in effect since the beginning of the Korean War. Under it, President Truman has refused to request Congress to appropriate money for any new project not related to the defense effort.

Opponents contend such a policy will stifle Western reclamation development and cause the dispersal of trained personnel now employed by the Bureau of Reclamation. They argue also that development of additional acreage is needed if the United States is to keep step with its growing food demands.

The Senate committee included funds for eight new projects in the Interior Department appropriation bill last year, but they were defeated on the Senate floor.

The House refused this year, as it did last year, to include money for any new projects.

JAPANESE COAL GOAL

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's ministry of international trade and industry has set a 1953 coal production target of 48 million tons—a 230 per cent boost over tonnage in 1945 when the Pacific war ended. Production in 1951 was 45 1/2 million tons.

It was understood that 1 1/2 million would be asked to begin work on the Kennewick project.

Rising told a reporter no decision has been reached as to the amount of the other requests.
