Tighter Grain Checks Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) said Wednesday a congressional probe of shortages in government grain has disclosed "extreme carelessness" in the whole storage setup.

A suggestion by the Agriculture Department that it begin a system of inspection of storage and warehouse facilities, Aiken added, "means hindsight is better than no sight at all."

Chairman Ellender (D-La.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee ordered a recess in public hearings late Tuesday until Thursday.

"Then we will get top level Washington officials," explain some of these contracts," Ellender said.

Both Ellender and Aiken showed great interest in testimony by Chicago Agriculture Department officials who said they had been directed to make special contracts.

State Prisoner Flees Crew

SALEM (AP) — La Verl Fred Bowles, 24, escaped Wednesday morning from a state penitentiary wood cutting crew working near Jefferson, 15 miles south of here.

Prison Warden Virgil O'Malley said Bowles was working under a gun guard, but ran off into the woods.

Bowles was received at the prison a year ago from Lincoln County to serve five years for burglary.

Farm Youths Going Abroad

CORVALLIS (AP) — Two Oregon International Farm Youth Exchange delegates will visit The Netherlands and Finland this summer.

Mrs. Winnifred Gillen, state 4-H agent at Oregon State College, said Wednesday Patricia Horning, 21, Sherwood, would go to The Netherlands and David Patterson, 21, Multnomah, to Finland.

They will spend four months working and living on farms there. They will leave in June after special training in Washington, D.C.

Their trips will be financed by the Oregon Bankers Association.

Oatis Release Still Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson said Wednesday the American government will never rest until Associated Press correspondent William Oatis is released from prison in Communist Czechoslovakia.

Oatis was arrested on April 23 a year ago and later tried and convicted on Red charges of espionage. He was given a ten-year sentence with a possibility of release in five years.

Acheson was asked at a news conference what the United States was doing about Oatis.

He replied that he could not disclose any specific steps which have been taken. Ambassador Ellis Briggs, Acheson went on, has been pressing vigorously to see Oatis and obtain his freedom.

Daring Men Bag Cougar

ALBANY, Ore. (AP) — When Roland Turpin and Wandford Pace came across a cougar, they didn't have a gun. They killed it anyway, using a car and rocks.

It appeared on the road ahead of them in the Cascade Mountains east of here, and Turpin, who was driving, managed to knock the big cat over with the car.

The cougar jumped up and scrambled up a high bank. Turpin scrambled right behind it. He saw it in brush, circled around and then charged, intending to flush the animal back to the road.

He got away with it. The animal fled, and Pace, who was waiting with rocks, pelted the cougar until it was stunned. Then he finished it off with more bullets.

For this they get $45 in bounties.
