Mason-Manning Nuptials In Sacred Heart Church

In Sacred Heart Church, April 19, 2 p.m., Clarissa Ellen Mason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burge Worden Mason, 403 Lincoln, and Daniel James Manning, USAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis D. Manning, 1745 Lakeview Avenue, exchanged nuptial vows before a gathering of over 250 guests. Rev. T. P. Casey officiated at the beautiful and impressive ceremony.

Given by her father in marriage, the bride was lovely in white Chantilly lace and pink nylon tulle over blush pink satin bodice and hooped skirt. The white lace extended into a full train. Her fingertip veil of blush pink illusion net was held by a head band of seed pearls. She carried a classic arm bouquet of Lily of the Valley and stephanotis centered with a large pure white orchid.

The beauty of the setting was accentuated with distinctive arrangements of pink and white snapdragons in the two front and two side altar bouquets. Beauty vases of the same flowers backed with woodwardia fern were in front of the two floor candelabra at either side. Two clusters of woodwardia fern were on corners of the front altar steps, and in front of another set of candelabra were clusters of woodwardia fern, all illuminated with lighted white tapers in the candelabra.

The white runner cloth down the center aisle was flanked with pale blue rope draped from pew bouquets of pink and white snapdragons marking every fourth pew. Maid of honor, Sally Barnhise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Barnhise, wore a white eyelet organdy over a hooped skirt of pale green taffeta with wide tulle sash and bow. She carried a colonial bouquet of sweetheart roses, feathered carnations surrounded with fleur-de-amour and hyacinth florets backed with pale green lace. She wore a Juliet cap of the same flowers.

Bridesmaids were Ann Egan, cousin of the bridegroom; Kathleen Craig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Craig, student at Lewis and Clark; Priscilla Meyer, San Francisco, former classmate of the bride at Stanford; and Joan Hottel, Sebastopol, also former Stanford classmate. All were dressed alike and the same as the maid of honor except that the white eyelet organdy was over pink. Their bouquets were fashioned of pale pink sweetheart roses surrounded by feathered carnations in the same hue and hyacinth florets backed with pale pink lace. Their Juliet caps were of the same flowers.

Best man, James DeChaineau, son of Mr. and Mrs. James V. DeChaineau, is also with the USAF Florence Station, Omaha.

Ushers were John Mason, brother of the bride; Andrew Honzel, former classmate of James at Santa Clara University, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Honzel; William Pickett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pickett, and Curtis Brotherton, cousin of the bridegroom, Seattle.

Susan Vandenberg was organist and the Madrigal choir sang "Ave Maria."

Altar boys were William Manning, brother of the bridegroom, and Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael B. May. Mrs. Mason, mother of the bride, was lovely in a mist-gray sheer nylon dress with long flowing skirt, matching shell hat and accessories. Her corsage was of sweetheart roses which matched the maid of honor's.

Mrs. Manning, bridegroom's mother, was charming in a long dress of navy blue starched lace, pink hat and navy accessories.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Yacht Club which was decorated with a profusion of blossoms, pink and white snapdragons and bridal wreath blossoms, with interest centered on the reception table.

Mrs. Burge Mason Sr., grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Howard Barnhise poured coffee;

CRATER 7 AUXILIARY

Regular meeting of Ladies Auxiliary, Crater 7, was April 24, in the IOOF Hall.

A special program honoring Ladies Jennie Hurn, Pearl Harris and Mary Pope included group singing of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," a Chopin waltz, piano solo by Lady Alma Cofer and a reading, "Cheap Paint" by Lady Bernice McCracken.

The honored members were conducted to the center of the floor by the officers of the day, Lady Elizabeth Ramsby presented Lady Jennie with a gift from the auxiliary. Lady Jennie served as secretary for 13 years and joined Crater 7 on December 14, 1927.

Lady Hazel McNeill presented a gift to Lady Pearl from her auxiliary and stated that it was honored to have one of its members in the Association of Oregon.

Junior Past President of the Association of Oregon, Lady Mae Anderson, expressed pleasure in presenting the auxiliary's gift to Lady Mary, her right aid in the Association of Oregon.

After the meeting refreshments were served from a table centered with a colorful Maypole.

On the refreshment committee were: Ladies Mary Pope, Bernice McCracken and Mae Anderson.

SADDLE CLUB

The annual "Outgoing Officers' Dinner" for the Klamath Saddle Club was given at Jene's April 27. Tables were decorated with flowers and tiny horses and cows. The centerpiece was a tan saddle flanked by miniature brown horses. Individual place cards were novel with hand painted brands and tiny tan saddles.

After dinner, each outgoing officer presented the symbol of her office to her successor and inquired her to the guests. Lorraine Emrick, outgoing president presented the Klamath Saddle Club gavel to the new president, Vi Ruge; Vi Hill, outgoing vice president handed Beverly Negrevski a new book of rules; Dorothy Kirkpatrick gave Darlene Blackman the secretary's notebook and Darlene Arnold turned over the Treasurer's book to Maureen Keener.

The tradition of the "Traveling Trophy" was carried on when the past holder, Lavyna Mattoon, presented the engraved trophy to Bonnie McMahon, the year's outstanding member. McMahon also received a sterling silver urn as a permanent token of good will from the club to which she has been such a faithful and good member.

There was much merriment as several husbands of members were surprised with novelty gifts for being "patient and helpful" to their wives during the past year's activities.

Present were: Mr. and Mrs. R. Ruge, Mr. and Mrs. D. Emrick, Mr. and Mrs. K. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. H. Kirkpatrick, Dr. and Mrs. G. Negrevski, Mr. and Mrs. D. Blackman, Mr. and Mrs. Wm.
