Lake Fishing Change Asked

Petitions are now being circulated asking the Game Commission to open Lake o' the Woods fishing season earlier than the date set for the opening this year.

Many of the 198 homeowners at the lake have signed the petition. Fishing season opens this year May 30, but the petition asks that in the future the season be opened around May 1.

The road to Lake o' the Woods resort has been opened and work rebuilding the lodge—burned last year—got underway this week.

The store is open for staples, and the lake is free of ice although about two feet of snow remains on the ground.

Re-construction of the lodge is to be complete this summer, and the building is to be slightly larger than the old building which burned.

The wall construction is of plywood and joists.

Several private docks at the lake are reported to have broken loose in high water and are floating on the lake.

Copco Tells Job Switch

TULELAKE—Charles A. Boyden employed by the California Oil Power Company's Medford Engineering Dept. since 1947 and more recently as an engineer in the North Umpqua project succeeds W. J. Shepard as Assistant Manager at Tulelake.

The announcement was made this week by S. I. Ritchey, District Manager.

Shepard was transferred to the Tokatee Falls project and with Mrs. Shepard left last week for his new assignment.

Boyden is a native of Medford, born in 1922. His early schooling was received there and he is a graduate of Oregon State College in 1947. He served in the Navy with the Seabees from 1943 to 1947, when he became associated with Copco.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyden will make their home in Tulelake.

Republicans Gain California Votes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Republicans gained nearly 1 million qualified voters while the Democrats lost 66,000, registration figures for California's June 3 primary election showed Friday.

Still leading in total registration by 863,652, the Democrats registered a total of 3,962,205 for the 1952 general election.

Republican registration rose from 1,944,512 to 2,192,208.

MOTHERS LANDSCAPE

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Washing muddy school clothes got three so the mothers of the Waterford HomeMakers Club in Spencer decided to cure the source of the trouble. They started a campaign to landscape the school grounds.

The soil was tested and seed sown. The women also furnished fertilizer and built a turn-around for the bus to save the grass. They are going to finish the job by planting shrubs.

Old Timer Makes Younger Pale With Daring Jumps

By J. CLARENCE MOORE
SEATTLE (AP)—Howard (Pop) Whittier of Seattle has his own idea for lending zest to the lives of elderly men forced into retirement.

At the ripe age of 64, he is planning to set a mark for them to shoot at — the moss, parachute jumps in a single day.

For two years Pop has been master-at-arms aboard a Navy transport, the Marine Phoenix, plying to Korea and Japan.

The ship went into temporary drydock this week, giving Whittier time for another thing at his first love — parachute jumping.

He plans to spend part of the time at Salem, Ore., seeing how many jumps he can make in a day.

RECORD
 If he performs as he usually does, the mark he sets won't be an easy one for oldsters to beat. He might just come up with a record for all ages.

In his last jumps with an air show bill more than two years ago, Pop was regularly beating young men in "races to the ground." His delay in opening was always just a little greater.

He doesn't think he's slowed up any in his two years aboard ship. "I've been keeping in shape running up the ladders," he explains.

At 64, Pop should have had enough adventure in the troop-his service. He took part in the Hungnam evacuation where transports took aboard thousands of U.S. troops cut off in North Korea.

Reared on an Oregon ranch in Hell's Canyon of the Snake River, Whittier got his first thrills as a rodeo performer.

He and a partner developed a face-to-face ride aboard a sunbathing bronc. He hasn't seen that stunt duplicated anywhere.

In between those experiences, Pop's 20-year career as an exhibition parachute jumper has given him plenty of adventure and a number of narrow escapes.

Once he got his chute open only 50 feet off the ground. That was an accident.

He was making a delayed opening jump at Kellogg, Idaho, in 1940. Leaping out at 1,500 feet, he found himself in a spin.

Trying to stop his gyrations to get set for the opening shock he became preoccupied with his efforts until, over one shoulder, he saw a hangar loom off his portable.

FAINTS
 He yanked the rip-cord almost as his feet hit the ground. Several women in the crowd fainted.

Pop has motion pictures to bear out that story.

Another time he wasn't as lucky. In the early days of his career, an old-timer parachute turned inside out on him at Boise, Idaho. As the ground came up with terrific speed, Pop yanked himself up the shroud lines to try to break the fall. He hit the ground with such force he spent several weeks in the hospital.

Experiences like that haven't made Whittier squeamish about jumping. At Shelton, Wash., in 1944, Pop was scheduled to jump with an ex-paratrooper. A 60-mile wind was blowing and the younger man backed out.

Whittier went ahead and made the jump. He landed in a wind-whipped tall fir. Volunteer helpers tried to extricate his costly parachute, but cut it to pieces in the process.

Sponsors of the air show presented him with a nylon parachute—the first he had ever owned.

Presidential Candidates Spur Oregon Campaigns

PORTLAND (AP)—With the Oregon primary election just one week away, candidates for the Republican presidential nomination have stepped up their campaign in the state.

Harold Stassen spoke Thursday at Reed College, Portland, and later in the day made two talks in Benton County.

Gov. Earl Warren of California spoke at Lewis and Clark college, Portland, and at a meeting of Multnomah County Republican Central Committee at Gresham, then flew to California. He was to return Friday to talk at Salem.

Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.), supporter of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, arrived in Portland Thursday. He was to speak at Medford and Ashland Friday.

Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, another candidate, also is touring the state.

He was put on the ballot in the primary and has urged support of Eisenhower. Morse is campaigning for delegate to the Republican National Convention.

Stassen, speaking at Corvallis, called for a return to the foreign policy of Theodore Roosevelt—"Speak softly and carry a Big Stick." Such policy would alienate the Chinese Communists' lack of respect for the U.S., he said.

Warren told Republicans they should assure voters that the party was "classless." If the people believe that the Republican party is a classless party, that it will treat all persons with equality, then the people will vote for it in November," he said.

Sen. Carlson told reporters who met his plane that Eisenhower is the only Republican who can carry some of the southern states. He said he was confident of the general's nomination and election.

Stassen was to speak Friday at Willamette University, Salem, where a mock Republican convention is scheduled for Saturday.

Carlson will be the convention keynoter and Morse chairman.

Reds Halting U.S. Patrols

BERLIN (AP)—Russian sentries barred regular western military patrols from the Berlin-Helmstedt Autobahn Saturday, and three western commandants of the city said they have called the Russian commander's attention to the matter. He is Gen. Vasily I. Chukov.

Patrol vehicles were stopped at the Berlin-Helmstedt autobahn as they started their routine daily patrols along the 110 miles between Berlin and the Helmstedt, the exit point from the Russian occupation zone to the British. Shift-faced Russian guards gave no reason for their action.

Regular truck and private vehicle traffic continued as usual, with only the normal stack-up of trucks at each entry where fussy Soviet guards check papers and cargoes. Berlin is a four-power island deep inside the Russian occupation zone.

A brief statement released by the Western allies disclosed they had had trouble about the patrol cars since Thursday night.

They said the action is believed due to a misunderstanding, since passage has not been refused at Soviet checkpoints to east-bound patrols.

Western officials clearly wanted to soft-pedal the latest tangle with Russian bureaucracy and contended they looked on the whole affair as a tempest in a teapot.

Western officials said they plan to do nothing more about the incident at present.

New Seed Tried in Willamette

EUGENE (AP)—Trial seed plots which may show the way to better alfalfa fields in the Willamette Valley have been planted by Lane County Agents O. S. Fletcher and W. B. Parker.

The two men planted 12 varieties of alfalfa and a plot of Granger lotus at the Clay Whitaker farm near Coburg with seed provided by the Oregon Experiment Station at Corvallis.

They said they want to find a type of alfalfa which will prove more satisfactory to Willamette Valley conditions.

Boats, Crews Win Salvage

PORTLAND (AP)—Salvage awards of $20,000 for two tug firms and 17 crew members were announced Friday by Federal Judge Gus J. Solomon.

The awards were made for aid to the steamship Winlow Homer which became disabled while crossing the bar at the mouth of the Columbia River Jan. 22.

Both tugs got lines aboard the stricken ship and towed it back to safety in the Astoria harbor. Tug companies and crew members later filed salvage claims.

The Upper Columbia River Towing Co., owner of the tug, Quenett, received $8,000. Capt. F. R. Hood, The Dalles, was granted $2,000 and the tug's three-man crew a total of $2,000.

Shipowners and Merchants Corp., San Francisco, owner of the tug Sea Lion, was granted $4,000. Capt. Edward Olson is to receive $1,000 and the 12 man crew will divide $3,000.

RED JAZZ
 BELGRADE (AP)—The newspaper Borba, voice of Marshal Tito's Communist Party, recently complained that there is too much "jazz." And jazz at that. Few who have listened to some attempts to strike the same notes as top American bands would disagree.
