Presidential Candidates Open Final State Drives

PORTLAND (AP) — Presidential hopefuls opened their final week of campaigning Monday for what could be a record primary election Friday.

More voters than ever before are registered in Oregon. The turnout could be the largest on record for a primary election. Most of the activity in the race for presidential nomination was among Republicans. Gov. Earl Warren of California toured the state. So did several prominent figures, campaigning for Gen. Dwight Eisenhower. Another candidate, Harold Blassen, was expected to return to Oregon Wednesday.

Tighter Oil Strike Called

DENVER (AP) — Union leaders called Monday for a tightening of a nation-wide strike of about 900,000 oil workers as union and industry officials headed for a Washington conference Tuesday.

Rising River Eases Off

PORTLAND (AP) The rising Columbia River eased off Monday after climbing past flood stage in the Vancouver, Wash., harbor. The river inched above the 15-foot flood level there Saturday night. It was up to 16 1/2 feet Monday, but little rise was expected in the next two days.

The conference was called by the Wage Stabilization Board to talk over ways and means of ending the walkout, now in its 13th day. The coalition of striking unions turned down a request by the board to send its men back to work, pending the conference. CIO Oil Workers International Union officials of eight midwestern states met at Toledo, Ohio, Sunday and agreed to tighten up picketing at all points where it may be legal to do so. Officials of western states which rely heavily upon motorists for their tourist trade expressed fears that the oil strike, if prolonged, would cut sharply into lucrative summer business. In California, the independent Union of Petroleum Workers signed an agreement for wage increases with the Standard Oil Co. of California. However, this union has not been involved in the strike called April 30.
