

YOUTH TRAPPED IN CREVASSE

In The Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS
From Washington:
Senator Taft of Ohio and Senator Ferguson of Michigan estimate that a constitutional amendment they propose would hold federal spending to about 25 billion dollars a year. It would prohibit the lawmakers from authorizing expenditures in excess of 25 percent of the estimated national income, except for military spending and interest payments on the federal debt.

Strike Ends At Basin Pine Mill

Klamath Basin Pine Mills resumed production today after being closed by strike of CIO woodworkers three weeks.
The local union and mill management reached an agreement over the weekend which gave the workers a 7-cent hourly pay boost effective back to April 1. Approved by the Wage Stabilization Board, three additional paid holidays, and increase of 2 cents hourly in night shift differential, and liberalized vacation benefits.

Oregon Helps Ike Close Gap

Joy Claims Red Denial Brazen Lie

MUNBAN, Korea (AP)—The top United Nations truce negotiator Monday labeled an "out and out" Communist denial that the Reds had agreed to Allied screening of captured Reds.
In the Panmunjom conference tent, Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior U. S. delegate, told the Reds:
"Had the results been to your liking you would have enthusiastically welcomed the product of the screening."
"BACKUP"
North Korean Gen. Nam Il replied:
"It is inconceivable and nobody could believe that our side who is firmly opposed to the retention of our captured personnel by your side under whatever name could have agreed directly or indirectly to your so-called screening."

Civil Rights Issue Spurs Demo Foes

By The Associated Press
A no compromise stand by President Truman on civil rights has put a new head of steam behind the free-for-all race for the Democratic presidential nomination.
And a weekend sweep of Oregon's 18 delegates to the Republican national convention by Gen. Eisenhower narrowed the GOP race between the general and Sen. Taft of Ohio.
This week's delegate harvest gets underway Tuesday in Montana, where the Democrats and the Republicans both hold state conventions.
During the week, 129 delegates are to be picked in six states scattered throughout the nation.
The Democrats will name 70 representatives to their national convention, and the Republicans 59.

Much as I would like to see government spending reduced, I think Mr. Taft and Mr. Ferguson are barking at the moon. As long as we the people continue to vote for spending, the government will go on spending.
The only way to stop spending is to vote out the spenders.

Orpington, England:
"The Orpington town council has sternly banned a 11 bitbug dancing in the town hall."
Morally bad?
Nope. The town engineer reported that local hoop-cats had BOUNCED THE FLOOR BOARDS LOOSE.

Princeton, Oregon:
"The Oregon Cattlemen's Association, meeting here last week, proposed that brand fees be raised on cattle and horses be TAXED to provide funds for an expanded brand inspection program."
Holy cow! Do these Oregon cattlemen mean they want to pay for an expanded brand inspection program THEMSELVES instead of asking Uncle to pay the bill?
I expect that's exactly what they mean. Cattlemen generally and Oregon cattlemen particularly are sound economic thinkers and haven't much use for government subsidies.

On the subject of subsidies, the cattlemen are evidently in agreement with those stanzas from Lydia Huntly Sigourney's poem, "The Camel's Nose."
"Through the open window's space
Behold, a camel thrust his face,
"My nose is cold," he meekly cried,
"Oh, let me warm it by thy side."
To evil habit's earliest wife
Lend neither ear nor glance nor
Choke the dark fountain ere it flows,
Nor e'en admit the camel's nose.

It might be added that the potato men admitted the camel's nose in the form of a government subsidy to maintain a floor under prices and eventually the camel nose or less crowded them out of house and home with a government CEILING on prices.

Los Angeles:
"It took an art dealer 30 minutes to convince customs officials that one of three bright-colored posters by famed French painter Henri Matisse ACTUALLY IS ART."
That's one time when I find I can agree with government officials.

More Blood Donors Sought

Blood donors are needed for the visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile Tuesday, according to word from Red Cross headquarters. Quota this month is 300 persons.
Donors will be processed as usual at the Armory from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. by a staff of physicians and nurses and Red Cross personnel. Time is about 45 minutes for the entire procedure.
The bloodmobile van is at Gilchrist today in response to a request from that area.
For appointment tomorrow call Mrs. Hugh Swain, 3211 or Red Cross numbers 7184 or 6286.

Ike Gets All GOP Delegates

PORTLAND (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower snatched all of Oregon's 18 delegates to the Republican national convention, and piled up a record vote in doing it.
Slowly-mounting returns Monday from the state primary election gave Eisenhower the largest total ever commanded by a Republican presidential candidate in an Oregon primary—152,272 votes. The count was about 90 per cent complete.
He outstripped the combined vote of his six opponents for the Republican nomination. Eisenhower won nearly 70 per cent of the total GOP vote. The few Taft delegates who were in the running were defeated.

Gov. Earl Warren of California had 37,187; Gen. Douglas MacArthur 16,324; Sen. Wayne L. Morse of Oregon 6,611; Harold Stassen 5,904; Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio 5,583 write-in votes; and William R. Schneider of St. Louis 346.
Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee won the state's 12 delegates to the Democratic national convention, getting about 73 per cent of the total Democratic votes.
He had 128,970 votes while his two unwilling opponents ran far behind. William O. Douglas, associate justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, had 26,671, and Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois 18,615.

Reds Routed By Filipinos

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Filipino raiders in grenade-bayonet charges drove Chinese Red defenders off an embattled hill on the Korea Central Front Monday.
It was the same hill west of Chonwon where men of the 20th battalion combat team said they killed or wounded every one of 40 Chinese at its top Sunday.
The tough Filipino raiders hit the Reds again Monday morning. The Chinese fled. The Filipinos withdrew shortly under Red mortar fire.
Later in the day a second Filipino patrol caught the Chinese snapping. The patrol hurled grenades and charged with fixed bayonets. The Chinese fled.
Ten Reds were killed in the two assaults. The Filipinos were wearing regular issue U.S. armored vests. None was killed, the U.S. Eighth Army said.
U.N. raiders Sunday fought into heavily fortified Communist bunkers on the Western Front.
They then directed U.N. artillery fire onto fleeing Reds. Allied troops used the sturdy Red underground shelters as protection from the rain of high explosives.
Vice Adm. Joseph J. Clark will assume command of the U.S. Seventh Fleet Tuesday.
He relieves Vice Adm. Robert P. Briscoe, who will take over from Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy as commander of Naval forces in the Far East.
Joy is returning to the U.S. to become superintendent of the Naval Academy.
Maj. Gen. Glenn O. Barcus has arrived in Tokyo on his way to Korea to take command of the Fifth Air Force.
Barcus will replace Lt. Gen. Frank P. Everest, who is being transferred to the post last held by Barcus as deputy commanding general of the Tactical Air Command, Langley Field, Va.

City Manager Question Next on Monday Forum

"Build the Basin," public service forum presented by the Herald and News and KFLW on Monday evenings, takes a holiday this week.
The combination last week of election excitement and vacations in the city school district may have added to this week's cancellation.
Putting together a "Build the Basin" program requires several days and the news room crew decided a holiday would be better than offering a hastily thrown-together program tonight.
A "Build the Basin" now being arranged for next Monday should be one of the most interesting and timely forums yet presented in the series.
The question will be: "Should Klamath Falls now switch to the city manager form of administration?"
This question was strongly pointed up in Friday's election. A city ballot measure calling for the increasing of the mayor's salary to $300 a month was overwhelmingly defeated. And the most popular argument heard against the measure was: "We need a qualified city manager, not a full-time mayor."
Mayor Bob Thompson himself opposed the $300 mayor plan and is a champion of the city manager form of government.
The mayor was the first person invited to be a member of next Monday's panel and he quickly accepted.
A great deal of care will be exercised in organizing the panel so that as nearly as possible, all angles of the important question may be adequately explored.

School Budget Voting Today

Voters of the Klamath County School district are balloting today on the district's 1952-53 budget which totals $1,370,747.04.
Balloting started at 2 p.m. standard time and will continue until 8 p.m. (3 to 9 p.m. daylight time) in all elementary schoolhouses of the district.
The vote is on the question of approving the budget as published and upon levying the property tax to raise the amount in excess of the sum the school district may raise by taxation without specific vote. That amount is $334,628.19.
City elementary and high school budgets for the coming fiscal year were approved by voters of the city districts last week, but the city school elections in that no method of ascertaining the qualifications of persons who came to vote was in evidence. There has been talk of a court contest of the election on ground that it was not conducted according to law.
All persons who are registered voters and who live within the district are eligible to vote. In theory, a public hearing on the city school budget is scheduled for 2 p.m. (standard time) at each polling place.

Safe Crackers Raid Garage

Safe crackers made off with $181.78 from Jim Olson Motor Co., 316 E. 6th, over the weekend.
The robbery was discovered early this morning by Fay Hall, a parts department employee.
It was the second safe job in this area within a week. Last weekend approximately $1,600 was taken in a safe job at the Big Y market at the Lakeview junction.

Official Vote Count Begins

The official tally of how people in Klamath County voted in Friday's primary election began today, and probably will take most of the week. The work is being done at County Clerk Charlie DeLap's office.
However, the official tally was not expected to change any of the results announced on the basis of the Herald and News unofficial count of the vote Friday night and Saturday.
Approximately 6605 Democrats voted out of 11,524 registered, approximately 6100 Republicans voted out of 8155 registered.
Here in Klamath Falls about 5575 voters turned out from the 8906 registered.

Supreme Court Takes Recess

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court recessed Monday until next Monday without handing down a decision in the historic steel seizure case.
The tribunal could announce a ruling before its next opinion day but whether it will do so is not known.
The nine justices have had the case since arguments ended last Tuesday on whether U. S. District Judge David A. Pine ruled correctly in holding President Truman's seizure of the steel mills "illegal and without authority of law."

Solid Ice Walls Hold Collegian

SPRIT LAKE, Wash. (AP)—A mountain silence cloaked a desperate effort Monday for the rescue of a University of Washington student from a crevasse 8,000 feet up the icy slopes of Mount St. Helens.
The youth wedged between two walls of solid ice was Art Jessett, 20-year-old son of the Rev. and Mrs. Thomas E. Jessett of Seattle.
He was lost through the snow "bridge" across the crevasse Sunday while trailing three companions on a descent from the 9,671-foot peak. They believed he was about 90 feet down.
Hopes for his survival between the icy walls dwindled with each passing hour.
An experienced mountaineer party started out before dawn today from Sprit Lake, near the mountain base. The peak is about 50 miles south of Mt. Rainier and about the same distance northeast of Portland, Ore.

Indications were that it would take several hours for news of rescue or success to come from the mountain. It was a several hours' hike from the scene and a 46-mile drive to the nearest telephone.
The last contact with the trapped youth was late Sunday.
Jessett called to his companions that he was trapped in the narrow ice hole about 15 feet below the surface of the snow. He said he thought he had a broken arm. Then the ice about him melted from the heat of the body he called that he was slipping.
The party only rope went with him. It was looped about Jessett's shoulder.
Mountaineers from Seattle and Portland were called to base camp here at 4 a.m. PDT to aid in the rescue attempt.
State Patrolmen and members of the Mt. St. Helens ski patrol labored until nightfall Sunday without being able to reach the youth.
Bruce Ray, Seattle, a member of Jessett's party, said Jessett was about 300 feet behind the group when he disappeared.
When they returned to look for him, they found only a hole about the size of a man in the snow. Raby said the crevasse had been covered by the snow.
Raby said Jessett called: "I'm slipping."
HELP
While Raby skinned down the mountain for help, another member of the party, Ford Oliphant, 20, of Chehalis, intercepted six other climbers on the mountain and borrowed a rope.
Oliphant was lowered into the ice hole as the others braced the rope with ice axes.
Oliphant said he found an ice ledge about 60 feet below the rim of the hole where he was able to stand. He said the hole was about the size of his body.
"But as I stood there, the heat from my body melted the ice and I kept slipping," he said.
Oliphant said he heard two groans from about 30 feet below him then silence.
He said the walls of the crevasse were of solid ice from 10 feet below the surface. It was terribly cold.
