

Britain Scaling Down Social Medicine Setup

LONDON (AP) — Britain's socialized medicine program will be scaled down Sunday. For the first time in four years, Britons will have to pay directly for some health services, such as false teeth and wigs. Winston Churchill's government cut back the tax-supported program to save money. Government ministers expect to save 50 million dollars a year through the new changes. The hard core of the program is not destroyed, however, and health minister Ian MacLennan said in a speech "the government does not declare, and it is not part of conservative policy or philosophy, that charges must remain a permanent part of the national health service." Socialized medicine was the most popular measure of the former labor government. Its principle has become widely accepted. About 95 per cent of the people use the health service. About 95 per cent of the country's 11,000 dentists, 90 per cent of the 23,500 general medical practitioners and practically all the 16,000 druggists and 7,000 opticians participate. The new charges include: Up to $12.60 for false teeth, up to $2.80 for a course of dental treatment, 14 cents for each prescription, $8.40 for surgical boots, $2.80 for surgical supports, and varying costs for a private room in a hospital for many cases. There still will be no direct charge for a doctor's services, surgery, hospital care, or laboratory work.

Stocks

NEW YORK (AP) — Principal stock and commodity markets were closed Saturday in an extension of the Memorial Day holiday. Saturday also saw inauguration of the summer schedule of Saturday closings that will extend through September for many exchanges. There will be exceptions to the Saturday closings during the summer months due to special situations. Among the exchanges that will operate are the Chicago Board of Trade and Winnipeg grain market. Various livestock markets also will operate on an unofficial basis.

LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO (AP) — Eastern order buyers again were aggressive buyers of hogs this week and barrows and gilts advanced 25 to 30 cents while sows were ahead 25 cents. Light weight butcher hogs, best qualified for shipping, showed the largest upturn. About 10,000 head were loaded out of this market for the east. Order buyers took virtually all the choice light weights at prices as much as 25 cents above what local packers were bidding. In the cattle section choice and prime steers over 1,150 pounds slumped mostly 75 cents to $1.00 while all other weights and grades closed weak to 50 cents lower. Prices of commercial steers were closer to those of choice and prime grades than in several months. Feeder steers scaling 300 pounds and more weak to 50 cents lower. Fat lambs closed the week steady to weak. Spring lambs continued scarce and closed steady, but slow. Sheep weakened 50 cents or more.

Search Halted For LA Man

YREKA — Search has been halted for the body of Omar Richard Smith, 44, of Los Angeles, who is believed to have fallen into Dillon Creek, 28 miles beyond Happy Camp, and drowned last Tuesday. Smith and a friend from Los Angeles, James W. Brown, along with Smith's brother-in-law, Edward Aubrey, had gone to Dillon Creek where Aubrey was to show them some steelhead fishing, according to Siskiyou county Sheriff's report. Brown and Aubrey went down into the creek canyon, but Smith stayed above on a bluff. Some time later, Brown and Aubrey reported they heard him calling for help but by the time they had climbed back out of the canyon, Smith was gone. The supposition is that he fell from the bluff into the creek. Officers and volunteer searchers hunted for the body from Tuesday night until Friday, dragging the creek and blasting, but were unable to locate a body. A net has been strung across the creek near where it joins the Klamath River. The place where Smith disappeared is about a mile upstream on the Dillon from its junction with the Klamath. Aubrey, an Indian boy, lives in that vicinity. Smith is survived by his wife, Aubrey's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Aubrey Smith, and his mother, Katie Smith, both of Los Angeles. Smith was a construction tunnel miner.

Romans Nix Gide Works

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church has placed on its index of forbidden literature all the books of the late French writer Andre Gide, winner of the 1947 Nobel prize for literature. The action was taken by the congregation of the Holy Office, which last Monday placed a similar ban on the works of Alberto Moravia, Italian best-selling novelist. It means Roman Catholics are forbidden to read the works of either of these writers. Gide's works shocked many readers with their unabashed discussion of theft, murder and homosexuality. But his works have been translated into many languages and published in many countries throughout the world.

Many Proposals Laid No Final Strike Solution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts in Congress to find a new method of dealing with national emergency strikes have produced a rash of legislative proposals, but a final answer appears to be far off. In the opinion of congressional labor experts, Congress is not likely to take any decisive action this year despite weeks of hearings by several committees of both houses. The question is this: How far and in what way should the government intervene in deadlocked labor disputes which threaten to erupt into strikes and imperil the national welfare and security? A bill introduced by Sen. Morse (R-Ore.), appears to be getting the most serious attention in the Senate. Morse's proposal would allow Presidential seizures up to 60 days in strikes or threatened strikes which seriously affect the country's security. The seizure could last longer with congressional approval or Congress could void it. Industry and union officials who have testified on the Morse bill have all been against it. But Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) says he thinks it is the "best thought-out" proposal yet offered. The measure would set up an emergency board to study the dispute and make recommendations for settlement. During seizure, the government could raise the wages of employees and put into effect the board's recommendations. It could also impound all profits, use them for operating expenses and pay the owners compensation. National Association of Manufacturers representatives testified they felt the bill would not contribute to the settlement of labor disputes. A CIO leader testified that some provisions of the bill were "utterly obnoxious" and that its "disadvantages outweighed by far its desirable provisions." The AFL agreed.

Wallace Sees Great Danger

KATONAH, N. Y. (AP) — Former Vice President Henry A. Wallace has made a plea for national unity regardless of differences of opinion about the Korean war and other international events. "One thing on which 99 per cent of us can agree is that the Anglo-Saxon way of life is more imperiled than at any time in many generations," Wallace said Friday in a Memorial Day speech. He mentioned politics only briefly, saying that the ranks of both the Republican and Democratic parties are deeply split. Wallace was the Progressive party candidate for President four years ago but broke with the party when it would not support the United States position in Korea. The former vice president under the late President Roosevelt spoke to about 1,000 persons at the Van Memorial Monument here. He lives nearby on his farm at South Salem, N. Y.

Strange Mine Puzzles Japs

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese maritime officials puzzled Saturday over a strange report floating mine which 66 minesweepers' bullets could not penetrate, the newspaper Yomiuri reported. The mine was found bobbing in Tsuraru Strait, between the islands of Hokkaido and Honshu. Oblong, 100 meters long, it was reported to have been exploded by rifle fire. The object was towed to the port of Hakodate, after bullet after bullet bounced off it. Maritime officials have ventured no opinions on the origin of any floating mine discovered, except to say they are not Japanese.

Cooperation Saves Yacht

NANAIMO, B. C. (AP) — An American yacht was saved Friday through close co-operation between Canadian operators of the United States Coast Guard and two Canadian craft, its skipper said Saturday. W. E. Kershaw, of Yakima, owner of the cruiser Serenade II, said he phoned for help on his ship-to-shore telephone when the propeller struck a submerged deadhead about 14 miles from Nanaimo late Friday. The ship started sinking rapidly by the stern. "We got fine co-operation from the Seattle marine operators who got us in touch with the Coast Guard," he said. A U.S. Coast Guard plane located the craft and directed the Boom Chain Transportation Company's tug Burnaco to the scene. On board the yacht with Kershaw were his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cody, also of Yakima. Kershaw and Cody bailed water out of the engine room compartment at the stern of the vessel for almost two hours before being taken in tow. A diesel pump was put aboard by the stern. The Serenade now is in drydock undergoing repairs. Kershaw could not give an estimate of the damage.

Sheep Slated For Atom Test

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Sheep will be exposed to an atomic blast and a thousand troops will advance into the blast area immediately after the detonation in a daring new test as the Nevada proving grounds. This next explosion in the spring series probably will be set off next Sunday. The test will be in foxholes about four miles from Ground Zero at the time of the explosion. After the detonation they will start their maneuvers toward the blast area. Brig. Gen. Harry P. Stork, in charge of Army phases of the test, was asked by newsmen if animals would be used under fire and authorized the following quotation only if used in its entirety: "Since we obviously cannot expose humans to any practical tests we are using the warm-blooded animal available and closely resembling a human being. The use of these sheep will undoubtedly result in the saving of American lives if the atomic blast is ever used in the vicinity of our troops in war-time." "The sheep are handled as humanely as possible and receive the same care and protection that would be available to soldiers under similar conditions. After the blast they are given priority attention by our veterinarian who is a member of the control group, the first group to approach the Ground Zero area after the shot."
