KFPA Quells Forest Fire

The Klamath Forest Protective Association, downed its second forest fire of the present season and the fourth of the year yesterday on Johnson Creek, near the Klamath County-Jackson County line.

Foresters said a fisherman apparently tossed a cigaret into nearby brush instead of into the stream. His tracks could be traced along the stream's bank. Fire guards had to wade waist-deep water to get at the blaze, which was stopped after attaining only one-tenth of an acre in size.

All four fires so far this season have been man caused.

... made with

Kitchen Craft Flour

Clever bell cakes to ring your praises at a shower or anniversary! They slice white for the bride, spice for the groom. Simple to make, too. And good! Kitchen Craft Flour works wonders—with any recipe. That's a guarantee! This flour and your other rich, fresher ingredients give real home baking. It tastes better, costs less.

RECIPE: Have all ingredients at room temperature. Pre-heat oven to 350°. Line bottoms of 2 pans (13" x 9 1/4" x 2") with waxed paper.

BRIDE'S CAKE—STEP 1: Place 3/4 c. shortening in bowl. Sift together 3 cups sifted Kitchen Craft Flour, 6 tsp. baking powder, 1/2 tsp. salt, and 2 1/4 c. sugar into bowl. Add 1 c. milk, 1 1/2 tsp. vanilla. Beat 2 minutes—medium strokes a minute by hand. Scrape bowl and beaters.

STEP 2: Add 6 egg whites and 1/2 c. more milk. Beat 2 more minutes. Scrape bowl and beaters. Pour into one pan. Bake about 45 min. Cool 5 min. Turn over on rack; cool thoroughly.

GROOM'S CAKE—Use bride's recipe with these additions. Sift with the dry ingredients 1 1/2 tsp. cinnamon, 1/2 tsp. allspice, 1/4 tsp. cloves. Then add 1 cup raisins and 1 cup chopped nuts.

To shape into bells: Make a bell pattern from paper. Place on cakes and cut around it. Ice cakes with 7-minute icing and decorate with round silver candies.

• Idea: Decorate bell cakes to strike a new note on other special occasions, too—like 4th of July, Christmas, New Year's, and Servicemen's parties.

Automotive Expert Sees New Powerful Car Fuel

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—New chemical compounds with tremendous expansion rates are being considered as the power source of automobiles of the future.

If the hopes of engineers working with these compounds are realized, miles per gallon of fuel no longer will be one of the motorist's worries. He will get virtually unlimited mileage.

Objective of the research which has been going on for more than five years was explained informally Wednesday by one of the engineers attending the summer meetings here of the society of automotive engineers.

Asking that he remain unidentified, he explained that tests now are being made with what is known as a "closed circuit" engine.

That is a power plant in which there is no exhaust and in which the acceleration characteristics of steam power are gained.

But the power is not steam. It is a liquid compound which is boiled into vapor, released into the engine's cylinder head, then passed through a radiator to be cooled to its liquid form and returned to the supply tank.

Because it is sealed in the system, there is no loss of the chemical compound. However, there is a small consumption of some form of fuel—gasoline or electricity—used to operate the heating unit that converts the liquid initially into vapor.

The engineer who outlined the project emphasized that the proposed method of obtaining power doesn't contemplate "perpetual motion" and long has been under study in Europe as well as the United States for use in self-propelled vehicles.

He said the engine under test had an internal heat about one-third that of a conventional auto engine and that it could be adequately air-cooled.

Funeral
KNIGHT

He said the engine under test had an internal heat about one-third that of a conventional auto engine and that it could be adequately air-cooled.
