Steel Pickets OK Shipment

SEATTLE (AP) — Steelworkers picketing the Bethlehem Pacific Coast Steel Corp.'s fabricating plant here opened their lines Thursday to permit shipment of about $2,500 worth of angle irons needed for Pacific Northwest power line construction.

Union members loaded one shipment of angle irons to be shipped to the Hungry Horse power dam in Montana. The steelworkers also cleared five tons of angle irons for Seattle City Light's Ross Dam in Northwest Washington.

Tom Kennedy, financial secretary of Steelworkers' Local 4481, said the union agreed to clear the steel when it was learned it would cost the government $22,000 for every day's delay in delivering the steel in Montana.

City Light officials said failure to obtain delivery of the steel parts would have cost City Light $5,000 a day on construction of a power line from Ross Dam to Seattle.

Calif. Spud Prices Gain

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — With the removal of price ceilings growers' prices for potatoes have suddenly skyrocketed in Kern County, the nation's "potato bin" in May and June.

The Office of Price Stabilization ordered the limits removed Thursday and overnight the prices jumped from $2.35 per 100 pounds to $5 and in some cases $7.

Marketing sources said the boost might be reflected in retail prices soon, possibly Saturday.

Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall said he ordered controls on potatoes removed in response to a vote in the Senate calling for removal of ceilings on fresh fruits and vegetables.

Kern County is an important source of potatoes in the spring because the crop here fills in between the last of the winter spuds and the first of the summer harvest.

Argument Ends In Shooting Death

The shooting occurred in the Evans apartment in Northeast Portland. Mitola said he was told Baker knocked Mrs. Evans down twice before the shooting with a 30-30 rifle.

All are Negroes.

Training Battle Fatal to Soldier

FORT DIX, N. J. (AP) — A 20-year-old Army Signal Corps officer candidate was killed Friday night by a .30 caliber machine gun bullet while undergoing night infiltration course training, the Army announced.

The Army identified the victim as Tommy V. Abercrombie, of Midland, Tex.

In infiltration training, men crawl on the ground under overhead fire of live ammunition, which the Army said is fired with a safety margin so the guns cannot change trajectory. An investigation into the cause of the accident was started.

Trophies For Contest Set

Three trophies will go to the winner of the Oregon Guernsey Cattle Club and Klamath Dairyman's Association judging school scheduled for Monday's dairy field day here.

The trophies will be rotating, and will be awarded by age groups. The school and field day will begin at the Adamsdale Guernsey Farm on Homedale at 9:30 a.m. At 10:30 it's slated to continue from Rededale El Rason near Merrill where most of the makings of a lunch will be furnished.

Visitors are asked to bring sandwiches only. The whole tour is wide open to all persons interested in dairying.

The dairymen have issued an open invitation to consumers to inspect facilities—the source from which they get much of their dairy products.

The judging competition is open to all attending, and FFA and 4-H club members are especially urged to participate. Official judges will be Elmer Meadows, field representative of the American Guernsey Cattle Club, and Harold Ewalt, Dairy specialist from Oregon State College.

Ridgway Warns Reds During Normandy Visit

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
NORMANDY BEACHES, France (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway marked the eighth anniversary Friday of the Normandy D-Day with a warning to the "lords of communism" that another war "would bring dreadful suffering to us, but it would bring destruction to them and their power."

Ridgway spoke at ceremonies on Utah Beach commemorating the thousands who died there in the June 6, 1944, invasion that launched the final conquest of Nazi Germany.

The general himself parachuted at the head of his 2nd Airborne Division behind the German lines at nearby Sainte Mere Eglise, several hours ahead of the invasion waves.

"The last time I came as one of thousands to wage war," the new supreme allied commander in Europe said. "This time I come to wage peace."

Ridgway said the nations of the West now have banded themselves together in North Atlantic treaty alliance "whose sole and enduring aim is to maintain the freedom and to observe the peace we have so lately re-won at so fearful a cost."

The NATO commander said the nations of the West would "gather the strength we have pledged to one another and set it before our people and our lands, as a protective shield until reason backed by strength halts further aggression—until issues can be settled by negotiation, not by bomb and bayonet—until we can live in honored peace, free from organized terrorism."

The general also arranged to lay wreaths at other historical points along the invasion beaches during the day — at Milestone Zero, start of the "Liberty Highway" route of victory through France to Germany; at monuments and military cemeteries

Ridgway was made an honorary citizen of Sainte Mere Eglise in a short ceremony on the steps of the old city hall.

An enthusiastic audience, including score of schoolchildren, shouted their welcome and threw flowers as he passed.

Before revisiting Sainte Mere Eglise, he visited Fort Winston, the spot at Arranches where British and Canadian swarmed ashore on D-Day.

He was on the waterfront steps to greet British First Lord of the Admiralty James Thomas, who came ashore in a "duck" from a destroyer.

On the way to the cliff overlooking the beach, Gen. Ridgway paused at the grave of Gen. Theodore Roosevelt Jr.
