PRESIDENTS—Frank Reynolds and Mrs. Pat Henry are the new presidents of the Fraternal Order of Eagles and its Auxiliary, respectively. They were installed Friday night during ceremonies at the FOE hall.

No Motive For Killing

SALEM (P)—Police Tuesday still had not found a motive for the ax slaying here over the week end of 81-year-old Mrs. Susan A. Litchfield.

A roomer, Harold Shell, 30, found her body in a woodshed near her modest Salem rooming house Sunday. She had been struck 12 times with a sharp instrument, apparently an ax or hatchet.

Police said they had found blood specks and a bone sliver in the bathroom of the Litchfield home. They speculated that the killer had washed up after slaying the woman.

Brutus Ashcroft, accused of the gunshot slaying of a Silverton constable in another weekend tragedy, Monday was given 10 days to enter his plea.

The constable, Emery J. Jackson, was shot and killed in the Ashcroft home at Silverton Sunday. Mrs. Ashcroft, wife of the accused man, said Monday that earlier reports that she had called the constable because her husband was quarreling with their son-in-law were not true.

She declined to say who called Jackson to the Ashcroft home or why.

MANAGER—Earl Cavin is the manager of the new Oregon Food Store at 1315 Oregon Avenue. The store has its formal grand opening all this week.

GREETINGS

MANILA (P)—All male U.S. citizens between 18 and 26 living in the Philippines were told Monday by the American embassy they must register next month under the Selective Service Act.

However, the embassy said there is no plan to induct Americans abroad into the armed forces.

Mae West Returns to Films In Play Called 'Male Harem'

By IRSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Exclusive by Yours: Mae West has finally found the movie script that will bring her back to the screen—"The Male Harem," by Jerry Adelstein. It's a story about a sassy British duchess who's captured by pirates in 1799, turns buccaneer herself and captures the handsome men who sail the seas as her love prisoners. Wow!

Paramount and Irving Berlin are huddling about a film musical titled "White Christmas," a repeat co-starring film for Bing Crosby and Fred Astaire, who clicked together in another Berlin musical, "Holiday Inn."

Cracking-voiced Joan Davis and radio comic Jim Backus are teaming up for a domestic-comedy telefilm series titled, "Married Joan." But there are no plans for Joan's boy friend, Danny Elman, to be about the title.

Discounting marriage reports, Joan grinned: "After all, we've only been engaged five years."

Kathryn Grayson is hiding a romance with a famous Hollywood name who's absolutely free to pop the marriage question. . . . Liz Scott will be the glamor girl in "Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis' 'Scared Stiff' now that the boys have kissed and made up with Producer Hal Wallis. Paulette Goddard played the role in the original version with Bob Hope. It was titled, "Ghost Breakers."

"Movietime, USA," is a great idea—but stars sent to the hinterlands of being given enough time to sell the idea that "movies are better than ever." That's the lament of Pat O'Brien, just back from a junket, who charged: "The troupe I was with did 68 stands in six days. It was ridiculous. We hardly had time to say 'Hello.'"

A unit publicity man was assigned at the last minute to accompany Marilyn Monroe to Niagara Falls for filming of "Niagara." His No. 1 job: Keep her pressed away from her except for scheduled interviews.

Rosetta Duncan of the famous Duncan sisters, has been told by doctors that she has a throat nodule and may have to undergo surgery. John Barrymore Jr.'s 4-F classification by the military will stick. A scarred shoulder and silver plates from a football injury. Susan Cabot, who divorced her artist hubby some months back, is on the verge of reconciling with him.

Elonde Jane Kean, who's saying she may be Mickey Rooney's next wife, is in the cast of his new Columbia film, "All Ashore." Meanwhile, his almost-ex, Martha Vickery, has switched agents, added five pounds to her shapely frame and comments: "What do I think about Mickey marrying Jane Kean? All I can say is that I hope he has a safe and sane Fourth of July."

Another Station Bought By Allen

SALEM (P)—Portland radio station KBKO has been bought by W. Gordon Allen and Associates, Allen said here Monday.

The Allen concern now operates stations KGLA at Lebanon and its building station KSGA at Redmond.

Former owners of KBKO are Harold Kriger and Gordon Bambrick, who established the station in 1948 as the Mercury Broadcasting Co. It operates at 1,900 watts on 1,290 kilocycles.

Terms of the sale, which is subject to FCC approval, were not reported.

leading, "How to Win Friends With Ava and Frankie."

"Can't that singer now be called 'The Man of Extinction?'"

Vic Damone and Joan Benny have a date in Europe. Pretty Joan, as good as engaged to Vic, was promised the trip last year by Papa Jack when she agreed to delay their marriage until her graduation from college.

Gary Cooper's been his silent self about his big secret, but now it can be told that his partner in his new independent film set-up will be Ernest Hemingway. Cooper and the novelist will team up to film three—maybe more—Hemingway short stories against authentic back grounds, Cooper, by the way, won't have to undergo surgery for his uclers, after all, and explains it with: "I just stopped worrying about things."

Bob Mitchum ready to junk his movie career? The word's been printed and whispered, but it's Bob himself saying: "Look, I was ready to quit pictures the day I started. But I can't quit. I need the dough."

It's a light comedy—his first—for droopy-eyed Bob, with Joan Simmons as his co-star, in RKO's "Beautiful but Dangerous."

"The story's a little fantastic," he whispered. "I'm playing a country doctor—but it's fun."
